Britain Nearing Last of Loan As Dollar Exchange Is Banned; Ready to Trim Buying in U.S.

Mid-August Report Puts Corn Crop at 11-Year Low

Forecast Threatens Dollar-Dozen Eggs, Meat Price Jump, Grain Export Cut

The smallest corn crop in 11 years—since the drought year of 1936—was forecast yesterday by the Government Crop Reporting Board.

The report was greeted with gloomy predictions as to next year's supplies of meats, poultry, eggs and dairy products.

If its present demand keeps up, agricultural economists predict higher prices for all such products next year, with $1-a-dozen eggs freely spoken of.

In some quarters at the Department of Agriculture it was stated that the forecast may force an early re-appraisal of America's grain export program, now running at an all-time high rate of 650 million bushels a year.

The official forecast predicts a yield of only 2437 million bushels—the first time in five years the crop has fallen below three billion bushels.

223 Million Drop In 2 Weeks

It reported a drop in corn prospects of 223 million bushels between August 1 and August 15, due to hot, dry weather in the Corn Belt.

The estimate is for a crop 850 million bushels below last year's record of 3287 million bushels. It is 414 million bushels below the figure set earlier in the year by the Department of Agriculture as the minimum necessary to maintain this country's present production of meat, poultry and dairy products.

It is 564 million bushels below the Government's goal of three billion bushels.

Grain markets yesterday indicated that the drop in corn prospects was expected. Both corn and oats set new record highs on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Corn reached $2.45 a bushel. The highest price of corn previous to this year was $1.99½, in 1919. Oats went up to $1.08⅞. The previous high for oats was $1.08½, in 1920.

More Wheat to Livestock

Grain experts fear that one reaction to the severe drop in corn prospects will be greater feeding of wheat to livestock. In planning this year's exports of wheat, the Government estimated that about 220 million bushels from the year's yield would "disappear"—in other words, largely fed to poultry and livestock.

In the absence of corn, the Nation's basic feed crop, it is feared this "disappearance" may increase several hundred million bushels. If this should take place, it might cut down the Nation's supply of

Va. Inspection Period Extended For Two Months

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—Col. C. W. Woodson, jr., superintendent of State Police, today announced an extension of 60 days on the current inspection period for motor vehicles.

Woodson said the additional period was being made "of sufficient duration" to complete the program and he warned that the public should not anticipate any further extension.

The current inspection period started July 1 and will end now on October 31.

Woodson said completed records covering 250,000 inspections already were on file at State Police headquarters and that another 50,000 probably were ready for return by the appointed inspection stations.

The cost of putting vehicles into shape has risen greatly over previous years, the superintendent of police stated, but added that this was anticipated due to the age of many vehicles, added increase in labor costs and the fact that many owners had permitted their vehicles to run down mechanically.

...ead at 69; White Supremacy Advocate

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

Senator Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi, vitrolic advocate of white supremacy, died yesterday still barred from his seat in the Eightieth Congress.

Death came for the 69-year-old veteran of tumultuous political wars and filibuster at 3:05 p. m. (EST) in Foundation Hospital, New Orleans, from the effects of cancer of the jaw and mouth.

Immediate cause of his death was believed by physicians to have been "progressive heart failure." He was stricken last Sunday by a pulmonary embolism, one day after he made his last public utterance. It was a gesture toward reconciliation with Negroes whom he had so often denounced.

The one-time chairman of the Senate District Committee and "Mayor of Washington," who frequently announced he would dedicate his life to keeping suffrage from the District because of its Negro residents, permitted himself to be interviewed by a Negro editor just before his fatal seizure.

After refusing to admit any reporters to his bedside, last Saturday he called in Leon L. Lewis, managing editor of the Negro South. Lewis said Bilbo told him:

"I am honestly against the social intermingling of Negroes and whites. But I hold nothing personal against Negroes as a race."

"Do you believe Negroes should have indiscriminate use of the ballot?" Lewis asked.

"Yes," replied Bilbo, "I believe Negroes should have that right, and in Mississippi, too—when their main purpose is not to put me out of office and when they won't try to besmirch the reputation of my State."

As far as is known, these were

Real Estate Probe Turns Nation-Wide

Grand Jury Calls Former Chairman Of Association's Rates, Rules Group

By Charles E. Davis, Jr., and Conrad P. Harness
Post Reporters

The grand jury investigation of real estate dealers which was launched suddenly and mysteriously here Wednesday by the Justice Department took a national turn yesterday.

Developments seemed to indicate that it is not only the Washington Real Estate Board and its policies which are under scrutiny, but those of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and its 930 member boards throughout the country as well.

One of three witnesses who testified before the grand jury yesterday was Leon Todd of Camden, N. J. Todd is former chairman of the rules, rates and customs committee of the national association.

Buchanan Called

Others called before the grand jury yesterday were J. Wesley Buchanan, Washington realtor, and Miss Dixie Duke, an executive of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

There is still no definite count on how many realtors have been subpenaed to appear before the grand jury. Real estate circles say at least 20 and perhaps as many as 40 subpenas have been issued. Three local real estate brokers are reported to have testified before the jury Wednesday.

Nor has it been definitely learned where the probe centers. The best guess among real estate men is that it concerns commissions paid on real estate sales, with the Government endeavoring to prove that commissions are fixed throughout the trade in violation of antitrust laws.

"Retaliation" Seen

One District realtor saw the probe as "a retaliation on the part of the Administration against real estate interests for opposing Administration policies, such as controls and subsidies to certain groups."

The same realtor said it will be "ridiculous" if the Justice Department tries to make stick a charge of commission price fixing against the realtors.

He said the Real Estate Board has set up a scale of commissions, but that members are not bound to observe them. They are only "suggested" commissions. Geperally, the real estate broker receives a commission of 5 per cent on sales up to $50,000 and 3 per cent on the amount above that.

The realtor pointed out, however, that while the 5 per cent commission would hold good in the sale of one house, the commission would "certainly be lower" if the broker was given an order to sell 50 houses.

On this same subject, Charles Hillegeist, president of the Washington Real Estate Board, said:

"Years ago it was generally agreed not only here but in many places that this was a fair commission. I don't know when that

Colonies Are Urged To Produce More, Draw Less From Mother Country

London, Aug. 21 (AP).—Britain repared to cut drastically her urchases in the United States nd called on her colonies throughut the world tonight to produce ore goods and draw less from the mother country to help cushion the impact on the freeze on her dollar supply.

The London Star said a "crisis conference" with representatives of the dominions and colonies was likely to be held soon in London in the wake of the British-American agreement to abandon the convertibility of Britain's sterling into dollars.

The agreement found the $3,750,000,000 purse, which the United States lent Britain last year, virtually empty so far as current spending is concerned. Only 400 million dolars of the loan remained undrawn.

The only thing Britain can now count upon to pay for her imports from dollar countries—she bought 500 million dollars worth from the United States in the first five months of this year—is the proceeds from her own exports which brought in 150 million dollars in the same period.

Farm Prices Increased

The situation, summed up, meant that Britain would have to cut drastically her buying in the United States until some other arrangement could be worked out. An end to imports of American canned and fresh fruit and dried eggs had been forecast by government spokesmen. Meat and wheat purchases, the basic food purchases from the United States, appeared the major items for the ax.

In a drive to make Britain more self-sufficient, Minister of Agriculture Tom Williams announced a series of widespread increases in farm prices and subsidies to British farmers.

The emphasis, he explained, is on increasing Britain's production of "dollar-saving products, particularly pig meat, eggs, beef, mutton, cereals and linseed."

The government will pay a subsidy of $16 a head for heifer calves dropped after today and reared to 12 months old, he said. Higher prices and subsidies also were ordered for 1948 crops of wheat, potatoes, sugar beets, crops of government-approved grass mixtures and other crops.

Morrison to Broadcast

Another move to conserve Britain's resources was a Board of Trade order prohibiting travelers from taking antiques, works of art, gold, platinum, silverware, diamonds, jewelry, furs or postage stamps out of the country without an export license.

British Hopes for Revival Of Economy Lie in Coal Pits

By Eugene Meyer
Chairman of the Board of The Washington Post

(Mr. Meyer is in Europe to study economic conditions. He is accompanied by Alfred Friendly of The Washington Post's National Affairs Bureau.)

London, Aug. 21.—Experience with coal shortages in the United States makes one aware of coal's great importance in our economy. But in Britain coal is all-important.

The British do not have our highly developed hydro-electric power. They do not have our vast fuel supplies from natural gas and oil. Nor is our economy—in contrast with Britain's—so dependent for its vitality on export of coal.

Formerly Britain readily produced ample supplies for home industry and large tonnages for foreign markets. It was the world's largest coal exporter.

That export gave Britain not only foreign exchange resources for food and raw materials imports which it needed if it was to prosper, but it also was a stimulus to industry in countries with which England traded. Foreign industry flourished on British coal. This created still larger markets for British goods, so was an advantage to both sides.

American coal now going to western Europe is burdened with heavy transatlantic freight charges. The high cost hampers western European recovery.

On England's home front a moderate increase in the tonnage of coal mined would favorably change the tempo of all industry. This is the well-considered opinion of management having an intelligent, objective approach to present problems. In agreement are friends of the present Labor government.

The small stocks of coal on hand in industry are disturbing to management, of course. But no less disturbing to labor, whose jobs are at the mercy of a reliable coal supply. Such disturbance shows itself in slowdowns of production.

It is a pleasant experience here to find that a number of large industries report the efficiency of their labor equal to prewar 1939. That this is true appears in well-established concerns with steady work for their men.

It is anything but true, however, among the socalled "casual" labor fields. Building trades and dockside work are examples. Unfortunately, low productivity seems also the rule in the coal mines.

Official figures released here yesterday show the difficult time England is having to increase production in this industry, the core of its economy. More time has been lost this year than last through August holidays. Absenteeism, though less than last year, increased in July over the previous month. It is significant

Only $400,000,000 Of Huge Credit Not Called; New Action Points Up Crisis

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Britain had called upon the United States for all but 400 million dollars of its $3,750,000,000 loan, before she stopped exchanging dollars for pounds Wednesday, it was revealed yesterday.

Likening the drastic action of Britain in halting dollar-pound conversion to the American "bank holiday" of 1933, a Treasury spokesman said it was necessary to prevent the British crisis from becoming a collapse.

According to the Anglo-American Loan Agreement, Britain had to freely exchange dollars for pounds after July 15.

Many dollar-hungry nations took immediate advantage of that clause in the agreement, and started a "run" upon the Bank of England's dollar supply.

The exchange in one six-day period, reached the total of 232 million dollars, draining Britain of the precious dollars it depended upon for its own reconstruction.

One nation, unidentified, set out to get enough dollars to meet all its needs for the next six months. It was able to do this because the Bank of England accepted the statements of the central banks of other nations as to what were "current account transactions."

During the period that the conversion clause is abrogated the Bank of England is setting up its own office for screening dollar-pounds transactions. Because this operation requires time, the British called for the suspension of the convertibility clause.

Congress Call Foreseen

There was feeling in some quarters that the crisis might hasten the call for a special session of Congress. One official frankly stated that the fact that Congress is not in session has added to the "difficulty" of the situation. The absence of Congress gave American officials no opportunity to discuss the matter with congressional leaders.

Efforts were made yesterday to find members of Congress who might give informal assent to Wednesday's agreement between Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and British Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton to set aside temporarily the convertibility clause. Fultile efforts were made to reach Chairman Wolcott (R., Mich.) of the House Banking Committee, an authority on the British loan.

The socalled agreement, it is understood, was unilateral. The British, facing a crisis, notified this country of its action, and Snyder for the United States, agreed to it.

Three Recent Requests

The agreement provides that Great Britain withdraw no more of the American loan after requests already made are fulfilled. On August 13, Britain requested that 150 million dollars be made available on August 21 (yesterday). On the following day, August 14, it asked that another 150 million be made available August 25, and on August 20, the day it announced temporary abrogation of the convetibility clause, it asked that a third 150 million dollar fund be available August 29.

The fulfillment of these three requests will bring the remaining balance of the loan available to England down to 400 million dollars, little more than one-tenth of the total loan.

A general session of the British and American delegations to the financial conference considering modifications in the loan agreement was held yesterday afternoon, th first since Monday.

Lot Attendant Says He Saw Judge in Car

Raedy Auto Returned At 11 P. M., Hearing Told; Disputes Claim

A parking lot attendant yesterday added another question mark to the already puzzling hit-and-run crash involving an automobile owned by Municipal Court Judge Ellen K. Raedy.

The attendant, Willie Allen, disputed Judge Raedy's statement that she was in her Dorchester House apartment all evening the night her auto knocked $10 worth of paint off a parked car.

She told Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King that she entertained Miss Dorothy Hayes, 3042 R st. nw., at a 6:30 p. m. dinner and that they played gin rummy until 11 p. m.

Tells of 11 p. m. Return

Allen, one of several witnesses called in yesterday's hearing, told King that Judge Raedy, another woman and two men came into the Dorchester parking lot at 11 p. m. Tuesday night, with a man at the wheel of her convertible.

Time of the crash was set at 9:20 p. m. Tuesday.

Judge Raedy has said, and repeated to King yesterday, that she gave the keys to her car to a friend, Edward Emerson, a former New York City newspaperman, about 6:30 p. m.

Several Discrepancies

Some of the other questions being pondered by King while Judge Raedy is given more time to locate Emerson are:

1. Miss Hayes, a secretary at the Maritime Commission, told the hearing that she had dinner with the judge, that they did play gin rummy. But she said she didn't leave the Raedy apartment until 1:30 a. m. Wednesday.

2. The judge was definitely identified as the woman driver of the car at the time of the minor crash. The identification was made by Hilton Rhubottom, an employe of a filling station at 1st and K sts. nw., who witnessed the collision. The parked car was owned by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Wimbush, 910 1st st. nw.

3. Where is Emerson? At the conclusion of yesterday's hearing

Truman Sees No Reason for Barring DPs

Says All Americans Are Descendants of Displaced Persons

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman said yesterday that Americans ought not to quarrel about this Nation taking its share of Europe's displaced persons, since they themselves all are descended from displaced persons.

His statement recalled one made by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938, when FDR reminded the Daughters of the American Revolution that their ancestors were "immigrants and revolutionists."

Mr. Truman was talking about the nearly one million unfortunates now in camps in western Germany, Austria and Italy, most of them slave workers in the days of Hitler. In July he asked Congress to pass legislation to admit a "substantial number" of them into the United States. He told the lawmakers that the DPs could not remain in Germany, since that is where they were persecuted, and could not go back to Russian-dominated countries because they are not Communists and are opposed to communism.

Plans No New Approach

At a White House news conference yesterday, a reporter asked Mr. Truman if he planned any new approach to the DP problem.

He said he did not, but that he was very much interested in it.

He said it was up to the United States to do its share, and he went on to add that he didn't think that any of our people ought to quarrel because all of them are descendants of displaced persons—everybody in this country.

"Do you think you will propose

3 Civilian Defense Heads Are Appointed by Truman

Kenneth C. Royall — John L. Sullivan — W. Stuart Symington
Appointed Secretaries for Army, Navy and Air

President Truman yesterday appointed the three civilian heads of the land, sea and air forces who will serve under Secretary of Defense James Forrestal.

W. Stuart Symington was named as the first Secretary of Air in the new coordinated defense setup, which puts the air forces on the same level as sea and land forces. He has been Assistant Secretary of War for Air.

Kenneth C. Royall, now Secretary of War, was appointed Secretary of the Army. In his new role, he will lose his Cabinet rank.

John L. Sullivan, now Undersecretary of the Navy, was appointed Secretary of the Navy.

President Truman, in announcing the appointments at a White House news conference, said that Forrestal will take the oath as Secretary of Defense about the middle of September. With that ceremony the new defense organization will begin to function.

The three men appointed yesterday will receive the same pay as Cabinet officers, $15,000 a year, but they will not be members of the Cabinet. Only Forrestal will have that rank. However, the secretaries will have access to the President in case of a conflict of views.

Other appointments in the Army, Navy and Air Force are to follow later.

President Truman was asked yesterday whether it would be necessary to reappoint all the members of the Army-Navy Munitions Board.

He said he thought that the law provides that under the present War Department act the members are automatically transferred. He added, however, that he was having the matter looked up, and that he would make reappointments if they were necessary.

The new Secretary of Air, W. Stuart Symington, was born 46

Sad is the man with housing problems, but sad indeed is the plight of a man with a wife and quadruplets who's bringing his housing problems to Washington.

That is no figment of a pessimist's housing imagination.

It is indeed the plight of 33-year-old Joseph Cirminello, a corporation analyst for the Securities and Exchange Commission in Philadelphia.

Cirminello and his brood are among the approximately 600 persons to be transferred back to Washington when the SEC moves back to the Capital beginning November 1. Before office shortages pushed SEC out of the District during the war, the Cirminellos, only two of them then, lived in their own home at 1653 Colonial ter., Arlington, Va.

With the SEC move, they sold their house and moved to Philadelphia.

November 1, 1944 brought the four little bundles of joy—Maureen, Kathleen, Eileen and Michael—and with them the first of the Cirminello's housing troubles. The

13 of 20 Nations Agree to Back U. S. Economic Parley Plan

By Norman Carignan

Quitandinha, Brazil, Aug. 21 (AP). Thirteen of the 20 nations represented at the Inter-American Conference have agreed to hold a special economic conference during the second quarter of next year, a Latin-American foreign minister said tonight.

This was an apparent victory for the United States, which has insisted that economic questions should not come before the current conference, called to draft a hemispheric defense treaty. The United States was among the nations agreeing to the holding of a later conference on economic matters.

The foreign minister, who declined to be quoted, said the 13 nations had signed a draft proposal for the economic session during the day. He added that the current conference's steering committee was expected to act on the proposal at a special meeting tomorrow.

Conference delegates disclosed earlier a tentative agreement among 11 delegation chiefs on the economic meeting, which was scheduled to come before today's steering committee session. However, due to a last-minute shift in plans, the subject did not come up but was postponed until tomorrow.

Latin-American delegates said nations which had agreed to the special conference in addition to the United States, were Brazil, Argentina, Mexico, Colombia, Panama, Honduras, Haiti, Peru, the Dominican Republic, Chile, Bolivia and Uruguay.

The proposal was reported to have been first worked out at a secret conference of nine Latin-American delegation chiefs, representing Panama, Mexico, Honduras, Haiti, Peru, The Dominican Republic, Colombia, Chile, and Bolivia. Later, Argentina and Uruguay were reported to have concurred in the proposal, giving it a majority of the nations represented here.

Delegates atending the secret session said the proposal represented a compromise between the

A third Soviet veto was averted only when the United States, which had been accused of trying to provoke a whole string of Soviet vetoes for propaganda purposes, withdrew its surprise proposal to toss the bitter membership stalemate to the U. N. General Assembly.

This move came after Poland's Juliusz Katz-Suchy declared that the United States was trying to "cause another veto and make big headlines in the press . . ."

The United States and Russia yesterday underscored world unrest by an exchange of protests on two widely separated matters.

Russia took exception to British-French-American talks scheduled to open today in London on raising the level of German industrial production. The State Department made it clear the conference would be held despite Russian objections.

The United States, in turn, addressed a second protest to the Soviet Union on Russia's failure to turn the port of Dairen back to Chinese control and open it to international trade.

Taft-Hartley Law Takes Full Effect

Food Men Hear

Rep. Hartley 'May Run' If Green Teases

Chicago, Aug. 21 (AP).—Representative Hartley (R., N. J.) today served ontice that "we're going to bring management as well as labor o Washington" whenever a contract "violates the espirit" of the Taft-Hartley Act which becomes effective tomorrow.

He said also he might accept AFL Preesident William Green's challenge to seek public office again "if Mr. Green eggs me on a little further."

Hartley said he expected management to "stand up and fight" for the union-curbing law.

He said CIO President Philip Murray had criticized the law on the grounds that it prohibited free speech, and asserted Murray was "making a mountain out of a molehill." The act, Hartley added, "restores the right of free speech to employers."

Hartley also said the bill's "anti-featherbedding" provisions resulted directly from James C. Petrillo's squabble with Dr. Joseph Maddy, head of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

He declared Petrillo, head of the AFL Musicians Union, "holds the power of life and death over every record maker in the United States, and over radio broadcasting as well" and that "that's too much power for any man."

"Fortissimo means loud music," he commented. "Pianissimo means soft music. Petrillo means no music."

Democrats Plan Nationwide Radio Rally

The Democratic Party will introduce a new wrinkle in American politics by holding a nationwide "radio rally" on September 2, it was announced last night.

Gael Sullivan, executive director of the Democratic National Committee, said the rally would be the first of its kind by any major political party. It will be aired at 10 p. m. (EDT) over the American Broadcasting Co. network.

Democratic leaders from all parts of the country will speak, Sullivan said. Local party groups will listen to the program and then hear their own speakers on local issues.

The broadcast will originate from Washington with a speech by Sullivan. Mayor William O'Dwyer will speak from New York, Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas from Los Angeles, Senator John J. Sparkman from Birmingham, Ala., and Marshall Handley, president of Indiana's Young Democrats, from Indianapolis.

U. S. Details Rules As Wagner Act Is Supplanted

By The Associated Press

Labor-management relations moved into a new era under the Taft-Hartley Act last night as the Government issued new rules and its Conciliation Service headed for a shakeup.

With the new law fully effective last midnight, these things happened:

1. The National Labor Relations Board put more pressure on unions by announcing a strict policy regarding the hundreds of cases now pending before the board in Washington.

2. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce commended the new act and said that calling it a "slave labor law" is "absurd."

3. The AFL and CIO kept silent. Their policies toward the new act with its many curbs on unions have not been fully formed.

4. But the AFL International Typographical Union, in convention at Cleveland, approved a policy of signing no more contracts with employers.

5. There were reports that the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, which comes into existence today, will begin with an important reshuffling of officials brought over from the Labor Department's Conciliation Service.

6. Another big independent union, the Communications Workers of America, announced it had registered under the new law and its officers have provided sworn statements that they are not Communist sympathizers. The Machinists union registered Wednesday.

Wagner Act Replaced

Yesterday was the final day of the Wagner Act as it has existed since 1935, protecting rights of employes.

Some provisions of the Taft-Hartley act took effect June 23, when Congress passed the law over President Truman's veto. But most of it, including a thorough overhauling of the Wagner Act, has an August 22 effective date.

The NLRB, which becomes mainly a labor court under the new law, announced it had 605 old cases pending.

The board ruled that 410 of these—which are petitions for plant elections to determine what union, if any, shall represent the workers—will be dismissed unless the unions involved comply with the registration and non-Communist provisions of the law within 20 days.

Thus the board agreed with Robert N. Denham, the new NLRB general counsel, who has independent powers. Denham on Wednesday announced the same policy concerning about 3000 cases pending in the 28 field offices.

Old Cases Under New Code

The board ruled that 195 cases in which unions have charged employers with "unfair labor practices" will be decided under the new law, and not the law as it existed when the alleged practices occurred.

In addition there are 262 cases in which the board has already issued orders and is awaiting compliance or court enforcement. The board said it will take another look at those cases and throw out whatever orders are inconsistent with the new act.

The United States Chamber of Commerce statement was by President Earl O. Shreve. He said the chamber believes the Taft-Hartley Act was "soundly conceived" and was enacted only after "meticulous consideration." He added that the chamber sees no present reason for changing the law.

At Cleveland, the Typographical Union voted, without a dissenting voice, to force employers to hire printers from now on without a contract—only a brief memorandum of "conditions of employment."

Thus the union supported its president, Woodruff Randolph, who had urged this course.

CIO Unions Lag in Filing Labor Data

Washington labor unions appeared in no big rush yesterday to file information required by the Taft-Hartley law, which became fully effective at midnight.

Unions are asked to file non-Communist affidavits and financial data with the National Labor Relations Board and the Labor Department under the legislation. Failure to comply bars the organization from using the NLRB.

Henry Beitscher, president of the Industrial Union Council, central body for CIO locals here, said he knew of "no local" which is "filing." He said contracts will be negotiated on the basis of the union's "strength" and the "good faith of the employer" without regard to the provisions of the Taft-Hartley law.

One AFL union here already has registered, however, and the two telephone unions announced plans to file the required data. A spokesman for the ALF Office Employes Local 2 said the information was mailed in August 19.

Officials of the Washington traffic division, No. 50, and Washington division, No. 36, affiliated with the Communications Workers of America (Ind.) said they would file within a few days. The parent union announced simultaneously that it had filed.

The two local CWA affiliates represent more than 6000 telephone workers here.

Congressmen Almost See Studio Fight

Los Angeles, Aug. 21 (AP).—Warring unionists staged a personal—and near-violent—demonstration of their prolonged film studio dispute today before the eyes of a House subcommittee inquiring into Hollywood's labor situation.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Carroll D. Kearns (R., Pa.) accompanied some 30 union and motion picture officials on a tour of the carpentry shop at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio.

In the party was aggressive Herbert K. Sorrell, chief of the striking Conference of Studio Unions, embroiled in a long fight with the rival International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes.

Pointing out IATSE workers in the shop, Sorrell commented audibly to Representative Kearns that they were "scab." B. C. Duvall, business agent for IATSE propmen, protested the term and Sorrell threatened to knock him down.

"You'll knock nobody down," Duvall retorted and Kearns stepped between the two men and averted physical hostilities.

Then Duvall told Representative Kearns that members of his union had always done the work in M-G-M's studio foundry where metal parts of motive sets are molded.

"You're a lying—," Sorrell roared, stepping forward.

Crewmen Quit America, Back Wharf Strike

New York, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Crewmen of the S. S. America, the Nation's largest liner, walked off ship 90 minutes before it was scheduled to sail today in support of 4000 striking longshoremen.

Some 450 of the 637-man crew left ship after the United States Lines had sent office workers and officers of other ships to the pier in an effort to release the vessel's mooring lines.

The wildcat longshoremen's strike spread to two more piers as the men ignored pleas of their union leaders to return to work. Twelve piers and about a dozen ships were tied up by the unauthorized walkout.

Early this morning it had appeared that the America, slated to sail at 4 p. m. yesterday, would get under way today. At 8 a. m. crews began loading the luxury liner, but walked off the job 30 minutes later to join idle longshoremen on other piers.

The strike began early yesterday when the men, dissatisfied with a contract agreement reached between thir union, the Intrnational Longshoremen's Association (AFL) and the New York Shipping Association, failed to show up for work. Union negotiators had won a 10-cents an hour wage boost, but they failed to win increased vacations and improved working conditions.

Many of the 950 passengers of the America, who included Screen Star Carole Landis and Sir Norman Angell, noted British economist and 1933 Nobel Prize winner, carried their luggage aboard on shoulders, backs, wheel-barrows and borrowed hand trucks.

Isthmian Line Strike Ends

New York, Aug. 21 (AP).—An eight-day strike against the Isthmian Steamship Line which tied up 30 ships on three coasts ended today with a settlement giving the AFL Seafarers International Union provisions for union hiring halls and a rotary hiring system.

The union previously had termed the hiring hall and rotary "first-come, first-served" system the principal issues in the strike, which affected a union-estimated 1500 to 2000 unlicensed seamen.

Distillery Strike Settled

New York, Aug. 21 (AP).—Seagram Distillers Corporation announced today the settlement of a strike of members of the AFL Distillery Workers Union at its plants in Louisville, Ky., Relay, Md., and Bristol, Pa.

Terms of the settlement, which a company spokesman said was reached at 4:30 p. m. (EST), were not announced immediately.

Race Against Time

Union Shop At Stake in Ford Talks

Detroit, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—United Auto Workers (CIO) leaders raced against the clock tonight in contract talks with the Ford Motor Co. in an attempt to save a union shop clause by reaching agreement before midnight when the Taft-Hartly labor law becomes effective.

Unless union and company break through obstacles now barring agreement before then, the union will be required to agree to a company-wide referendum in which a majority of Ford employes must approve the union shop.

The union shop clause which requires that each employe become a member of the United Auto Workers of America (CIO) upon employment by the Ford Company, has been in the contract since the first one was signed.

The company's chief negotiator charged that agreement was being held up by a split among union negotiators over the union's pension plan demands.

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president and industrial relations director, charged that peared due to difficulties among UAW negotiators.

"Some members of the committee continued their support of the pension plan," Bugas said. "Others expressed a preference for a return to the wage pattern which had been rejected earlier."

This was denied by Richard T. Leonard, UAW vice president and Ford-UAW department director, who charged that the statement was prompted by Bugas' "inability to sell the upper brackets of Ford officials his original pension plan."

Brewster Sees Jan. 31 Demise Of Committee

Falls River, Mass., Aug. 21 (AP).—Senator Brewster (R., Me.) announced today that Republicans would not ask for an extension of the life of the Senate War Investigating Committee beyond next January 31.

Brewster, who heads the controversy-enveloped committee, told a reporter he was "certain" the group would resume its investigation of Howard Hughes' wartime plane contracts on November 17.

But the Maine Senator, here to attend Fall River's celebration of "Joe Martin Day," said he and other Republicans had no intention of suggesting that the group, once headed by President Truman when the latter was a Senator, continue its inquiries in the next session of Congress.

Senate Democrats have made it plain they would fight any such move.

In addition, Brewster said the committee had some "interesting hearings" coming up in connection with the Navy's wartime purchase of Arabian oil.

The Maine Senator told a reporter that a search of the Roosevelt files in Hyde Park had shown that the late Harry Hopkins authorized a memorandum which urged, in effect, that the United States go ahead with the purchase of oil in that country to appease King Iban Saud despite the fact that it might be more costly than products obtained elsewhere.

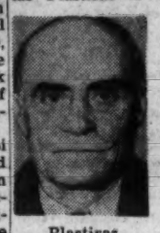
Coalition Cabinet Likely in Greece

Plastiras, Hero Of Guerillas, Seen As Next Premier

By M. W. Fodor
Post Reporter

Athens, Aug. 21.—Announcement of a new Greek coalition cabinet headed by General Nicholas Plastiras is expected within the next few days.



Plastiras

It is reported here that the present government realizes that it cannot solve the grave problems that confront Greece today and that only General Plastiras has the confidence of all factions in this country that will make political rehabilitation possible.

One of the great men of Greece, General Plastiras is a tall, erect, soldierly figure, with a dark, almost olive-colored face which offers contrast to his snow-white upturned mustache. Plastiras engineered the Republican revolution of 1922-1923. From 1933 until December, 1944, he lived in exile in France. When the civil war broke out, the British hurriedly brought him back and pushed him into the job of premier.

Commands Wide Respect

But Plastiras is not a man who is willing to take orders, so he resigned.

Today he is practically the only Greek leader who has the confidence of the rank and file of the populace. He is regarded as the best guaranty for the restoration of order in Greece.

The general himself is reluctant to talk on the subject of his taking over the reins of government again.

In June he told me, "I am not a politician—I am too sincere and honest to be one."

But he is one of the leaders in Greece to whom peace and his country's welfare mean more than personal power or glory.

Hero of Guerillas

He believes the solution in Greece is political and not military. He favors complete amnesty for all military and political rebels.

Most of the guerillas consider Plastiras as their hero. Many influential Center people believe that Plastiras, either as premier, or as a minister responsible for the amnesty, could end the present civil war.

There is one drawback to the appointment of Plastiras—the extreme Royalists and the Army leaders do not favor him. But it is believed that the situation here is so critical that the American State Department will agree that he is the best hope for political and military peace.

It is believed here that Plastiras would have the support of the American Government. It is felt that Themistocles Saphoulis is too old to resume the job of premier. Saphoulis admits to 87-years of age, but his friends say that he is actually 93 and too old to go through the rigorous fight that confronte the next leader of the Greek government.

Guerillas Loot Town

Athens, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Press dispatches from the Greek-Yugoslav border village off Neohoraki said today that guerilas who spoke Bulgarian had looted the town, danced in the square and sung Bulgarian songs before returning to Yugoslavia.

Other dispatches reported small-scale guerilla attacks on five villages near the Bulgarian and Yugoslav frontiers.

Jews Plan Parachute Invasion

Paris, Aug. 21.—Rabbi Baruch Korff, cochairman of the political action committee for Palestine, announced today that he has come to Europe to lay the groundwork for a mass parachute invasion of the Holy Land by Jewish immigrants in October.

The 33-year-old American rabbi who arrived here Monday said D-day for the airborne invasion will only be canceled if the report of the United Nations Inquiry Commission on Palestine can open the gates to Palestine before then to legal immigration by all Jews now in European DP camps.

Rabbi Korff said hiss organization has pledged itself to spend 10 million dollars on the first phase of this invasion during October and will spend more in the following months if necessary. Planes for the airborne operations will be DC3s and PBY5s previously used by the United States Army and Navy, he said, and PT boats will be used to cordinate landing maneuvers.

The rabbi said Jewish men and women between the ages of 18 and 36 will form the invasion force. They are being trained in Europe by qualified parachutists previously instructed by the United States Army, he said. The rabbi expects some of the parachuting immigrants to be captured but said he did not think British troops would fire on them. Underground Jewish forces in the interior of Palestine will smuggle most of the parachutists to safety, he said.

Exodus '47 Refugees Told To Land Today

London, Aug. 21 (AP).—Britain today set a deadline of 5 p. m. tomorrow (noon, Eastern Standard Time) for 4400 Jewish immigrants to get off three British transports at Port de Bouc in France, or be shipped to Germany.

A spokesman for the international refugee organization in Hamburg said the Jews would be sent to the Hohne Displaced Persons Camp, less than a mile from the former Nazi concentration camp at Belsen in the British zone.

The foreign office announcement of the ultimatum to the Jews—aboard ship 41 days since sailing from Sete, France, on July 11 for Palestine aboard a one-time Chesapeake Bay ferryboat renamed Exodue 1947—brought a prompt and sharp reaction from Jewish spokesmen here, in Paris and in Jerusalem, and the possibility of a hunger strike by the refugees.

Eri Jabotinsky, head of the repatriation department of the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation in Paris, declared the action was an "atrocity."

A Jewish agency spokesman in Jerusalem declared the "shocking news" was a "fateful political mistake" that would give terrorists a "pretext for starting their murders again."

If the immigrants are landed at Hamburg, Berl Locker, of the Jewish agency said, "force will be used and I dread to imagine what will be the result."

The immigrants, intercepted off Palestine more than a month ago by British destroyers, were transshipped on three transports back to Port de Bouc, where all but about 100 of the original 4500 staged a "sit tight" and refused to disembark. The French government said it would not use force to make them get off the ships.

Britain Will Admit Them

In other cases the British have sent Jews trying to run the Palestine blockade to detention camps on Cyprus Island, but the announcement today said they practice only "encouraged the organizers of the traffic."

The announcement said "persistent Zionist threats and propaganda" encouraged the refugees to refuse French hospitality.

Refugees yesterday sent a message to the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine in Geneva declaring they would go on an indefinite hunger strike if they were not taken to Palestine.

A government spokesman in Palestine said the Jews would be eligible to apply for admission to Britain as displaced persons seeking employment after they are screened at Hamburg.

Mine Injures Two British

Jerusalem, Aug. 21 (AP).—Two British soldiers were wounded, one seriously, when an electrically detonated mine blasted their truck near Natanya today, and in Jerusalem an Arab store was demolished by a bomb which army sources said was tossed by an Arab "boycott patrol."

Unofficial sources in the port city of Haifa said £10,000 ($40,000) was stolen from an Arab bank messenger during a transfer of funds.

The Jerusalem store blast brought a general alarm, the second in 15 hours.

groups, one dealing with trade problems and the other with financial problems, have been in study.

May Require Legislation

In referring to the British plan to screen further applications for exchange of pounds for dollars, a Treasury spokesman remarked:

"It may be the experience over the next few weeks will show that the screening process will hold currency transactions down to a manageable level. If so, the problem can be worked out rather easily.

"On the other hand, if the next few weeks prove that the legitimate dollar demand upon the Bank of England is beyond maangement, the problem will be considerably more difficult."

He pointed out that permanent revision of the clause might be impossible without the consent of Congress.

As the full-dress conference headed by Snyder and the British Chief of Delegation, Sir Wilfred Eady was under way, independent movie producers sought Snyder's aid to induce London to drop a 75 per cent tax on American films. They warned that it threatened widespread studio unemployment.

At yesterday's session Sir Wilfred gave high American officials a "fairly optimistic" report on Britain's ability to export its way back to economic stability.

Secretary Snyder revealed that Eady forecast an immediate substantial improvement in Britain's coal production.

The suspension of the dollar-pound exchange was reported to be having a serious effect upon Canada's dollar position.

Sir Cameron Cobbold, deputy governor of the Bank of England, one of the British loan delegation, left for Canada to confer with Ottawa officials on the damage the agreement may do to Canada's dollar supply.

Official sources said that with British tightening up on dollars, American exports are bound to drop.

British Coal Viewed as Key

that each of the last few weeks has found fewer men employed. There are less than 719,000 men in the pits compared with more than 800,000 during the war. The government's manpower target at the end of this year is 730,000 but the trend seems running in the wrong direction.

In July, 1946, the average of coal mined each week was 3,272,000 tons. Last July the weekly average was 3,112,000. In the second week of August, with holiday absenteeism, production was only 2,171,000 tons.

Seen Resisting New Labor

Meanwhile, there are complaints, apparently well-founded, that miners are not exerting their best efforts. They also seem to be resisting the influx of new labor—potentially available in the form of displaced persons—into mines.

A conference beginning yesterday of union delegates, leaders, and the government coal board it is hoped may result in some indications of willingness to work a longer week. But so far the miners' union has resisted the suggestion of going back to working six days a week and has shown little enthusiasm for other proposals to increase hours in any way.

From a few days' visit to England but one crowded with talks with men of different interests, politics, and backgrounds of experience I am convinced England can work a way out of its crisis provided it receives understanding and intelligent aid from America.

But I am equally convinced that an assurance of a revived British economy is dependent first, last, and all the time on increase in coal production. This means production should be increased 30 to 50 million tons above the present annual 190 million.

Britain Ready To Cut Buying

conference with government ministers to end all restrictive practices" in an effort to increase coal production.

The situation was so serious Herbert Morrison scheduled a broadcast Saturday night to explain the facts. He is acting Prime Minister while Clement Attlee is on vacation.

The appeal to Britain's colonies came from Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones who declared "an economic crisis as serious as any in her long history" confronted Britain.

Morrison, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and other leading ministers met at the official residence of the Prime Minister this afternoon in the fourth high-level conference since Parliament adjourned last week. No details of the discussion were announced.

Financiers and government leaders of countries inside and outside the empire tried to calculate the "disturbance of trade" which Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton forecast last night when he announced the end of convertibility.

Prime Minister Joseph B. Chiefly of Australia said his country, closely tied to Britain economically, no longer could import "anything but essentials" from the United States.

Thorkil Kristensen, finance minister of Denmark, said his country would have to divert farm products from Britain to dollar countries because she needs the dollars for her own imports. Other countries on which Britain depends for food may do likewise.

Sweden's Riksbank suspended temporarily the buying and selling of pounds and dollars for future deliveries, though buying and selling of the two currencies up to $80 will be continued for the convenience of travelers.

Iraq halted dollar exchange until further notice.

Some quarters in Portugal said various imports from America, such as automobile tires, might be reduced because Portugal does not have enough dollars to make substantial payments.

In France, Belgium, Norway and Holland financiers said the abandoning of convertibility was expected to have little effect.

Financial circles in Singapore said a consequence might be a further restriction of American imports.

legislation on its?," a reporter asked.

Mr. Truman said that he proposed legislation last year, again at the first session of the Eightieth Congress, and he added that he probably would do the same thing at the next session.

A House committee at the last session completed hearings on the Stratton bill, which would admit 400,000 displaced persons at the rate of 100,000 a year. However, the legislation did not reach the House floor. On the other side of the Capitol, a bipartisan group of Senators had introduced a bill to admit a smaller number of DPs over a shorter period of time.

President Truman reiterated yesterday that he did not plan to call a special session of Congress. But if one did become necessary, he said, he would not hesitate to call it.

He made the statement in reply to a question about Representative Chester Berrow (R., N. H.), who at Manchester urged a special session to deal with the tension in Europe and "the Soviet Union's aggressive foreign policy of expansion and ultimate world domination."

Moslems Are Driven From Indian City

Jullundar Left in Smoldering Ruins As 30,000 Flee Before Sword-Swinging Tribesmen

By Robert Millers

Jullundar, India, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—The Moslems can never come back to Jullundar. Thirty thousand of them have been driven out in the past 48 hours by fierce, bearded, sword-swinging Sikhs. Those who did not flee in time have died in their burning homes.

What has happened to Jullundar is a blood-drenched chapter in the story of the Punjab, divided between Hindu India and Moslem India by a boundary commission. Jullundar, once a city of 75,000, of whom 30,000 were Moslems, is 80 miles east of Lahore, deep in Hindustan. It is Sikh and Hindu territory. The Moslems were aliens.

The Sikhs started to clean the city out two nights ago. Fortunately, most of the Moslems fled then. Less than 100 are left, coralled in the center of the city and guarded by a northwest frontier force. The troops hope to evacuate them shortly.

There is no law and order in Jullundar today—nothing but burning buildings and complete devastation. The population is divided into two classes, the hunted and the hunters. Smoke from at least a hundred fires has made a canopy above the rich agricultural plain about the city, screening even the intense midday sun.

I drove into Jullundar in a civilian car and watched bands of Sikhs, numbering from six to 20, pillaging the city, burning Moslem buildings and ferreting out remnants of the Moslem populace with huge ceremonial swords which they brandished fiercely as they swept through the streets.

One young girl ran shrieking down an alley pursued by Sikhs. The chase disappeared around a corner and the girl was not seen again.

Native police made no effort to curb the rioters, standing with their bayonetted rifles resting on the ground, idly watching the Sikhs. The police are Hindus and Sikhs.

Frontier Force Helpless

The northwest frontier force is helpless to halt the pillagers or to curb the fires. They are handicapped by an acute shortage of manpower and a complete lack of cooperation from the local police. They are concentrating their efforts on saving the remaining Moslems.

The troops are composed of Moslems, Sikhs and Hindus. The British colonel in charge said they are maintaining perfect discipline. A patrol we met outside the city warned us we would enter at our own risk. The Indian captain said he did not have enough troops to provide an escort.

There is not a sign of life when you first enter the city. You see nothing but smoldering ruins and hear nothing but a dead silence. Then you make a quick turn around a corner and see five Sikhs run out of a small shop.

A wisp of blue smoke is curling from the shop. But this is a personal feud and whites apparently are unharmed as long as they keep out of the way. The Sikhs eye the car suspiciously but move away leisurely. Within seconds the shop is burning fiercely.

Hindus Take Precaution

Some of the streets of Jullundar are blocked by debris. On some open streets, small groups of Hindus sit outside their barred shops to show the Sikhs they are not Moslem-owned. It is well for we see another beaded quartet moving down an alleyway with the naked steel of their huge swords shining brightly in the sun.

The 100 Moslems waiting to be evacated are in the center of the city. Among them is Abdul Hammid, senior clerk in a cooperative society, who tells how he, his wife and two daughters narrowly escaped being burned to death when the Sikhs set their home on fire.

"We ran out the back door and managed to get here without being caught," he said. "I took a policeman back with me and tried to save some valuables, but the building collapsed by the time we arrived."

He pointed to the clothing each wore, and a small bag. This he said, was everything the family now owns.

Troops are guarding the Moslems until trucks arrive to take them to Jullundar cantonment, five miles away, where a temporary camp has been set up.

There is no estimate of the dead in Jullundar. It is impossible to say until the ashes are searched. But one thing is certain. The surviving Moslems will never be able to return to Jullundar.

Karachi, Pakistan, Aug. 21 (AP).—About 30 persons were killed and 40 were injured in rioting last night at Quetta, capital of Baluchistan, which is part of the new dominion of Pakistan, dispatches reported today. The cause of the outbreak was not determined. The reports said the authorities, with the help of troops, had brought the situation under control.

Virginia Sues Magazines for $850,000 Damages

New York, Aug. 21 (AP).—Ralph H. Garner of Harrisonburg, Va., today filed in Federal Court six suits for damages aggregating $850,000 against various detective story magazines and their principal officers, charging that they printed "libelous matter" about him.

Garner, in the complaint, charged that the magazine stories, printed in the fall of 1946, depicted him as the "principal participant in a murder."

Garner seeks $100,000 damages from Vital Detective Cases, Inc., doing business as the Volitant Publishing Co., and Adrian and Armand Lopez, its principal stockholders, and $100,000 damages, plus an additional $50,000 for the alleged use of his photograph without permission from these firms: Triangle Publications, and Walter H. Annenberg, president, and Kenneth M. Friede, publisher; Timely Detective Cases and Frederick J. Buse, its principal stockholder; Uncensored Detective, Inc., and Hillman Periodicals, Inc., and Alexander Hillman, president; Dell Publishing Co., Inc., and George T. Delacorte, Jr., president; Nonpareil Publishing Corp. and Crime Files and Martin Goodman and Jesse Rosen, officials of those corporations.

Youth Delegates Deny 'Red' Charge

Congress Not Communist-Dominated, U. S. 'Majority' Clique at Prague Says

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 21 (AP).—A group of U. S. delegates to the World Youth Congress just concluded here issued a statement today defending the congress against charges by a minority group of the American delegation that he meeting was Communist-dominated.

Miss Marjorie Sloan of New York, who described herself as public relations representative for the U. S. delegation, said a "majority" of the American delegation voted to condemn what she called the uncooperative attitude of the others.

Miss Eleanor Roberts, Connecticut College student from Detroit, and 10 other girls in the minority group, charged two days ago that Miss Roberts had been detained and questioned along with six Czechoslovak girl translators on orders of an officer in a Czechoslovak army uniform and a Communist member of the congress committee. Miss Sloan said the charge was turned over to the congress executive committee for investigation.

Miss Sloan said the majority group also deplored statements of the minority that photographs of lynchings in the United States provided the theme for an American exhibit. She said a lynching photograph was only one of a group showing things that the Youth of America were trying to stamp out.

U. N. Door Closed to Five

the prestige and power of the Security Council to the lowest level of its two-year career and assured that only 2 of the 12 nations seeking membership this year will get the consideration—and certain approval—of the 55-nation Assembly.

They are the tiny Arab state of Yemen and the new Moslem state of Pakistan.

But the U. N.'s door was closed for another year to the four former Nazi satellites and Austria, Portugal, Trans-Jordan, Ireland, Albania and Outer Mongolia.

The United States made impassioned appeals for Italy and Austria, contending that the former occupied a "unique position" among the former Axis states, while Austria was being kept in a restive and occupied state only because of Russia's refusal to negotiate an Austrian treaty.

"Surely the fact that one great power has not been able to make an agreement with the other occupying powers is no reason to penalize the people of Austria, and keep Austria from membership in the United Nations," said American Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson.

He assailed Russia for delay in ratifying the Italian peace treaty, adding that it was "patently unjust for a well-qualified state like Italy to be kept from immediate admission to the U. N. by just one power."

Today's Council session produced these results:

1. Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko stretched his string of vetoes to seven for this week when he killed a majority-backed proposal to let the General Assembly decide when to admit Italy and Austria.

2. The United States and Britain denounced the present Hungarian, Bulgarian and Romanian governments as enemies of human freedom and served notice that until they change they never will get into the U. N.

3. Russia struck back at the American charges, but stuck to her claim that the three Soviet-orbit eastern European countries—and Italy and Austria also—have no right to U. N. membership until their peace treaties are in force. That will be when Russia, the last big power to do so ratifies the pacts.

4. When the votes came, 10 of the Council's 11 countries refused to support the Hungarian, Romania and Bulgarian applications. Syria was the only supporter. The United States cast two "vetoes in spirit" by voting against Hungary and Bulgaria, but they were not counted as official vetoes because the applicants failed to get a majority anyway.

5. Johnson of the United States charged once more that Russia was undermining the U. N. by her use of the veto and formally asked the Council to let the 55-nation Assembly reconsider the five blackballed by the western powers. By a two-thirds vote of the Assembly the United States hoped to nullify Russia's vetoes, get its favored nations into the U. N. and block again the Soviet-supported states.

"This is surely an exercise of the veto which constitutes an abuse of power," Johnson snapped.

It was his third attack this week on the flurry of Russian "no" votes in the membership wrangle and in the stalemated Balkans dispute.

He said the membership situation had "reached an impasse" and required a fresh approach.

Gromyko replied that it was a "senseless step and added by implication that the United States seemed determined to keep introducing proposals which Russia must veto. If this one remained before the Council, he made clear, veto No. 19 would be forthcoming.

Katz-Suchy of Poland spoke bluntly.

"I believe that the aim of this resolution, as it was partly stated here by the Soviet representative, was the same as the aim of the last resolution in the Greek question (an American proposal introduced with full knowledge that Gromyko would veto it)," he said.

"It is to cause another veto and make big headlines on the press about the Soviet Union veto, or, as the American press loves to call it, 'the Red veto.'"

Both Gromyko and Katz-Suchy said the American proposal was contrary to U. N.'s procedure, which gives the Security Council first and decisive power as regards new members, they contended it was completely out of order.

After more discussion, Johnson suddenly withdrew his resolution because, he said, Gromyko's "unalterable opposition" meant it would not pass.

"I have no desire," he said, "to go through the gesture of having him veto it or to find out how many members would favor it . . ."

Gloomily, the Council agreed unanimously after that to report to the U. N. General Assembly that this year only 2 of 12 applicants for U. N. seats made the grade. On that note, the Council adjourned.

Argentina and six other Latin American countries tonight asked the United Nations General Assembly to recommend revision of the Italian peace treaty.

The surprise move came on the heels of a Russian veto which barred Italy from U. N. membership this year.

In seven separate letters to U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie, Argentina, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Bolivia, Paraguay, Costa Rica and Honduras called for full debate on the treaty after the Assembly convenes September 16.

Argentina Ambassador Dr. Jose Arce, who will lead the concerted Latin-American move, disclosed that the objective would be a general softening of the provisions of the treaty, which has been ratified by Italy and all of the Big Four except Russia.

Religious Study Urged to Solve World's Worries

Massanetta Springs, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—A New York minister told an audience of representatives of 18 denominations here tonight that worry probably is "the world's greatest contemporary emotional problem," and declared that Christian living "is a great deterrent to anxiety."

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York, speaking on the annual Bible Conference program here, said a widespread epidemci of fear exists in this country, brought on by long-held feelings of insecurity.

"This feeling is not only the result of the war and economic difficulties, but more authorities believe it is traceable to the decline of habitual religious practice among the people," he asserted.

"As prayer, church going and Bible reading fall into disuse, emotional instability and nervous tension tend to rise."

He offered as a technique for breaking the worry habit: Practice and cultivation of the art of forgetting; practice of the rat of imperturbability; adherence to the principle that if you do your best and have faith in God that whatever happens is for the best, and to avoid getting into trouble that makes people worry.

Speakers tomorrow will include Dr. Arthur S. Haupert, president of Moravian College and Theological Seminary at Bethlehem, Pa., and Dr. F. Hugh Bradley, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Decatur, Ga.

Arbitrary Dealing In Plant Sale Denied by WAA

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—A War Assets Administration official today denied charges by the Mohawk Carpet Mills of Amsterdam, N. Y., of "highly arbitrary" dealings in connection with the recent sale of the New River ordnance plant at Dublin.

Commenting on the exceptions taken by the Mohawk Co. yesterday, Charles J. Blair, jr., assistant deputy zone administrator for real property disposal here, said the entire transaction was handled in the best interest of the Government by WAA's national real property review board, after the Mohawk Co. had refused to accept a deed to the property consummating the sale to Mohawk, which was approved in February by WAA Administrator R. M. Littlejohn.

"WAA made every effort to close the transaction with Mohawk in spite of a letter, May 26, 1947, signed by H. L. Shuttleworth, president of the company, which requested permission for Mohawk mills to withdraw all bids for the property and after that date have them considered null and void," Blair explained.

U. S., Russia Trade Protests

sible for treatment of Americans and American interests during Soviet occupation of the port. United States ships and businessmen have been barred from Dairen for some time by Red army order.

Russia's protest on the tripartite conference on German industry was sent to Great Britain as well as to the Untied States. Although the text was not made available for publication, Soviet informants in London told the Associated Press Russia contended the conference would violate the 1945 Potsdam agreement. Germany's future was reported to be held a matter for the Big Four foreign ministers.

Groundless, Says Clay

In Berlin, according to the Associated Press, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, retorted at once that the protest was without foundation because Russia itself has ignored the Potsdam pact by declining to treat Germany as an economic unit in accordance with its provisions. He pointed out that Russia had rejected bids to join its occupation zone with those of the Western powers and that Molotov at Moscow had said Germany's economic level should be raised.

Britain and the United States have agreed to allow an increase of German production so experts can help pay for necessary imports as a step toward European recovery. The conference was called when France, fearful of reviving Germany's war potential, insisted upon a voice in any decisions on industry levels.

The exchange of protests took place just after a Library of Congress report warned that American- Soviet relations had "dangerously" deteriorated, and was accompanied by these additional developments:

1. The deadline set by Secretary of State Marshall for review of stalled negotiations on Korea's future government arrived without response from Molotov or Russian members of a joint commission in Korea.

2. The State Department revealed that nine nations which will take part in discussions of a Japanese treaty agreed in general to a United States suggestion that a two-thirds vote rather than unanimity should govern decisions. Previously the United States rejected a Russian protest that the treaty should be drafted by the Big Four only and announced that negotiations would go ahead with or without Russia.

Dodge Going to Vienna

3. After charging that Russian members had blocked all progress on an Austrian peace treaty, Joseph M. Dodge, chief American representative on al Allied treaty commission, was scheduled to leave Vienna for consultations here.

This country's note of protest on Dairen was the second in seven months urging that the port be returned to China under terms of a 1945 treaty between China and the Soviets. The previous note, sent last January 3, urged Russia and China to arrange a transfer to Chinese control without delay.

years ago at Amherst College in Massachusetts, the son of William Stuart Symington and Emily Harrison Symington. His father, a Baltimore lawyer, was a faculty member at Amherst at the time.

"Stu" Symington, wsa was taken to Baltimore by his parents at the age of one, enlisted in the Army at the age of 17 for service in World War I and became one of the Army's youngest second lieutenants at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky.

After the war, he attended Yale and became editor of the Yale News and a hot tennis player.

In 1941, after three years as head of the Emerson Manufacturing Co., of St. Louis, Symington came to Washington to serve as a consultant for the Army. He studied [illegible]r planes in England, and on his [illegible] built the world's largest airplane armament plant as part of the Emerson Co., in St. Louis.

Headed Surplus Property

He was named Surplus Property Administrator in 1945 and from that post went on to become Assistant Secretary of War for Air.

A strapping fellow, 6-feet-2 inches tall, Symington now lists his home as Creve Coeur, Mo. He is married to the former Evelyn Wadsworth, daughter of Representative James W. Wadsworth, a New York Republican. They have two sons, both of whom followed their father's example and enlisted as privates in the last war—Stuart in the Army and James in the Marines.

Native of Norch Carolina

Kenneth C. Royall, the new Secretary of War, was born in Goldsboro, N. C., 53 years ago. He attended the University of North Carolina and Harvard Law School, serving as editor of the Harvard Law Review.

He served as an artillery officer in the first World War and afterward resumed the practice of law in North Carolina. He served in the North Carolina State Senate in 1927 and was president of the North Carolina Bar Association in 1929-30.

He went back into the Army as a colonel in 1942 and was promoted to brigadier general a year later, by which title he was deputy fiscal director of the Army Service Forces.

He became a special assistant to the Secretary of War in April, 1945, Undersecretary of War in November of the same year, and took the oath as Secretary last July 24, after the retirement of Secretary Robert Patterson.

Born in New Hampshire

John Lawrence Sullivan, the new Secretary of the Navy, was born in Manchester, New Hampshire, 48 years ago, son of Patrick Henry Sullivan and Ellen J. (Harrington) Sullivan.

He enlisted in the Navy as an apprentice seaman in World War I, and afterward attended Dartmouth College and the Harvard Law School. He was practicing law in New Hampshire — and rallying Democrats on the side—when he was appointed Assistant to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in 1939. He became Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in 1940.

He succeeded Artemus L. Gates first, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy and then as Undersecretary of the Navy. He took the oath as Assistant Secretary under dramatic circumstances while aboard the aircraft carried USS Shangri-La, off the Japanese mainland, on July 1, 1945. He had gone out to the Pacific fighting to get first-hand knowledge of naval problems.

Secretary Sullivan married Priscilla Manning of Manchester in 1932, and they have three children—Patricia, Charles Manning and Deborah. They make their home at 4871 Glenbrook rd., nw.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 21 (AP).—The south sheep pens and sheds at the Fort Worth Stockyards Co. here were destroyed early today by a fire that killed an estimated 3500 head of sheep. Total damage was estimated at $85,000 to the yard facilities and $35,000 for the sheep.

Lane's Limousine In Mishap With Another Auto

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—Governor Lane's limousine and another car sideswiped with only slight damage at the junction of Ritchie highway and the Sandy Point Ferry road north of here this morning. No one was injured. The Governor was not in the car.

State police reported Thomas Burright, the Governor's chauffeur, was driving from Annapolis to Baltimore, to pick up the chief executive for a trip to Camp Ritchie and a visit to the Maryland National Guard's summer training encampment.

Police did not have the name of the other driver.

How WONDER BREAD Helps Build Bigger, Stronger Bodies 8 Ways!

Amazing Wonder Bread Ranks with Meat, Milk and Fish in Certain Growth and Energy-Building Contents (as stated at right)

The foundation of good health is good nutrition. And the foundation of good nutrition is good food.

And that means 3 good meals a day. Don't short-change your child at breakfast as so many mothers do. Make the morning meal a big meal—to start the day right. Plenty of good food. Plenty of Wonder Bread.

Because Wonder Bread gives to your child 8 of the body-building elements that Nature uses to build a good health foundation.

See for yourself the 8 ways Wonder Bread helps build strong bodies. Naturally, you want your child to have every advantage—so serve plenty of Wonder Bread.

And your child will love Wonder Bread. Because it tastes so good. So good because so fresh. Plain or toasted.

For Wonder Bread is doubly fresh. Fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it.

Because Wonder Bread is slo-baked—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

So get nourishing doubly fresh Wonder Bread from your grocer today. And see that your child gets plenty of Wonder Bread for breakfast—and every meal!

Wyche to Meet Writer Critic Of General Lee in Army Probe

Leghorn, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Mediterranean theater headquarters announced today that Robert C. Ruark, Scripps-Howard columnist, had agreed to Meet Maj. Gen. Ira Wyche, U. S. Army Inspector General, at Frankfurt September 3.

Wyche said on his arrival in Italy yesterday that he would like to have the cooperation of Ruark in his investigation of Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee's theater administration.

Criticism of the administration by Ruark prompted Wyche's trip from the United States for the investigation.

U. S. Economic Plan Upheld

Argentine demand for a special economic conference before the next inter-American session in Bogota, Colombia, in January, and a Mexican proposal for keeping all economic discussions within the jurisdiction of the Bogota meeting. Mexican Foreign Minister Jaime Torres Bodet was said to have taken the initiative in working out the compromise.

As currently outlined, the agreement calls for adoption of a resolution by the present conference whereby the Inter-American Economic Social Council, an organ of the Pan American Union, would prepare a plan on basic hemispheric economic cooperation for study by the Bogota conference. The special economic conference would be called to implement in detail decisions reached at Bogota.

The agreement was reached after Dr. Guillermo Belt, Cuban Ambassador to Washington, attempted unsuccessfully this morning to get a vote by the "committee on aggression" to make the projected hemispheric defense treaty effective against economic as well as political or military aggression.

Cuba Stands Firm

Belt declared this afternoon there would be "no compromise with the United States" on Cuba's demand for "hemispheric economic independence." Although the committee failed to act on the Cuban motion, adopting instead a Chilean proposal to adjourn until tomorrow, the Cuban delegate said his motion was formally before the committee and "we have no intention of withdrawing it." Informed sources predicted the committee would vote down his proposal.

Several days ago Belt said Cuba would never sign a treaty "without the protection of fundamental human rights and dignities." He said Cuba's proposal was not aimed at any one country.

Civil War Won, Country Ours, Morinigo Says

Asuncion, Paraguay, Aug. 21 (AP).—President Higinio Morinigo's government announced tonight that it had won a "smashing victory" in the Paraguayan civil war and now was in control of the entire country for the first time since March 7.

Loyalist troops, a government communique said, completed mopping up operations during the day in the wild western Chaco region.

The communique declared that all insurgent leaders had abandoned their units and sought refuge in neighboring countries. Large amounts of war materials have been captured from rebel units which "disbanded under the victorious drive of our troops," the bulletin added.

Announcing that authorities now were reestablishing "normalcy in the entire territory of the Republic," the government said towns liberated from the insurgents were receiving aid from the army medical corps and the national food board.

"Thus the forces of constitutional government control all national territory and are able to maintain order and guarantee the free exercise of all legal activities of the inhabitants of the country," the communique stated.

A.P. Names Strozier Buenos Aires Chief

New York, Aug. 21 (AP).—The appointment of Fred L. Strozier as chief of the Associated Press bureau in Buenos Aires was announced today by Executive Director Kent Cooper.

Strozier will leave shortly to succeed Rafael Orderica, who will undertake another executive assignment for the A.P. in the United States after having served 13 years in charge of the offices at Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires. A native of Georgia, Strozier for more than two years has been assigned to the executive duties in the Latin-American branch of the service, in New York.

Chileans Approve Extra Power For President as Unrest Grows

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies voted today to grant President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla special political and economic powers for six months. The 82 to 29 vote was taken at 3:50 a. m. after a heated all-night session.

Under the bill, the President is empowered, among other things, to declare a state of siege as a means of forestalling disorders or sabotage against national production.

Senor Gonzalez asked for special powers in the face of a total stoppage in the country's coal mines, called three days ago by Communist-controlled unions.

Given precedence over all other legislation as a matter of "extreme urgency," the bill was expected to be passed by the Senate tomorrow.

Interior Minister Admiral Immanuel Holger told the chamber that the "revolutionary climate" created by the Communists could no longer be tolerated.

He stressed that the current crisis was not the result of any spontaneous action but was being directed from outside "with the clear purpose of leading the country along the paths of disturbance."

A state of emergency already exists in the Concepcion-Arauco area where some 20,000 striking miners have paralyzed production in the country's biggest collieries.

China Now Fears Economic Squeeze By Jap Industry

Nanking, Aug. 21 (AP).—Chinese economic experts whose fears of Japanese imperialism were ended by V J-Day, have a new worry today—the possibility of Nipponese "economic aggression."

A survey of Chinese commercial and economic circles in the national capital reflects uniform fear of an unfavorable foreign trade with Japan.

These circles believe that Japan's "hunger export" policy may completely hamstring Chinese industries which, after eight years of war with Japan and two years of civil strife, are already incapable of large-scale production.

At present, China has practically nothing available for export, with the exception of talt and very limited quantities of coal. In contrast, the Japanese, their industries having suffered no damage after the war's end, are in a position to flood China's markets with finished products of many types, economic sources here say.

Jet Plane Fluid Drink Kills Soldier

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 21 (AP).—An American soldier and an Estonian displaced person are dead from drinking jet plane fluid as liquor, the United States Army announced tonight. The soldier, identified as Pvt. Eugene J. Cornelison of Fort Hall, Idaho, died Wednesday. The fluid contains both ethyl and methyl alcohol.

Look for ask for SWIFTNING*

OUT PERFORMS ALL OTHER SHORTENINGS!

Only in SWIFT'NING this special "quick-mix" ingredient

Swift'ning is a wholly new kind of shortening, perfected after 18 years of research. As a final crowning achievement, Swift scientists found how to use a wonder-working "quick-mix" ingredient for lighter, more delicious cakes. So—with any recipe, any mixing method—delicate snowy-white Swift'ning makes cakes that are truly superb!

Flakier pies than with any other type of shortening!

If pies and biscuits and shortcakes are favorites with your family, hurry and try Swift'ning! Because tests prove they're flakier and more tender made with Swift'ning than with any other type of shortening. This wonderful new shortening—so delicate, so digestible—is ideal for every use. Try it and you'll agree: it out-performs all other shortenings!

Highly digestible! Extra nutritious!

No other shortening is more digestible than Swift'ning. And it contains two important nutritional essentials in greater quantity than shortenings of other types. You'll love Swift'ning for baking and for frying. Foods fried in it keep their natural flavors no matter how delicate, for Swift'ning is completely tasteless and odorless. Try this finer shortening soon!

Pure, tasteless SWIFT'NING comes in 3 lb. and 1 lb. tins and 1 lb. cartons. Keeps without refrigeration, of course. *The trade-mark for Swift & Company's new, improved Bland Lard.

SAFEWAY'S ANSWER TO HIGH BEEF PRICES

The price of live cattle and dressed beef is now at or near record levels which has resulted in beef prices beyond the reach of many customers and we, at Safeway, realize that something must be done to place meat prices within the reach of all. Therefore, until further notice, Safeway will carry "U. S. Good and Choice" grades of beef at one price and "U. S. Commercial" grade at a lower price.

Wholesale Prices Reach Postwar High

By the United Press

Wholesale prices edged up another 0.3 per cent last week to a new postwar high, only 8½ per cent below the all-time peak reached in May, 1920, the Labor Department reported yesterday.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the average price of 900 basic commodities on August 16 was 1.6 per cent above mid-July and 19 per cent higher than on the corresponding 1946 date. The week's increase was at the rate of 19 per cent a year.

It traced the price rise for the week largely to a sharp seasonal increase in the cost of dairy products. Food prices generally were up 0.7 per cent on the week to a point 15.7 per cent above mid-August, 1946.

Farm products as a group went up 0.1 per cent during the August 16 week to a level 11.1 per cent above last year, but they showed a drop of 0.5 per cent from the mid-July peak.

Meanwhile, the United States Chamber of Commerce issued a statement criticizing the Justice Department's announced decision to investigate high prices.

It said price increases can be blamed on the Government's "inflationary" sspending policies and not on a "plot" by businessmen.

"The 'plot' to raise prices and living costs starts at home base, in the Government's fiscal policy," the chamber said in its weekly publication, Business Action.

"Out of that (Federal) debt has come the greatest money supply, mainly in the form of demand deposits in banks, this country has seen," it added.

It is well to keep the record straight on the sources of inflation if there is to be any official hunt for scapegoats to take the rap for the high cost of living."

Corn Forecast At 11-Year Low

wheat for shipment aboard below present goals.

Fortunately this country is enjoying the largest wheat crop in history, 1428 million bushels, compared with last year's 1155 million, the previous all-time high.

Of this the Government planned on between 600 and 700 million for domestic consumption, and about 220 million fed to livestock and poultry.

Effort Goal Threatened

Out of the remainder it planned to use around 450 million bushels for export, and the rest for carryover as reserve for next year.

However, if domestic consumption and "disappearance" should amount to a billion bushels, which some officials fear, there would not be enough left to meet the export goals set up earlier in the year by the State and Agriculture Departments.

In its forecast the Government said hot, dry weather throughout the Corn Belt caused the sharp decline in prospects. Fundamentally, however, the drop is due to the cold, wet spring, which delayed planting in the chief corn States.

Corn Too Short-Rooted

Corn planted in wet soil doesn't send out roots so deeply as corn planted in dry ground, where the roots shoot out seeking moisture. The short-rooted corn this year was not able to stand the hot, dry late summer months. Also many of the fields were cultivated while wet, which caused the ground to cake more than ordinarily.

Any comparison of corn yields today with the figures of 10 years ago is of little value. First, the population, is about 12 million greater than 10 years ago. Secondly, the per capita consumption of meats which depend on corn, as of most other farm products, is far above 10 years ago. The average American today is eating 155 pounds of meat a year, compared with 126 pounds before the war.

The drop in corn prospects was chiefly felt in Iowa, the greatest corn State. Iowa last year produced 661,620 bushels; this year the forecast is for only 387,036.

Even the present forecast can't be depended upon. The report indicated that most corn is abnormally late, which means that it is in much greater danger of frost than usual.

Veterans Come After Medals Just to Please Their Wives

The American veteran just isn't interested in decorations these days, he says.

It takes an irresistible force, such as his wife, to make an average GI even accept a medal that is offered to him.

At least, that's the impression you get around the Army, Navy, Marine or Coast Guard recruiting offices, where World War II Victory Medals and American Defense Service Medals are being currently distributed.

Petty officers in charge of the distribution for the various services here are getting the same line these days from most of the former servicemen who come in to get their chest bronzes.

"I don't care anything about it, myself, but my wife thinks I ought to have one . . ."

"Something to show my grandchildren when they asked me what I did . . ."

"Funny how women go for these things . . ."

Whether by design or by accident, the fact that the medals are being distributed by recruiting offices does no harm to the recruiting programs.

Chief Quartermaster B. L. Cherry, in charge of the Victory and Defense Medal distribution at the Navy Recruiting Station, Pennsylvania ave. and 14th st. nw., who has given out about 600 Victory Medals and 120 Defense Medals, sad yesterday that several medal-applying veterans have stayed to sign up for another hitch in the Navy.

Judge Frees Two With 15-Minute Start on Police

Baltimore, Aug. 21 (AP).—Two young cousins strolled out of Baltimore City Court today, past the arms of police waiting to arrest them and sped away in a car while the frustrated cops looked on, all with the blessing of a judge.

Judge Michael J. Manley kept the cops, from Maryland and Pennsylvania, at bay with an order that the cousins, William H. Miller, 18, and George R. Miller, 20, of Westminster, Md., be given a 15-minute head start.

The judge explained the head start was to avoid a possible automobile chase through downtown Baltimore. He instructed Assistant State's Attorney Alan H. Murrell to see that the order was enforced.

Several hours later police admitted the cousins were still at liberty.

The "cat and mouse" game started earlier today when Pennsylvania police asked for extradition of the Millers and Robert W. Green of Reisterstown on charges of stealing airplane parts from Raymond Devener's airport in Hanover, Pa.

Two others, Donald May, 17, of Manchester, and Phillip Knatz, 21, of Greenmount, waived extradition, but the three others accused fought removal.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph D. Buscher, appointed by Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., to decide on the extradition order, told Judge Manley he felt the Millers should be freed. The judge agreed.

Then Attorney Murrell informed the judge he was going to arrest the Millers.

Judge Manley gave the Millers sanctuary in a jury room adjacent to his rooms.

Then the Millers' attorney, Wiley L. Ritchey, got from Judge Manley a technical writ of habeas corpus and the 15-minute head start.

20 Brake-Lining and Clutch-Face Firms Indicted on Price-Rigging Conspiracy Charges

New York, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—The Justice Department today broadened its war against monopoly and runaway prices by indicting 20 friction materials manufacturing companies, 53 officials and the trade association to which they belong on charges of conspiracy to fix prices of replacement brake linings and clutch facings.

This was the fourth such indictment in five days.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark personally announced the indictment, which was handed up by the Federal Grand Jury in the Southern New York District.

Clark launched his drive against price conspiracies August 12 when he ordered Federal antitrust attorneys to investigate food, clothing and housing prices to seek violations of antimonopoly laws. President Truman officially approved this new "get-tough" policy two days later and the Justice Department went into action.

During the past five days almost every major steel industry in the country, eight of the Nation's largest tire companies and two technicolor concerns and the Eastman Kodak Company were indicted on charges of violating anti-trust laws.

The District Department charged the brake lining and clutch facing companies with price conspiracies, illegal discounts, illegal classification of customers, terms and conditions of sales, and other practices designed to eliminate competition. Two of the indictments involved domestic sales; and the third, foreign sales.

"It is also noted," said Clark, "that the defendants through manipulated price and discount lists, caused the materials to be sold abroad at prices cheaper than those demanded in the United States, though the articles were manufactured here."

Clark charged that the Brake Lining Manufacturers Association, Inc., of New York City, the trade association for the 20 indicted firms, was the agency through which the defendants carried out the alleged price fixing and other illegal practices.

Lester Stickles, general counsel for the Brake Lining Manufacturers Association, said he was surprised that the grand jury charged anti-trust law violations.

"Of course, the grand jury had only heard one side of the matter and therefore was not in possession of the full facts," Stickles said. "It has even gone so far as to indict a dead person."

Son Kills Ill Mother, Self With Dynamite

Madison, Wis., Aug. 21 (AP).—Dane County authorities issued a signed statement today which declared that Mrs. Alma A. Sholts, 86-year-old widow of a former University of Wisconsin regent, and her son, Arthur, jr., 47, died in their spacious farm home at Oregon Tuesday night after Arthur touched off two sticks of dynamite wired to a chair.

A note, identified as in Arthur's handwriting and saying, "I feel I must go with mother," was found in the house after a fire resulting from the blast was extinguished, according to the statement, which was signed by District Attorney Edwin Wilkie, Sheriff E. A. Fischer and Dr. David Atwood, county coroner. Dr. Atwood said that

"DON'T GUESS about Beef Quality!"

AN EXCERPT FROM LEAFLET 67, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE:

"The Government's Beef Grading and Stamping Srvice benefits housekeepers because, if they buy Graded Beef, it assures a degree of satisfaction commensurate wit hthe grade of Beef asked for. Beef possesses an unusually wide range of quality, but to the average person all Beef looks much alike. In the absence of some definite means of identifying the grade, Beef for the most part haphazard fashion. Too often guesses are inadequate and dissatisfaction results. The Beef looks good but proves to be tough and tasteless. The Government's grade stamp on Beef means all that it signifies—IT IS UNCLE SAM'S OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF QUALITY TO CONSUMERS."

Md. Phone Rates to Rise Starting Sept. 1

Maryland telephone users yesterday faced monthly rate boosts ranging from 25 cents to $1.75, effective September 1.

The pending increases were revealed in a revised schedule of rates filed with the State Public Service Commission by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. It will be the second rate hike since February.

According to company officials only 5 per cent of metropolitan area users will be affected by the increase. Washington rates will not be changed.

The increased rates are designed to produce the $5,289,695 in additional revenue approved by the PSC last week. Vice President August B. Haneke said the new schedule is about the same as in 1936 before a general rate reduction was put into effect.

Nearby Areas Unaffected

Company officials said extended area service in the communities adjacent to Washington will be unaffected by the rate hike. Exchanges offering this type of service, characterized by free calling privileges to Washington, were listed by an official as Hillside, Oliver, Olympic, Pleasant, Sligo, Spruce, Tower, Union, Warfield, Wisconsin and Oliver.

Changes in the local schedules follow:

Senator Bilbo Dead at 69; White Supremacy Champion

his last words in his racial battles which he parlayed into election to the Mississippi State Senate to lieutenant governor, two terms as Governor and three terms as United States Senator.

A hostile Republican-controlled Senate refused to permit his seating January 3 on bi-partisan charges of unfitness for the office.

At that time Bilbo, who had won the election without opposition, was seriously ill with cancer. He was accused by Senate Committees of intimidating Negro voters during his campaign and with misusing his office for personal gain in dealings with war contractors.

After a two-day fight, a compromise was achieved when the Senate agreed to postpone its decision until after Bilbo's recovery from an operation he was to undergo. His salary was continued although he was never given his oath of office.

"If I live," he asserted, 'I'll be back with my fighting clothes on."

Bilbo went through one operation in New Orleans in August last year. His second came in January and a third in June. He spent two weeks in a Vicksburg, Miss. hospital and came to Foundation Hospital, on August 7.

Because of his death Mississippi will elect two Senators—one this year to fill the four years of Bilbo's unexpired term, and the second next year for the full term in the seat now held by James O. Eastland.

Governor Praises Bilbo

Gov. Fielding Wright, although not an ally of Bilbo, praised him as a "long and faithful servant of the State." Last January, he declared he would reappoint Bilbo if the Senate disqualified him. Wright may make on interim appointment to fill the post meanwhile.

President Truman expressed his regrets and said he was sending condolences to Bilbo's family. He recalled at his news conference that he and Bilbo served together in the Senate for 10 years and that Bilbo sat behind him.

Charges against Bilbo arose from investigations by two Senate committees. A special campaign investigating committee probed into Bilbo's public statements during the 1946 primary. Bilbo was Anglo-Saxons" to use "every possible means" to keep Negroes from voting. Bilbo later claimed he meant every "lawful" means.

Accused of War Graft

Three Democrats on the committee voted to clear him. But two Republicans submitted a minority report accusing him of denying voters their civil rights and of intimidating them.

The bi-partisan group of the War Investigating Committee were more unanimous in their condemnation. They reported evidence "clearly indicates that Senator Bilbo improperly used his high office as a United States Senator for his personal gain in his dealings with war contractors."

The committee accused him of accepting "gratuities or benefits" totalling between $57,089 and $88,721.

These, they said, included the gift of an automobile; a "loss" of $48,042 by a contractor friend in the operation of Bilbo's farm; a gift to help Wall Doxey in his unsuccessful Senate campaign of 1942 against Senator Eastland. Other contractors said they had helped with jobs during construction of Bilbo's $75,000 "Dream House" near Poplarville, Miss., where he was born October 13, 1877.

All the contractors were engaged in air field construction in Mississippi.

Bilbo contended that the committee had only shown he had received a car and a small amount of furniture as Christmas presents from the contractors.

It was not the first time Bilbo had been accused of taking "gifts."

Ouster proceedings against Bilbo in 1910, when he was a State Senator in Mississippi failed by one vote. Bilbo had a constant reminder of that one vote whenever he entered a certain elevator at the United States Senate.

Operator of that elevator until a few months ago was Frank Harper, a former State Senator from Mississippi. It was he who cast the deciding vote against ousting Bilbo who had bragged of receiving the bribe. Harper received his job here, not from Bilbo, but from Senator Eastland.

That was Bilbo's first elected office. He won it with the vinegar invective anad Negro baiting, and he perfected his methods through the years.

Capitalized on Slur

It was typical that he capitalized on an opponent's slur which gave birth to Bilbo's "The Man." The opponent used it to tell of Bilbo's amorous adventures.

"The Man" used it ever afterwards as a mark of pride on his prowess.

He used his grassroots knowledge of the Mississippi "red-necks" and their hatreds as a stepping stone to public office and fame. Bilbo introduced a bill in Congress to ship the country's 13 million Negroes back to Africa. He publicly admitted having joined the Ku Klux Klan. Last year he published a book entitled "Take Your Choice —Segregation or Mongrelization."

Asked who would pick cotton if the Negroes were moved away, Bilbo declared: "The mechanical cotton picker—and it won't demand social equality or intermarriage with the whites."

Thrived on Publicity

He bitterly opposed FEPC bills and all efforts to end the poll tax. He was opposed adamantly to anti-lynching bills.

He loved and thrived on publicity. Bilbo once told a newspaper reporter whom he met for the first time: "Son, you can cuss me, or, if you want, you can praise me. I don't care and I won't sue you for libel. But, for God's sake, don't ever ignore me."

Bilbo, short and shriveled but with a high-pitched raucous voice, took great pride in his campaign uniform—a stickpin of 37 diamonds, a necktie which may have been red originally but which most often showed stains of many meals, and customarily his red suspenders.

Other than regaining his Senate seat, "The Man's" prime ambition was to make good the boast: "I'll live to be 100 if some woman doesn't shoot me." There's a bullet hole in the mantelpiece of the governor's office. Bilbo denied it was put there by a woman.

Stadium Plan Proposed

"It's a damn lie, I was cleaning my gun and it went off," he explained. But that hasn't killed off the legend.

Bilbo's advent as "Mayor of Washington"—a title that goes with chairmanship of the Senate District Committee—was somewhat the equivalent of a rhinoceros in the National Art Gallery.

In 1944 he recommended that 20,000 residents here be driven out of the alley buildings and shipped off to farms or Africa. He proposed a "self-liquidating" stadium, financed by private capital. Several firms were interested, he said.

In 1944 Bilbo told the Mississippi State Legislature that he deplored racial conditions in Washington. He predicted that if suffrage should ever be granted to the District "the Negroes would soon have control of the city."

The Washington Federation of Churches, representing 75,000 Protestants, declared Bilbo had disqualified himself as chairman of the District Committee and ought to resign.

Veteran Pickets Office

Bilbo's fame and his race utterances spread far, even overseas to the troops. One wounded Navy veteran picketed his office and home with a sign bearing a picture of a purple heart with the words: "Was this in vain? Tell it to me, Bilbo. I fought for Democracy."

Bilbo was born on a back country farm near Poplarville on October 13, 1877, in a family of eight children. He worked at odd jobs to pay his way through Peabody College and Vanderbilt University at Nashville, and finally obtained a law degree at the University of Michigan.

He started his political career in 1908 when he was elected to the State Senate. From 1912 to 1916 he served as lieutenant governor and was Governor from 1916 to 1920, and 1928 to 1932.

He won the nomination to the United States Senate in 1935 despite the opposition of the late Pat Harrison, then the senior Senator. He won renomination two times more.

His first wife died in 1900 and in 1903 he married Miss Linda R. Gaddy. That marriage ended in divorce in 1938.

With him when he died was his children, Lieut. Col. Theodore G. Bilboe, jr., and Mrs. Jesse L. Smith.

Colonel Bilbo announced that funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 p. m. at Poplarville, Miss.

Md. May End Tax on Sales Under 20 Cents

Maryland State Comptroller James J. Lacy yesterday ordered an investigation into the possibility of eliminating the two per cent sales tax on purchases under 20 cents.

Collections for July indicate that the tax may bring returns of more than 20 million dollars for the year, he said. The State financial program is based on estimates that the tax will produce an annual revenue of $18,400,000.

Reported at the close of business yesterday were returns of $1,350,000 for the month of July, with 36,500 business firms reporting. The tax office has distributed 44,000 licenses.

Lacy explained that not all of the businesses yet to report will send in money. Many, he said, acquired licenses in order to issue resale certificates.

The comptroller said that he will recommend to the Governor that the sales act be amended to eliminate the tax on purchases less than 20 cents if collections continue ase expected and if th study indicates the move is practical.

The tax law now requires a one-cent tax on items selling for more than nine cents and less than 20 cents.

Much of the "nuisance" element of the tax will be eliminated if the exemption is made, it was pointed out. Purchases of candy bars, cigarettes, beer and many soda fountain items would be tax free.

The exemption also would reduce criticism that the tax hits hardest on small purchases. Customers now paying a one-cent tax on a 10-cent purchase have protested that they are paying a 10 per cent tax.

Lacy assigned Walter E. Kennedy, director of the sales tax division, to conduct the study, but indicated that no immediate decision will be made.

Vepco's Line Proposal Hit In Fairfax

Fairfax County's board of supervisors has joined hands with a group of county residents in opposing the Virginia Electric & Power Co. plan to string a 17-mile aerial transmission line through the eastern central part of the country.

At its Wednesday meeting, the board resolved the line should go underground and instructed Commonwealth's Attorney Hugh B. Marsh to obtain a ruling from the State Attorney General on the legality of an ordinance to that effect.

This action came midway in court proceedings initiated by Vepco to acquire a 225-foot right-of-way over the proposed route. Judge Paul E. Brown of the Fairfax County Circuit Court has set September 4 for the hearing on a petition asking appointment of commissioners to proceed with condemnation.

VEPCO first presented the petition July 23. Brown continued the case until the company had specified exactly what sort of construction was proposed.

The amended petition, if granted, would give the company authority to carry 300,000 volts through lines supported by steel towers up to 150 feet in height or wooden poles up to 70 feet high. No poles or wires would extend more than 97½ feet from the center of the right of way.

Nude Raiders Fire Homes of Sect Members

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 21 (AP).—Bands of naked night raiders, both men and women, are setting fires among Doukhobor settlements near Nelson, B. C. Flames already have razed more than a score of schools, homes and farm buildings.

One band is reported led by a nude woman.

Many of the Doukhobors, a strange religious sect which came here from Russia in 1899, have appealed to provincial police and to Ottawa for aid after raids or threats of raids, but police said today they refused to reveal details.

The fires repeatedly have been blamed on radical members of the Sons of Freedom, a faction which long ago broke from the rule of the followers of Peter (the Lordly) Verigin, the original leader of the sect. A number of women are reported among the raiders, who strike in groups of 50 to 75.

Doukhobors say they prefer to seek out the raiders themselves.

Police authorities at Victoria said each fire was being investigated and that a special report would be made to the attorney general this week.

A sidelight of the wave of incendiarism was its effect on the labor situation.

Oil Concern Is Held to Blame For Begriming Truman Yacht

L. P. Steuart, Inc., oil distributors, yesterday were held accountable for the beginning of the President's yacht "Williamsburg" and some 80 other craft docked in the Anacostia River.

The matter was brought to the attention of Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King by members of several yacht clubs and officials of the U. S. Navy Yard. They complained that oil from the Steuart plant had defaced their boats.

After a hearing King said that evidence showed the oil had escaped from a grease trap at Steuart's during a storm early in the month. The oil distributor's plant is situated at the foot of 14th st. nw.

"If Steuart takes care of the damage to craft promptly, no charges will be placed against the firm since the error obviously was not intentional," King said.

"However if the matter is not immediately taken up by the company, charges will be placed," he said.

Real Estate Probe Grows

came to be the usual practice, but there are 1400 real estate brokers in Washington and so far as I know, they all use it.

"But that doesn't mean there's any rule requiring it. It's just a practice and there's nothing to prevent a broker from taking a smaller commission as often is the case."

But if it's the commission angle the Government is particularly interested in, the Justice Department hasn't said so. The Justice Department hasn't said anything.

Kramer Conducts Probe

Victor Kramer, special assistant to the Attorney General, is conducting the investigation with the assistance of Herbert Maltez of the antitrust division.

Because of the probe, Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, flew back to Washington Wednesday night from New Orleans and called a meeting here yesterday of national and local group officers. Following the meeting, Henry E. Price, an attorney, was retained as counsel.

May Take a Week

The testimony before the grand jury may continue all of next week to permit the appearance of all of the brokers and their officers who have been subpenaed.

Rufus S. Luck, local real estate statistician and analyst, is one of the witnesses asked to appear next Monday. Lusk said he was requested to produce records showing all parcel land sales here during 1946.

The firms which have received subpenas have been ordered to bring before the grand jury all company records, including certificates of incorporation and lists of officers.

Judge's Story Is Disputed

King said he was still waiting for Judge Raedy to find the man she declares was driving the car. In yesterday's conversation with King she said she is attempting to contact the man through a mutual friend in New York.

Allen, the parking lot attendant, said he saw the car driven away Tuesday morning and did not see it again until 11 p. m. Tuesday night, when the four pepole drove up in it.

Earlier that evening, he told King, Judge Raedy had called the parking lot and told another employe that a gentleman would be down at 11 p. m. to take the car.

The second lot attendant, identified only a "Coolie" is to be among several witnesses called at continuation of the hearing today.

Prince Georges Denies 6 of 11 Liquor Permits

Disapproval of six of eleven license applications was voted by the Prince Georges County Liquor Board yesterday in a prolonged five-and-a-half-hour session at the Marlboro Court House.

A crowd of more than 200 citizens supporting or protesting the applications jammed the tiny hearing room and overflowed into the corridors.

The largest delegation of 120 persons protested the application of Earl D. Stewart for off-sale beer, wine and liquor, at Stewart's Self Service, 7401 Allentown rd., Oakland. This application, which had been denied by the board seven months ago, was again refused after 75 per cent of the surrounding residents petitioned against its approval.

In announcing the board's ruling, the chairman, Mrs. Mary W. Browning, told Stewart that it was going on record as "refusing to hear any more applications for that location." Her statement was received by the packed room with cheers and handclapping.

Three other applications, all opposed by local governing bodies and citizens groups, were turned down by the board on the all-inclusive grounds that a sufficient number of liquor dispensing establishments already exist in their localities.

A transfer of an on-sale beer, wine and liquor license to Samuel C. Skinner and others from Gerald G. Gerry and others at Dixie Tavern, Central ave. and Addison rd., Seat Pleasant, was approved, as was an off-sale beer, wine and liquor license for Harvey Fox and Thomas Deal, Fox and Deal, Livingston rd., Chapel Hill.

Gayle Trial Date In Ax Slaying Set for Sept. 3

September 3 has been set as the trial date of Purley Gayle, 47, ax-wielding Arlington laborer charged with bludgeoning his 10-year-old son, Leslie, to death and critically injuring his daughter and young nephew.

During the trial in Arlington County Court, Gayle will be represented by T. J. Houston, Washington attorney.

Meantime, his daughter, Sarah, 6, and nephew, Joseph Woolford, 9, were listed as "slightly better" but still in critical condition at Arlington Hospital. Hospital attendants said Sarah remained semi-conscious, the boy unconscious.

The three children were struck while in their beds last Saturday at the Gayle home, 1955 S. Kenmore st., Arlington. In a confession to police, Gayle said he axed the children "because I din't know how I could take care of them." Employed by the Arlington sanitation department, he said he earned $42 weekly.

Bride 'Initialed' By Estranged Mate

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MRS. JEWELL LEWIS, 25, telephones friends after police in Jacksonville, Fla., jailed her estranged husband, Robert Eugene Lewis, 25, on charges of carving his initials "R. E. L." on her thigh and putting crosses on her breast while in a drunken fury. Mrs. Lewis, a bride of three months, said Lewis tied her to a hotel bed and as a climax to the night of torture forced her to cut her initials on his leg "to show me I was still his wife"

K. of C. Parley Accuses Reds Of Tyranny

Boston, Aug. 21 (AP).—The national convention of the Knights of Columbus today called upon President Truman and Congress to "defeat the purpose" of Russia in what the convention said was a Soviet attempt to tyrannize this Nation.

A resolution asked defeat "of the purpose of this enemy Soviet government to extend to our free America the barbarous tyranny it imposes upon its own people and the peoples of the kidnaped Balkan and Baltic nations."

The K. of C. charged:

"The Soviet conspiracy has established beachheads of corruption and disloyalty among employes of our Government, among members of our labor unions and among the ranks of American citizens engaged in their professions in the education of our children."

A resolution calling upon protestants to "repudiate the calumnies" of seven Protestant ministers who recently reported finding religious freedom in Yugoslavia was also adopted without dissent.

Concert of Mennonite Choir From Kansas Televised Here

The third generation of a persecuted people who immigrated from Russia to the Midwest in 1874, the 40-person choir of a Kansas Menonite college, sang over Station WNBW last night.

Although it has been on National networks before, it appearance on the Wardman Park Hotel stage was the first televised apeparance for the Bethel College Choir for North Newton, Kan.

The choristers, who leave today for Pennsylvania, are members of the General Conference of Mennonites of North America, numbering 50,000 of the 150,000 Mennonites in the country and one of 17 groups, including the Amish of Pennsylvania.

The members of the General Conference, who do not believe in attracting attention to themselves by eccentric dress, are the descendants of immigrants who came to the Midwest at the instigation of the Santa Fe Railroad, which was seeking to populate the country. With them they brought the hard turkey red winter wheat that became an important Midwest crop.

Third Gulf Storm Blows Itself Out

New Orleans, Aug. 21 (AP).—The season's third tropical storm in the Gulf of Mexico, which had held a threat to the coast line since Monday, dissipated into squalls today below Louisiana.

The United States Weather Bureau here advised at 3 p. m. (CST) that winds, which formerly were estimated up to 50 miles an hour near the center, had been reduced to 35 miles as the squally area drifted northward.

Fire Nearly Wipes Out Town's Business Area

Lexington, Neb., Aug. 21 (U.P.).—A fire nearly wiped out the business district of Lexington early today.

Before the blaze was brought under control at 4:30 a. m., it destroyed a lumber yard, nine buildings, damaged two others, and left the principal business block on Washington st. with only three buildings standing.

Crippled Children Have Fun At Two District Day Camps

Wesley Garrison, 5, is busily engaged with craft work —The Washington Post

Ten-year-old Jimmy used to spend all his summertime days indoors, listening to the radio, or stealing glances through the window at the other kids—the lucky ones.

His parents were away at work and the neighborhood gang wouldn't play with a kid who was crippled.

Today Jimmy found his place in the sun—at Oak Hill Day Camp, run by the District Society for Crippled Children, in cooperation with the District Recreation Department.

Some 60 physically handicapped youths like Jimmy are learning sports, hand crafts, painting, cooking, music, a love of the outdoors.

And they're all having a whale of a good time—white children at Oak Hill Day Camp on Health School Grounds, 13th and Allison sts. nw., Negro children at Rest Hill Day Camp, at the Garfield School, Anacostia.

Both camps, which close today, are free. They cost the District Society for Crippled Children about $3000.

Next year, the Society hopes, the District government will realize the need for and accomplishment of the project, which provides the first summer recreation facilities here for handicapped youngsters.

Physical and speech therapists aid the campers in their battle with handicaps; counsellors and directors supervise them in wide-ranging recreation.

The first camp session enrolled the variously crippled. Currently the camps accommodate those with heart ailments. All are under their own physician's care.

Daily arrival of enthusiastic letters from parents testify as to the value of the project—as do the healthier bodies, the sunnier faces of the campers.

Two Arrested in Girard St. Gambling Raid

Two men were arrested yesterday for operating a numbers and horse race betting establishment in Washington. Police described it as a local outlet for an "establishment" in Maryland.

The men, who police said had taken bets as high as $150 yesterday, were arrested about 4:15 p. m. when members of the vice squad raided the basement at 1459 Girard st. nw. The place had been under surveillance for three weeks, it was learned. Lieut. Roy Blick led the raid.

Arrested were Edward H. Trundle, 39, of 321 Madison st. nw., and Avery G. Davis, 39, of 1321 Columbia rd. nw. They were charged with operating a lottery, possession of lottery slips, and setting up a gaming table.

They were released under bond set at $3000 each, for their appearance this morning before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

Police described the Girard street place as a "telephone and walk-in race horse betting establishment." The equipment consisted of a telephone, a radio, quantities of paper and pencils, and a large number of race horse and numbers slips which police confiscated.

Phone Bets Reported

According to police, Trundle was accepting the phone bets and relaying them to the Maryland "establishment," while Davis served as doorman to admit those persons who came to place their bets.

Police said that Trundle had $1600 in his pocket at the time of his arrest. However, since the money was not with the gaming and lottery equipment, it was not confiscated and will not be a part of the police case.

Tour of Forts, Nature Walk Are Scheduled

There's big news today along the natural lore front: mules instead of horses are going to draw the C&O Canal Barge along the waterway this weekend.

Other events sponsored by National Capital Parks over the weekend are an auto caravan to Fort Frederick State Park and C&O Canal Parkway, an historical tour of Fort Washington, Maryland, a moss walk, and a nature ramble.

The barge trips are going to be under the aegis, in addition to the mules, of Richard H. Martin, whose grandfather was a mule tender on the canal when it was in actual operation.

The historical tour of Fort Washington on Sunday will be led by Historian Stanley W. McClure, who will describe the history of the old fort, erected between 1814 and 1824.

Fort Dupont Park will be the locale for the nature ramble, to be conducted from 3 to 5 tomorrow. On Sunday, mosses will be studied from 3 to 5 p. m. in Rock Creek Park. The group is to meet at 16th and Alaska ave. nw.

Autos going to Fort Frederick will meet at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Park Museum. Special buses will leave 1416 F st. nw. at 8 a. m. The Fort Washington tour will begin just inside the entrance of the fort at 2:30 Sunday, and the canal trips are scheduled at 2 p. m. Saturday, and 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. Sunday.

British Proclaim Strict Censorship At German Fair

Hamburg, Germany, Aug. 21 (AP).—The British military government today ordered all foreign businessmen and newspapermen visiting the Hannover Trade Fair to submit all their documents to censorship before leaving Germany.

"You have been warned," said posters which carried the notice.

The posters were placed at several points in the transit camp where foreign visitors to the fair, in the British occupation zone, are accommodated.

British officials at the camp could give no explanation other than to refer to a censorship branch order published November 16, 1946. That order ruled that documents in languages other than English, French, German and Russian would not be permitted to leave Germany.

British authorities in Berlin announced, meanwhile, that export contracts worth $400,000 had been signed during the first three days of the fair. Printing machinery and motorcycles headed the list.

Truman Held Facing Trouble On Trade Pact

By the United Press

Chairman Eugene D. Millikin of the powerful Senate Finance Committee said last night that President Truman would face a hornet's nest of trouble in gaining extension of the reciprocal trade program unless strict curbs are placed on "arbitrary" presidential tariff-cutting powers.

But the Colorado Republican told a reporter he did not believe the Republican congressional majority would scrap the entire program for a return to tariff-writing by congressional "logrolling."

The Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act expires next June unless renewed by Congress. Millikin predicted that both the House and Senate would take long looks at administration of the act before renewing it.

He urged consideration of a system of "danger points" for tariff schedules—points below which rates could not be cut by executive order.

Under the present act, the President may cut tariff rates by as much as 50 per cent without asking congressional advice or consent.

With Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg, Millikin earlier this year proposed tariff reforms which would have established a "danger point" system, but this was not accepted by the State Department. However, other Vandenberg-Millikin reforms involving inclusion of escape clauses in reciprocal trade agreements and a strengthened role for the United States Tariff Commission were effected through an executive order.

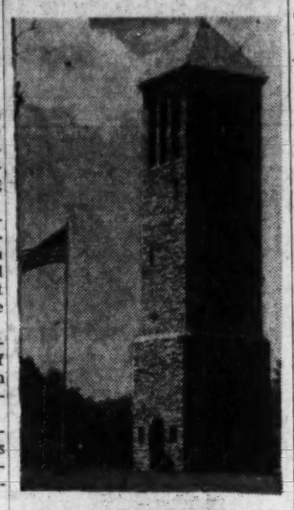
Carilloneurs To Meet at Luray Monda



SINGING TOWER
Luray landmark

Special Dispatch to The Post

Luray, Va., Aug. 21.—A three-day meeting of approximately 50 noted carrillonneurs will be held here next week.

The meeting, annual session of the Congress of the Guild of Carillonneurs of North America, will be held from August 25 to 27.

Recitals, lectures, business and entertainment features comprise the program, according to C. T. Chapman of Luray, who will be host to the group.

Kamiel Lefve, carillonneur of Riverside Church in New York City, where the world's largest carillon is located, will give a formal recital on the Luray Singing Tower. Also on the program are Percival Price of the University of Michigan, C. Dennis Murphy of Wisconsin, Anton Brees of Lake Wales, Fla., and Frederick Mariott, carillonneur of the University of Chicago.

Fire Insurance Rates Increased In Hagerstown

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—Fire insurance rates went up 20 per cent on homes and 25 per cent on mercantile establishments in Hagerstown today and the Chamber of Commerce asked the Maryland Fire Underwriters' Rating Bureau for a conference on the situation.

Local insurance men estimated Hagerstown residents and businessmen will have to pay $200,000 more in annual premiums because of the increase.

The Chamber of Commerce said it would like to have the rate bureau's suggestions on reducing fires.

The bureau recently upped Salisbury rates 25 per cent because of "bad fire experience" there.

Truman Resembles Avowed Candidate, Minus Avowal

For a brief moment yesterday, President Truman looked like an avowed candidate for a full four-year term in '48—but only for a moment.

In response to a reporter's question, Mr. Truman said that when former Senator James Huffman (D., Ohio) called on him Wednesday, they talked politics.

"Did he say you would do all right in Ohio?," the reporter asked.

That's what he said, the President replied amidst laughter.

"You'll be a candidate then, Sir?" inquired the reporter, amidst more laughter.

The President, flushing and joining in the hilarity, told the reporter that he didn't say that. And he added that he was making no announcements.

Mr. Truman was asked about another caller, Thomas Connor, a former Scranton, Pa., editor. He recalled that Connor was his host when he went to Scranton as a Missouri Senator to make a St. Patrick's Day speech.

Connor reminded the President yesterday that he was the first man to suggest him for Vice President in 1944.

Mr. Truman, grinning, told the reporters that he did not thank Connor for starting the boom.

Other White House callers yesterday were Pat Flynn, 17, and Dick Flynn, 16, sons of Democratic National Committeeman Ed Flynn of New York, and two friends.

One of the friends was Peter Maguire of Dublin, 21-year-old son of Irish Chief Justice Conor A. Maguire, and the other was John Spain, 17, of Mahopac, N. Y. The four youngsters were in Washington on a sightseeing trip.

Truman Visits Hull, King at Hospital

President Truman went to the Navy Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., yesterday and visited visited Cordell Hull and Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, who are patients there.

The President took flowers from the White House gardens to the former Secretary of State and the wartime Chief of Naval Operations.

He also sent flowers to Mrs. Claude Swanson, widow of a former Secretary of the Navy and inquired about her health, although it wasn't convenient for him to visit with her at the time.

Potomac Bus Drivers Return

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—Transportation returned to normal today after settlement of a one-day strike of Potomac Motor Lines drivers.

Yesterday's walkout stranded hundreds of commuting workers living within a 20-mile radius.

W. R. Cunningham, company attorney, and Paul V. Smith, spokesman for the drivers, said action on wage adjustments and working conditions would be deferred until after the workers vote on union affiliation. They are at present not represented by any national organization.

The company also agreed in a meeting last night that a driver-dispatcher would be reinstated to his job.

Don't wipe dishes.... they'll drain-dry to diamond-bright lustre with
Glim
A tiny thimbleful does your dinner dishes!
Glim
Enough for 50 dishwashings
New! Liquid Wonder floats grease away fast!

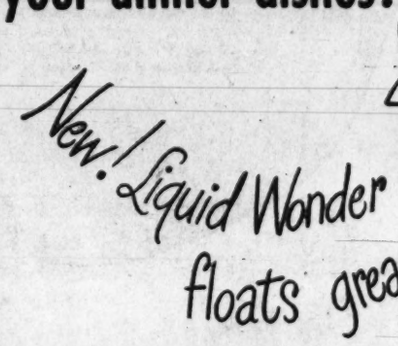
No soap film! Every dish sparkles!
You never saw such shining dishes, glassware, silver! Glim leaves them completely clean . . . no dulling soapy streaks. A dream for dishwashing—that's Glim!

Leaves hands feeling surgically clean!
Glim leaves hands cleaner than ever before. Yet no soap made—powder, flake or bar—is safer, gentler, or milder to hands. Unlike soap, Glim contains no harsh alkali. In tests with eleven leading soap and soapless dishwashers, only Glim proved 100% non-irritating to all types of skin.

Cuts grease faster than soap!
Grease actually disappears as Glim cuts it away from dishes, pots and pans. Even sticky lamb fat, egg smears float away, surrounded by fast-acting Glim!

Soapless, almost workless, dishwashing!
Glim virtually does the dishes for you! Cleans them faster, better than soap. Makes rinsing easier. Does away with wiping—dish towel bother. Dishes drain dry. Even the dishpan's cleaner—no grimy ring!

Suds faster than soap!
For instant suds in any water—pour Glim into dishpan. Add water full force. Glim keeps on cleaning even after suds have dissolved!



Money back . . .
if you don't like Glim better than any other dishwasher, soap or soapless, that you can buy. Send bottle with unused portion to Antara Products, 230 Park Avenue, N. Y. 17, N. Y., and we'll gladly refund purchase price plus postage.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Byrnes Has Formula For Amity With Russia

By Robert S. Allen

(Editor's note—While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State, now practicing law in Washington, has been following the Administration's foreign policy with intense interest. This is particularly true as regards relations with Soviet Russia, with whom Byrnes had protracted, and at times, painful encounters during a number of conferences.

Byrnes

An old friend asked Byrnes if he thought it was possible for the United States and the U.S.S.R. to reach a better understanding. This was Byrnes' reply:

"I think it is, and this is my formula. Get people who believe deeply that we can find a basis for working with the Russians. Then support these people to the limit. When they start getting discouraged and cynical, replace them with others who are confident that a solution can be found.

"As is evident, such a program would take time, patience, brains and courage. But I believe it would work. I certainly think it would be worthwhile trying. War is a terrifying alternative to consider."

Note: Another old friend recently remarked to Byrnes, "Too bad you resigned, Jimmy." To which Byrnes shot back, "Who said I resigned?"

Peron Guests

Republican National Chairman B. Carroll Reece arrived in Buenos Aires several days ago with his wife and daughter for what he described to reporters as "just a little holiday." The GOP chairman was given a $40-a-day suite in the Argentine capital's swankiest hotel, the Plaza. Officials of the Foreign Ministry instructed the hostelry's management that all food and drinks ordered by the Reeces be charged to the government. An automobile with private license plates, rented by the ministry from Buenos Aires' leading funeral parlor, was placed at the visitors' service.

The Reece family joined several other Peron guests in the Plaza. Harold McCormack of the Moore - McCormack Steamship Lines, with his wife, and Edward Fenton, head of the United States Public Relations Council, were already installed there on an all-expense basis.

Fenton came to Buenos Aires to negotiate final terms of a contract which, he told newsmen in New York, may involve expenditure of five million dollars in the United States to extol the virtues of the Argentine's flamboyant chief executive and his grandiose five-year plan.

The publicist's statement created considerable annoyance in Buenos Aires government circles. Carried by the wire services, it served as the basis for unfavorable comment in several opposition papers. One miffed Peron official remarked: "Mr. Fenton will have to explain away his indiscretion before he talks about anything else."

Despite official pleas that veterans hold on to their terminal leave bonds, indications are that at least 75 per cent will cash them by the end of the year . . . W. E. (Red) James, brilliant young former FCC attorney and veteran of Iwo Jima and Okinawa, is being strongly urged by Alabama former servicemen to run for the seat now held by Representative George Grant. James is one of five brothers who served in the armed forces during the war . . . There is a lot of hush-hush about it, but a Swiss attorney for the Nazi executives of the giant I. G. Farben cartel, facing early trial by the United States, suddenly popped up in Washington for the ostensible purpose of persuading the Alien Property Custodian to "unfreeze" some Farben funds to pay for legal expenses. The Swiss got a curt brush-off . . . The Alien Property Custodian, a section of the Justice Department, holds more than 300 million dollars in impounded German property . . . Paul McNutt, former United States Ambassador to the Philippines, has told Indiana friends he favors the State's delegation being pledged to President Truman . . . Memoirs of the late Harry Hopkins, being completed by his close friend, playwright Robert Sherwood, have been purchased by Collier's magazine. They will be as sensational as Jim Farley's, but from an entirely different viewpoint . . . The 8-inch guns now being installed on new United States cruisers fire four times faster than those during the war . . . This year's National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week will be from October 5 to 11. The 1946 campaign resulted in 29,439 handicapped persons being placed in gainful employment, 19,200 of them disabled veterans. President Truman and other national leaders are strongly backing the 1947 drive . . . Senator Harold McGrath (R. I.) is lining up backing for his bill to reimburse United States civilians for damages incurred as Jap prisoners . . . Representative Margaret Chase Smith, hard-working Maine Republican, is losing no time campaigning for the seat of retiring Senator Wallace White. If elected, Mrs. Smith would be the first woman Senator from New England . . . Like President Truman, Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican foreign affairs leader, is an amateur pianist. His favorite tune is "When You Wore a Tulip."

Marriage Talisman

Popular tourist spot in the great-domed Capitol is the star-shaped marble stone inlaid in the ground floor near the bust of Susan B. Anthony, pioneer suffragist. Known as the "Lucky Star," it is supposed to have occult properties.

Capitol Guide John Guffner was explaining this to a group of Pennsylvanians the other day when a husky, middle-aged woman suddenly rushed forward and yelled, "Hold it, hold everything! Gertrude is the only one we want to rub her shoes on that star. Come on, Gertrude, and do your stuff."

Guffner stood goggle-eyed as a young woman pushed through the crowd and began doing a whirling dervish act on the marble stone. She stamped her feet, extended her arms prayerfully, and whirled around dizzily.

Guffner asked the older woman what it was all about. This was her explanation:

"Well, Mister, Gertrude can use some luck. You see she lost her husband not long ago and we're all pulling for her to get another man."

Steel Hoarders

The forthcoming Senate Small Business Committee hearings on the critical steel shortage will put the State Department, Army and Navy on the spot.

The committee will reveal State as very open-handed in granting licenses for large-scale steel exports abroad, and the two military services as hoarding huge quantities of unused steel.

Before leaving Washington on his vacation, Senator Bob Taft sent the committee a complaint from an Ohio manufacturer charging the Army and Navy with hoarding more than 500,000 tons of steel.

The committee hearings, under the chairmanship of Senator Edward Martin (R., Pa.) will bring a number of top steel executives to the witness stand.

Little Change Seen in Looks of 1948 Autos

By Bob Considine

Detroit, Aug. 21 (INS).—What are the 1948 cars going to look like?

We were more or less promised that this vintage would be the first of the truly postwar automobiles. But if you're looking for something with a lot of transparent plastic, tear-drop shape and engine in the rear, you're going to be disappointed.

The big change in 1948 models will be the engines. Virtually all the companies have new power plants ready to install in bodies which will have only slightly racier contours.

New engines will not be the rule for all 1948 models, however. General Motors, for instance, has new motors ready for the Chevrolet, Pontiac, Olds, Buick and Cadillac, but will use them only in the Cadillac for '48.

The new engines are, on the average, nearly 200 pounds lighter than the engines they'll replace. They will burn a new type of gasoline—already promised by the big oil companies for 1948 — of a higher octane content than the high-test gas now on sale.

The present high-test gas has a 72 octane rating. The gas for the new engines will be closer to 100 octane, which was the type used in war-planes during World War II.

Though much more compact, the new high-compression engines will be about one third more powerful. The gas they'll need will be expensive, perhaps more than 30 cents a gallon, but the engines will be more economical than the old types and the over-all cost of driving such new cars will be about the same.

Clay's Aide Returning

Berlin, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, announced today that Sumner Sewall will be returning to the United States next month after 16 months' service here. Sewell, former Governor of Maine, has been military governor of Wuerttemberg-Baden.

Lincoln Reflecting Pool Fails To Reflect Due to Surface Scum

The Lincoln Reflecting Pool isn't reflecting anything nice about Washington these days.

It's too scummy.

Present condition of the rectangular basin which ordinarily mirrors the stately Lincoln Memorial and the towering Washington Monument irritates its custodians as well as loyal residents and disappointed sightseers. But, said the custodians yesterday, only time will right things.

Unsightly appearance of the pool is due mainly to draining off half its 30-inch depth to aid removal of the wartime temporary bridge bases, explained Edward Kelly, special assistant superintendent for National Capital Parks, custodian of the pool. Actually, he said, the water is no more dirty than it is normally at this season.

"When we drained off about 15 inches of the water," he said, "it naturally exposed the sloping sides covered with their residue of sludge. If the pool were filled to normal, people would scarcely notice it."

He said further that even if they wanted to clean the pool at this season they wouldn't dare. Huge as it is, its bottoms and sides form one big tub of welded sheet metal.

"This bathtub or what you call it, sits on ground that once was marshland," Kelly said. "We know that in the summertime marsh gases form underneath it but are not dangerous because of the weight of the water.

"If we should draw all that water off, the gas might 'blow.' There might be an explosion and someone might get hurt."

That's why the pool is drained, hosed down and scrubbed in the spring and fall, when marsh gas does not generate to any possible danger point. The pool is due for a semi-annual scrubbing this fall.

Besides the beauty-lovers, the condition of the reflecting pool distresses another class. They are the model sailboat enthusiasts, who use the water for a yachting concourse.

Bomb Hurled at Legation

Havana, Cuba Aug. 21 (AP).—Police said a small bomb exploded today on the pavement outside grounds of the Russian legation. Unidentified persons in an automobile dropped the crude apparatus, made from a 6-inch steel pipe. The blast caused considerable alarm, but no damage was reported.

Randolph Named to Head D. C. Aviation Group

Jennings Randolph, former Representative from West Virginia, has been appointed chairman of the Washington Aviation Planning Council.

Randolph

Randolph, now an executive of Capital (Pennsylvania Central) Airlines, is chairman of the West Virginia Planning Board Aviation Committee, and a councilor of the National Aeronautic Association for the District of Columbia. He organized and was first president of the Congressional Flying Club.

The Washington Aviation Planning Council is designed to coordinate civic groups for aviation development which the groups formerly sponsored individually.

The council is backing establishment of airports for private flyers in an intown location, and alternative airports to relieve National Airport when adverse weather conditions make instrument landings necessary.

Navy Man, Civilian Beaten in Shanghai

Shanghai, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—United States Navy headquarters announced today that a chief petty officer had been severely beaten and a Navy civilian employe shot twice in the thigh when a group of Chinese waylaid the pair in an exclusive residential suburb of Shanghai.

The civilian employe, George J. Rott of Shanghai, and chief torpedoman's mate Orrin D. Perry, address unlisted, also were robbed and shoved into a ditch alongside their wrecked jeep.

Fright Whistle Only Draws More Seagulls

New York, Aug. 21 @.—The city's giant reservoirs at Ashokan and Croton, N. Y., have been plagued by hordes of seagulls, so municipal fathers installed a supersonic whistle to give them an earache and chase them away.

The Department of Water Supply today dolefully announced the result: More seagulls plus a representative turnout of the area's dogs.

Marshall's Speech

Secretary Marshall in his speech at Rio quietly and effectively spiked the hope of some of the gimme boys assembled in Rio that the conference would take up the Argentine suggestion of a Marshall Plan for the Western Hemisphere. The Marshall Plan has reference only to those countries in western Europe which are still coping with the problems of war devastation and postwar prostration; the Americas are neither devastated nor prostrate. A short-term plan is the objective of the Marshall Plan; economic cooperation in the Americas is a long-term proposition. The clinching argument against such a diversion of the discussion in Rio is that the Americas are assembled for the simple purpose of writing a security treaty.

It was a pity that Secretary Marshall did not use the opportunity to invite the cooperation of the Americas in putting western Europe on its feet. The Americas are producing countries with surpluses which would be useful for European rehabilitation. This rehabilitation is vital to the economy of the whole hemisphere. And the task, which in its preliminary phases has already cost the United States much money and higher domestic prices, is one which is likely to be extremely onerous to the American economy. A joint effort by the continent to win the peace—similar to the joint effort required to win the war—would bring the time nearer when the United States could give more attention to the improvement of the economic ties of the Americas.

Run On The Pound

The rapid disappearance of the dollars that the British borrowed from us is due primarily to an adverse trade balance. In other words, Britain has been buying abroad a good deal more than she has sold abroad, and has had to pay for excess imports by transferring dollars to make up for her deficiency of exports. The only ultimate means of putting the country on its feet obviously lies in an increase of exports and a decline of imports until the gap between exports and imports is bridged. That in itself is a stupendous balancing operation that even with the most rigorous self-denial could not have been accomplished within the brief period that has elapsed since the Anglo-American loan agreement was concluded. Under the most favorable conditions borrowed dollars would have had to be used in large amounts to finance British imports of food and industrial materials.

However, the recent heavy drains on British dollar reserves cannot be explained solely with reference to the adverse trade balance. For the drafts on dollars have in recent months exceeded the amounts required to cover current trade deficits. In the last few weeks, indeed, since the so-called convertibility clause of the loan agreement came into effect, there has been a run on Britain's dollar reserves that, unless halted, will soon sweep away the remaining funds obtained from the United States and Canada, along with Britain's ultimate gold reserves. Temporary suspension of that provision of the loan agreement pledging the British to exchange sterling foreign-owned balances from current sales of goods for dollars on request will arrest this flight from the pound. But it will not, of course, be anything more than a temporary expedient for dealing with an unforeseen emergency.

The plain fact is that the British guessed wrong: they apparently believed that by making pounds sterling freely exchangeable for dollars, the holders of sterling balances would be less eager to obtain dollars, secure in the knowledge that those balances could be converted into dollars when or if needed. Unfortunately they forgot that the countries owning sterling balances need funds themselves with which to pay for imports. If the British were able to supply the goods they require within a reasonable time, there would be no frantic haste to exchange pounds for dollars. Instead the pound balances would be used in good part to pay for purchases from the British or from countries in the sterling area. But since Britain is unable to fill orders placed by countries with transferable balances, and since the United States is the chief source of supply for many needed commodities, the convertibility features of the loan agreement have led to sudden, unexpectedly heavy demands for replacement of pounds with dollars.

The draft on dollar funds has, moreover, been increased in various ways. For example, the British have released a considerable amount of accumulated sterling balances belonging to other countries during the past year thereby adding to the transferable reserves acquired through current transactions; and it is more than probable that a certain amount of sterling has been exchanged for dollars in violation of the terms of informal agreements made with creditor countries.

Thus a proposal that was designed to reopen trade channels and bring back multilateral trading by restoring the pound sterling as a world currency has proved to be premature. The run on the pound which was fast assuming panic proportions had to be arrested even though it involved taking a retrograde step. For the British it will mean a return to exchange controls that will make supplying countries increasingly reluctant to sell to them except to the extent that sterling receipts from sales can be converted into goods that they require. As the London Times points out, countries such as Argentina, Spain, and Sweden, having favorable trade balances with Britain, will not be willing to sell their goods for unusable sterling.

While American accounts are excepted from the order suspending convertibility of pounds into dollars, this country will, of course, be affected by the new ruling. For the countries that have been busily converting pounds into dollars presumably for the purpose of spending them here, will have fewer dollars for the time being. Most of them are already feeling the pinch of dollar shortages and cutting down on purchases of our goods; now they will be under even greater pressure to reduce buying in our markets.

However, it is well to remember that the dollars released by the convertibility clause of the loan agreement are dollars borrowed from us. In other words, foreigners have been siphoning off dollars advanced by us to rehabilitate British industry and using them for purposes they were never intended to serve. Sound foreign trade cannot be sustained on such an uncertain basis. It is infinitely better to call a halt to such proceedings before Britain is deprived of all her dollar and gold reserves, and then lose no time in grappling with the main problem presented by Britain's unbalanced foreign trade.

Greek Deadlock

What is called "the final deadlock" has been reached in the non-Russian effort to clothe the Security Council with authority to cope with the menace to the general peace in Greece. All told the Russians have cast four votes against action. With the aid of Poland, they insist on closing their eyes to the plain record, established by the U. N.'s own commission, that the trouble in Greece is inspired from without. The United States now intends to bring the matter before the General Assembly. This is an exemplary policy—the case must be kept before the bar of public opinion.

At the same time the case for unilateral action by the United States under Article 51—the self-defense clause—remains. If a threat to the peace is established, all the signatories to the Charter are entitled to take defensive action. In our opinion the acceptance by Congress and country of the Greco-Turkish aid bill signified a determination to resist aggression. It follows that since we are in Greece to safeguard its independence, we cannot afford to fail, not only for prestige's sake but also for the sake of our national interests. Failure would mean a Russian bottling up of the entire Middle East, as well as a repetition at Italy's expense of the maneuver against Greece.

But fail we assuredly will if, in face of such news as the establishment of a "free" government in the mountains, we persist in trying to reconcile intervention with non-intervention. That way lies nothing but muddle and defeat. As Mr. William R. Matthews, editor of the Arizona Daily Star, and a shrewd observer of world events, said in a letter to this newspaper last Friday, "we must not shrink from using our military force to maintain our positions." This was Mr. Matthews' conclusion after a visit to Greece. It was only by this unafraid action that we prevented the Russians and their allies last summer from taking Trieste and cutting the Mediterranean. Nothing could be more dangerous—in the sense of a general conflagration—than pusillanimity in the execution of our policy in Greece. Even the timorous and those addicted to "soft fears" would agree to this statement if they could be persuaded that the Russians are playing not a war but a chess game which they hope to win by every old and new method of war.

That is why we have hitherto pleaded for a token force to take over from the British in Greece. It could be a volunteer force—like the Flying Tigers who enlisted on Chinese application before we entered the war with Japan. Or it could be part of the military establishment at present in the Mediterranean theater. This is being retained in Italy, the reason being the refusal of Russia, in conformity with her policy of stalemating the peace pending a general collapse, to ratify what was virtually a Russian-dictated peace treaty with Italy. At the same time there must be no squeamishness in insisting on internal reform in Greece so as to command maximum Greek support for the Greek government.

Our abstention from the exercise of such influence in Athens would be self-defeating. In maintaining Greek independence, the restoration of Greek unity is only a little less important than the demonstration of our determination to check outside aggression. But unity will not come under a regime which periodically sweeps up and jails Greeks who are no more Communist than the King. The last exploit of this nature should have been the last straw in our forbearance. So far from saying that this is an internal problem for the Greeks, we ought to have insisted on a reshuffle in the government, on the grounds that it is hopeless to maintain Greek independence while the government is throwing away its support at home. Only a man removed from these excesses, such as Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, who engineered the 1922-23 Republican revolution, has the necessary standing left to command confidence both in Greece and in America.

Surely there can now be as little doubt about Soviet motives as about the prudence of the aid program. Mr. Gromyko made them unmistakably clear when he insisted on the return of the team of observers that the United Nations is maintaining temporarily on the Greek frontier. The threat to the United Nations involved in this demand has even aroused the Secretary General, Mr. Trygve Lie. Mr. Lie has hitherto been indulgent of Soviet caprices, but he now thinks, apparently, that the fresh demand is an insolent affront to the dignity of the United Nations—as it is. Mr. Lie's position will strengthen the non-Russian world in the determination to keep the spotlight on the uneasy situation in the Balkans. We must not allow Mr. Gromyko to become the gravedigger of both Greece and the United Nations.

Theodore G. Bilbo

Perhaps the soundest judgment that can be made upon the life and times of Theodore G. Bilbo is that he was much too crude and too corrupt to have been a really dangerous demagogue. His stormy exploits in the politics of his own State and his shameless exhibitions on the floor of the United States Senate were made possible by conditions fortunately peculiar to Mississippi. But had Bilbo been either more intelligent or more fanatical he might have built himself a formidable following outside his own State, and not only in the South but in other parts of the country as well.

Mr. Bilbo's political stock-in-trade was fear and distrust of minority groups, which is by no means confined to the farmers of the Mississippi back-country, but is far more widespread than most of us like to believe. Had he been able to combine his flamboyant appeals to prejudice and bigotry with a positive promise, after the manner of Huey Long, he might perhaps have aspired to the leadership of some incipient form of American fascism. But Bilbo's main concern, as his record in Mississippi shows, was the profits of office-holding, and he was content to take any line that seemed likely to promote his reelection. There is no reason to believe that he took seriously the outrageous rubbish that he spouted in his campaign speeches and with which he disgraced the pages of the Congressional Record.

Nor is there any reason to suppose that any personal malice underlay his calculated insults to the members of minority groups whom he addressed as "Dear Kike," or "Dear Dago." It was dictated by what he felt was the necessity to preserve and strengthen his reputation as the one unyielding defender of white Protestant Americanism against the combined assaults of Yankees, Jews, Catholics, Communists and uppity Negroes, and thereby to take Mississippi minds off the various little scandals with which his career had been checkered.

But Bilbo's methods were so clumsy, his language so coarse, and the man himself so transparently venal and hypocritical, as to disgust even those who were in some degree sympathetic to the tradition he professed to defend. He deceived none except the most ignorant; but unhappily the ignorant are still numerous everywhere and especially in the backward and poverty-stricken rural districts of Mississippi. Even so, Bilbo's successes afford a valuable lesson in the weaknesses of democracy. Under no other system could such a charlatan have emerged from obscurity. And the danger is that it may yet produce a demagogue less cynical and more capable than he.

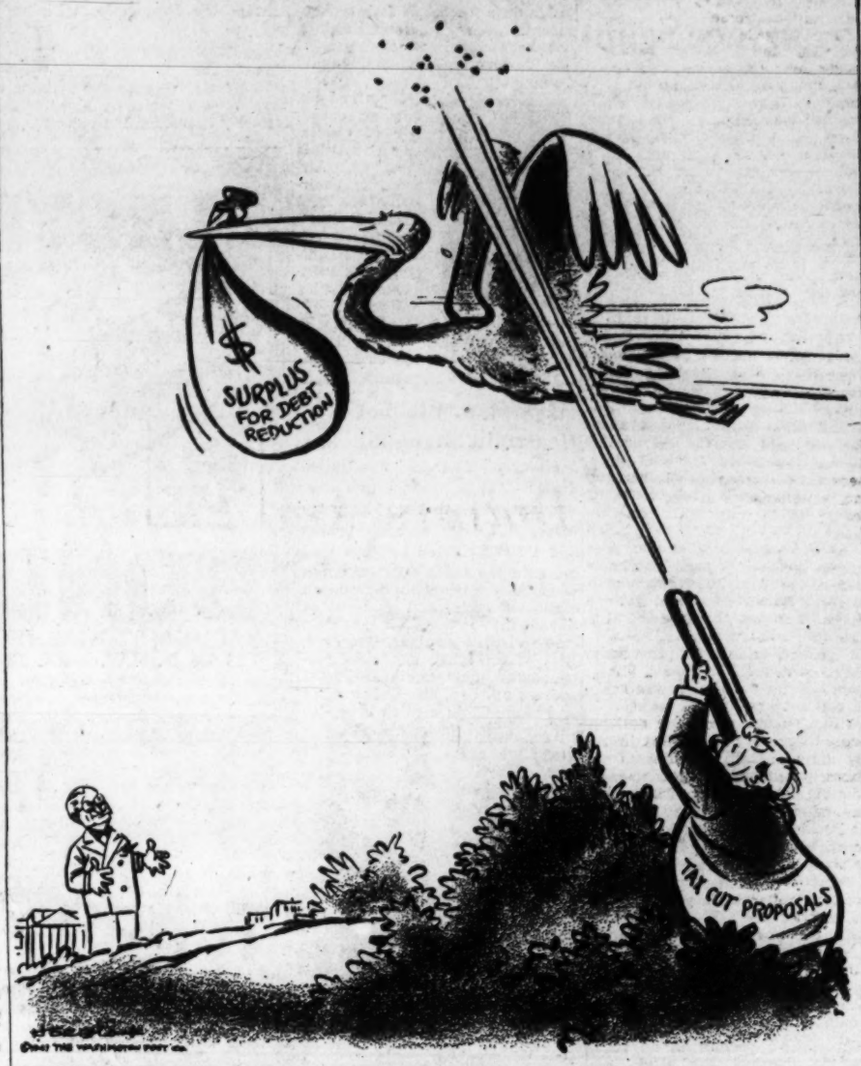
Schooling Our Own

The ruling by Corporation Counsel West that nonresident pupils in District schools must pay tuition is in our opinion thoroughly justified by the facts. To many persons the thought that such a regulation is to be invoked probably will not be so surprising as the realization that several thousand children whose parents live outside the District have been attending Washington schools free of charge. This is a situation that to our knowledge exists in few localities. Mr. West's decision is the only possible construction to be placed on the 1948 District Appropriations Act, which states specifically that no funds may be used for instruction of students living outside the District. Beyond the legal aspect it is only logical that the benefits of our schools should be reserved primarily for the persons who, directly or indirectly, pay taxes to support them.

At one time there may have been some excuse for the previous law that admitted children of nonresident Federal and District government employes, armed forces personnel and other persons paying taxes in the District, though it seems to us that this provision was patent discrimination against persons in private employment. At best, however, the justification was in allowing such children to use surplus facilities here. Now there are no surplus facilities. Schools have been hard put to it to keep pace with the increase in population. There is no question but that many classrooms currently are overcrowded.

One salutary effect of Mr. West's decision is to point out the need for a better unified educational system of comparable standards throughout the metropolitan area. The ban may lead educational authorities in suburban districts to reexamine their facilities with a view to asking for bond issues and other measures to get them up to par. Moreover, the District action also may have the healthy result of making residents of our neighboring cities conscious enough of local deficiencies to bring about a concerted demand for action.

Bundle From Heaven



Civil Liberties And The Reds

By Kenneth Crawford

Problem In Discretion

Mr. Crawford, associate editor of Newsweek, is a guest columnist for Ernest Lindley.

THERE WILL BE much talk from now on about the parlous state of civil liberties in America. The Marzani case, the Eisler conviction, the recent dismissal of 10 State Department employes as poor security risks, the forthcoming Un-American Activities Committee investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood and the loyalty investigation of Government employes will all open Congress and the Administration to accusations of hysterical witch hunting in violation of constitutionally guaranteed individual rights.

To what extent these accusations are justified will depend upon the judgment and restraint of the investigating officials and Congressmen. There has been no convincing evidence so far that the Administration will condone excesses, if it is granted that an effort to rid the Government of Communists and fellow travelers is not in itself excessive. The record of the House committee is less reassuring, but it has recently shown some disposition to reform its methods.

It should be borne in mind, however, that these accusations will be made whether justified or not. Indeed they already are being made. The Communist and fellow traveler press was proclaiming Gerhardt Eisler a victim of political persecution even before he was convicted of making fraudulent statements to the Government to cover up his Communist affiliations though he himself conceded that he had received a fair trial. More important, as judicious a commentator as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt recently expressed the fear that "our civil liberties are being endangered" because of something she had read in the Congressional Record about the Marzani trial.

MRS. ROOSEVELT conceded that she didn't know anything about the innocence or guilt of Carl Aldo Marzani, who was convicted for making false statements to secure Government employment. But she suggested that the Government had resorted to legal trickery and that the courts had been unduly harsh in denying Marzani bail pending appeal. Actually, as further investigation would convince Mrs. Roosevelt, there is nothing in the Marzani trial record to suggest trickery, but if he was improperly convicted, perhaps the higher court can be trusted to find it out. Meanwhile, he is in fact at liberty under $5000 bond pending a hearing on his appeal.

The Marzani case and Mrs. Roosevelt's reaction to it constitute a fair illustration of the confusing problem Russia's postwar policies and her fifth column in this country have created for the United States. Marzani is a well-educated and highly plausible man who fought for the loyalists in Spain, served with distinction in the OSS during the war, and then transferred to the State Department. There he convinced his immediate superiors of his complete trustworthiness and had access to confidential information. Yet he was identified at his trial by three witnesses one of them a police sergeant, as the same man who, as Tony Whales, had been an important "activist" in the Communist Party in New York just before the war.

MRS. ROOSEVELT seems to think that he should have been permitted to resign from the Government without punishment for his deception—that the cause of civil liberties would have been best served by such tolerance. Government officials don't agree. They think it was their plain duty to enforce a law against this kind of fraud which has been on the statute books since 1863. Most Americans, who might have been as much inclined to lenience as Mrs. Roosevelt before the war, will be inclined to look at this case against the background of an extremely dangerous world situation.

The conspiratorial Bolsheviks of the 20s, or those of them who have survived the purges, have become masters of an expanding Eurasian empire. Native Communists everywhere, not excepting the United States, stand ready to serve as advance agents for this empire's further expansion. Serving a "higher loyalty" than allegiance to their own country, these agents insinuate themselves into democratic governments with the deliberate purpose of serving as spies and saboteurs when such services are required of them. Any possible doubt about this must have been dispelled by evidence presented in the Canadian spy trials.

The argument that Communists shouldn't be fired from the Government service in these circumstances as a measure of security won't find many takers. Nevertheless there will be outraged howls from sincere civil libertarians, as there should be, if constitutional guarantees are violated in the process. Knowing this, Government officials don't expect to get any fun out of the current Red hunt. They will be entitled, at least, to careful consideration of the facts in each individual case. There is a point where devotion to civil liberties can become plain political gullibility.

Letters To The Editor

Communications must be addressed to the editor and must carry the complete name and street address of the writer, though pen names will be permitted at the editor's discretion. Letters of less than 200 words will be given preference, and all letters are subject to condensation. No communication can be returned.

"Bevin's Blunders"

Your issue of August 5 carries a letter from Sir Ernest Benn, the well-known British publisher, which purports to apologize to the American people for Rt. Hon. Ernest Bevin's reference to them as "money lenders."

Obviously the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the Attlee cabinet might have been a little more circumspect in his choice of phrase. But Bevin has a habit of following the principle which the late Wendell Wilkie once described to me: He says what he thinks when he thinks it—regardless of the consequences. Surely the great bulk of the American people prefer plain talk.

But when Sir Ernest Benn informs the readers of such an influential newspaper as The Washington Post that Britain's Foreign Secretary is "a man who spent his life teaching laborers to do less work for more money," that "having risen to the top by his success in appealing to the worst instincts of the bottom," and, finally, that he has "at long last discovered the nature of his own fraud," the London publisher to whose letter I am referring automatically exposes his own fraudulent description of the man who worked wonders with the working people of Great Britain. Bevin urged them in their darkest days, when Churchill prescribed the formula which would enable them to emerge from their "finest hour," that they would have to surrender all their hard-earned rights in the national welfare.

The apology which Sir Ernest Benn offers to the readers of The Washington Post "for the vulgarity of our Foreign Secretary," therefore, is nauseating.

Indian Freedom

On the memorable day of August 15, 1947, when India achieved her dominion status—although partitioned as was the case with Ireland—I, who am an Indian by birth and American citizen by adoption and who for more than 45 years worked in India, the United States and other parts of the world for the cause of Indian freedom, for the establishment of a free Federated Republic of the United States of India, extend my most sincere personal thanks and gratitude to the freedom-loving American people in general and that section of the American press and newspaper men and women who championed the cause of Indian freedom by extending their moral and active support.

India owes much to the United States of America; and she will need American support and good will during the difficult time, the transition period. It is my prayer that India and the United States will collaborate to uphold the cause of world peace through collective security.

Trinidad Celebration

As chairman of the evening of the V-J Day Thanksgiving celebration, I was not able, due to the break down of the public address system, to express the deep felt thanks and appreciation of the various groups which took part in this civic affair, I beg you to print our appreciation to the following authorities and individuals who have helped us young people to put over such a big affair, without any expenditures to ourselves and without conducting a fund raising campaign!

Our cooperative press and radio stations; the Military District of Washington; the Andrews Field AAF Band; Marine Headquarters which honored us in marching in our parade; the Potomac Naval River Command; Walter Reed Hospital and to personnel who helped to make up the floats of Pearl Harbor and concentration camps; Admiral Nimitz and his aide who provided us with his cap; National Capital Parks; D. C. Police Department; D. C. government; Pan American Union; Randall Turner of the Royal Crown Cola Co. for the trucks; the National Museum for the stuffed animals.

We also would like to thank our judges, Norman Reid of WWDC, Mrs. Marion Sexten of WOL and Hugh Guidi of WINX, who was our Master of Ceremonies. Our thanks go to Fred Nalley, who coordinated the parade, to the Police Boys and the Elks Girls and Boys Band of Silver Springs.

MORTON FRIEDMAN,
Executive secretary,
Trinidad Boys' Club.

Gayle Case

With an ache in my heart I am following the story of the man in Arlington who tried to kill his family. He must have gone mad in his desperate effort to keep his family on $42 a week in a time when the dollar is worth only 50 cents. I would like to see this man helped, not punished.

The county, the people, and the churches should get together on that. I am praying for it.

Siamese Claim

With reference to a news item appearing in your paper on August 13 under the heading, "Siam Drops Border Claim," I am directed to inform you that on referring to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Bangkok this embassy has been informed that the recommendations of the conciliation commission were submitted to the Siamese Parliament for information only and that no decision has yet been taken by the Siamese government in this matter.

Palestine Violence

Referring to the letter of Miss Celia Wicks, in your August 18 issue, may I say that all the questions that she has asked cannot explain or justify the dastardly act of the terrorists who killed the two British soldiers.

Assuming that the British have committed acts of inhumanity, is the remedy for inhumanity more inhumanity? Those soldiers were merely carrying out orders of their superiors. You do not slug a policeman because you think the chief of police is cruel. No amount of argumentation can alter that fact.

I agree with J. M. Mason that "revenge is like a boomerang. Although for a time it flies in the direction in which it is hurled, it takes a sudden curve, and, returning, hits your own head the heaviest blow of all."

Nikola Petkov Death Sentence

Editor's Note: The following letters of protest over the death sentence adjudged last week by a Bulgarian district court against Nikola Petkov, Bulgarian peasant leader, are published here as a matter of interest to our readers.

THE HON. HARRY S. TRUMAN,
President of the United States,
Washington, D. C.

In the name of the International Peasant Union and in our own name, we beg you to do all your best to save the life of the Bulgarian opposition leader, Nikola Petkov, well-known champion for freedom and democracy.

DR. GUEORGJI M. DIMITROV,
Former Member of Parliament and Leader of the Bulgarian Agrarian Party.
FERENC NAGY,
Former Prime Minister and Leader of the Hungarian Smallholders Party.

HON. ERNEST BEVIN,
Secretary for Foreign Affairs,
London, England.

In the Name of the International Peasant Union and in our own name, we beg you to do all your best to save the life of the Bulgarian Agrarian opposition leader, Nicola Petkov, well-known champion for freedom and democracy.

DR. GUEORGJI M. DIMITROV,
FERENC NAGY.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF BULGARIA
(Copy to the Prime Minister and the Minister of Foreign Affairs)
Sofia, Bulgaria.

In the name of the International Peasant Union and in our own name, we protest most energetically against the partisan conviction and the frame-up charges against the distinguished Peasant leader, Nikola Petkov. You cannot destroy the Agrarian ideas by means of terror and death sentences. History and humanity will bestow upon you eternal damnation.

Stop the insane brutalities and trumped-up charges against the valiant Bulgarian people and its democratic leaders. There is no force capable of arresting the fight of the peoples for freedom and democracy. Your dictatorship will be liquidated by the people in spite of all the arbitrary and criminal measures on your part.

For the International Peasant Union:
FERENC NAGY,
Former Hungarian Prime Minister, Representative of the Hungarian Agrarian Organization.
DR. VLATKO MACHEK,
Former Vice Premier, Representative of the Croatian Agrarian Organization.
DR. MILAN GAVRILOVIC,
Former Minister, Representative of the Serbian Agrarian Organization.
DR. GUEORGJI M. DIMITROV,
Former Member of Parliament, Representative of the Bulgarian Agrarian Organization.
GRIGORE NICULESCU BUZESTI,
Former Minister, Representative of the Romanian Agrarian Organization.

GEORGE DIMITROV, PRIME MINISTER
(Copy to the Minister of Foreign Affairs)
Sofia, Bulgaria.

When you were on trial in Leipzig, the Agrarian Union sent your mother to attend you at its own expense, sent protests to Hitler and appeals to the whole world on your behalf. Today you condemn to death the most distinguished leaders of the very same Agrarian Union. Your crime will remain as the blackest and most shameful deed in the history and will weigh not only upon you and your party but on the new generations as well.

Agrarian ideas are indestructive and immortal. They will outlive both you and your party and its dictatorship. Show at least a drop of Bulgarian sentiment. Stop the death sentence, stop the provocations and the crimes against the people and its democratic leaders. Nikola Petkov will remain forever a champion for freedom and democracy.

DR. GUEORGJI M. DIMITROV.
Washington.

Relentless Monopoly

That monopoly has gained control over much of the economic life of the people of this Nation is not a surprise to those who knew that monopoly did not, even during the war, abandon its pursuit of power. If our Government had not played the part of a weak, spineless and aimless drone, it would have been impossible for monopoly to come into such power.

Between the Collector of Internal Revenue, the Communists and monopoly, the peoples of this Nation are in for a bad life.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

The Heat Is On

A PINCERS movement initiated by the Soviet Union is now in progress. One end of the pincers is closing in again on Iran. The other is well into Greece. As a result, there is serious speculation that Congress may be asked, perhaps in special session, to send American troops to Greece. Every responsible official in Washington is praying that no such decision will be necessary. But the tempo of the Soviet assault is such that the American policy makers may be left with no alternative.

After high level conversations, the hard-pressed British have agreed to keep their few thousand troops in Greece till the end of the year. But the British have warned that their troops will then probably have to be withdrawn. The United States may then have no choice but to fill the vacuum.

Meanwhile a major assault has been mounted in northern Greece by Communist General Markos, who last week announced in a broadcast from Yugoslavia the formation of a "Free Greek government." What lends a somber significance to Markos' announcement is the fact that the Russians have withdrawn their diplomatic representatives from Athens. The Soviet Embassy is now in the hands of caretakers and janitors. Yugoslavia has obediently followed suit. (Madame Tsakonovitch, wife of the Yugoslav attache, chose the occasion to hurl insults at the "monarcho-fascist" Greeks from the airport.) What is feared, of course, is that Russia and her three satellite states on Greece's northern border will soon grant de facto recognition to the Markos regime. They could then proceed, under the color of legality, to give Markos open, all-out support.

IF THIS happens, it will be the culmination of a carefully planned campaign. It is now known that within the last few weeks the three satellite leaders —Yugoslavia's Tito, Bulgaria's Dimitrov and Albania's Hoxha— not only conferred among themselves, but journeyed to Moscow. From the Kremlin, they received their instructions. Those instructions are now being carried out.

Nor were the instructions confined to the three Balkan satellites. Intelligence reports to the American Government from all over Europe have relayed the information that Communists are being recruited for an "international brigade" to fight in Greece. Other intelligence reports, based on interviews with guerillas captured in the fighting a few weeks ago, bear this out. Before the guerillas were sent across the Greek border they were told that they were only the advance guard, and that they would be followed by a powerful international force.

The brigade failed to materialize. But meanwhile the intelligence reports have continued, including names and identities of those European Communists assigned to the new force. The reports have been trickling in from many countries, but particularly from France, Germany and Sweden. It requires no masterpiece of deduction to guess that the brigade is designed to bolster Markos' "Free Greece" when the planners in the Kremlin believe that the time is ripe.

AT THE OTHER end of the pincers, wily old Ahmed Qavam, Premier of Iran, is under the fiercest pressure. Soviet Ambassador Sadjikov, who left in a huff some time ago, is back. He has told Qavam that the Soviet government will hold him personally responsible for Iranian acceptance of Soviet terms for an oil contract in northern Iran.

At the same time Qavam is under severe pressure from within the Iranian Parliament to resist Sadjikov. There is no doubt that the Paliament will vote the Soviet oil contract down. On purely commercial grounds, this is quite understandable. The proposed oil contract is similar in terms to an already existing Iranian-Russian contract for the exploitation of Iranian fisheries. By means of this contract the Russians have so arranged things that the Iranians are obliged to pay them about half a million dollars a year for the privilege of allowing the Russians to take away the Iranian fish.

But no one believes that the Russian motives in regard to the oil contract are purely commercial. Last year the Soviets made a determined attempt to capture the Iranian government, and failed. They now want a base, which the oil contract would provide for them, to try again.

When the Iranian Parliament refuses to accept the Soviet contract, a violent Soviet reaction of some sort is expected. The heat will be turned full on. But the heat already is full on in Greece. Herschel Johnson's speech before the Security Council last week, which was reviewed at the highest level in the State Department, firmly committed the United States not to abandon Greece. To abandon Greece would mean a catastrophic strategic defeat for this country. That is why the policy makers are not likely to change their minds. And that is why the next session of Congress may be asked to approve the sending of American troops to replace the British in Greece next winter.

Off The Record

Dollars And Pounds

By Mark Sullivan

Temporary Lift For Britain

SECRETARY OF the Treasury Snyder, after three days of conference at Washington with British officials, announced that we are releasing Britain from a detail of the contract by which she borrowed 3¾ billion dollars from us.

Sullivan

Merely to state what we have done is to enter an extremely complex field, currencies and international exchange. To put it as simply as is practicable, Britain need no longer pay out any of the dollars we loaned her to nations which have pounds and want dollars in exchange for them.

Because the obligation on Britain to do this was a part (though only a part) of her impending economic crisis, and because crisis in Britain would with practical certainty mean crisis for us and the world, there was within official Washington during the negotiations now ended a spirit of tension and anxiety. The tension is now eased, but only for the moment.

What we have done is, in words used by Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett, a "temporary expedient." It is not only temporary but also partial. The obligation of Britain to pay out dollars in exchange for pounds was only a part, a comparatively small part, of her impending crisis as a whole.

WE WILL probably give Britain further financial aid, perhaps in the form of a loan from our Government-owned Export-Import Bank. But that would be only a matter of 100 or 200 million dollars, not much more than a drop in the bucket of Britain's need. Almost certainly there will shortly be proposals that we make a new loan to Britain, of an amount such as can only be made by act of Congress.

And again it is necessary to bear in mind the scope of Britain's crisis. Even a large loan to Britain, while it would certainly help materially, could not be counted on with any absolute certainty as an over-all cure for Britain's crisis. That crisis has several causes, some with deep-reaching roots. Besides, the crisis of Britain, because of the immense place she has in international trade, is interrelated with the danger of world-wide crisis and collapse, to the averting of which we have pledged ourselves through the Marshall Plan and the Truman Doctrine.

Looking upon our easing this week of the burden of our loan to Britain, by releasing her from the obligation to exchange dollars for pounds—looking on this as a step standing alone, there is anxious inquiry about its immediate effect. Some are reasonably profitable. Because Britain has need to conserve her dollars, and also need to economize in every way, she will probably be reluctant to use her store of dollars to buy goods from us. Steps she has already taken mean that she will buy less tobacco from America, import fewer motion pictures from us, buy less food from us. The same will be true of many other kinds of goods.

SO FAR AS Britain is obliged to buy abroad, she will naturally prefer to buy from countries which do not call for dollars in payment, which are willing to accept pounds and which customarily make use of pounds in international trade, such as the British dominions and many other countries. This will work changes in the pattern of international trade throughout the world. A policy on the part of Britain of not freely giving dollars in exchange for pounds to all who desire such exchange may possibly cause some dislocation of the existing relations between pounds and dollars. If that should take place and be extensive it might be serious.

But all that is said here or may be said anywhere, about the effects of what Britain and the United States did this week about the pound and the dollar, is uncertain, speculation about it futile. For it is in the field of international exchange, and that is, as Undersecretary of State Lovett, himself an experienced banker said this week, "terribly complicated." Any happening in international exchange has ramifications that are literally unforeseeable. One that is expected to be damaging may in fact turn out to be beneficient, and of course vice versa. Not even the most expert economists or fiscal authorities can foresee.

This is perhaps the most dependable deduction that can be made from the developments this week. The fallibility of the most expert and the best-intentioned is vividly proved by what is now taking place.

The existing loan to Britain was arranged, somewhat over a year ago, by representatives of Britain and the United States who included fiscal experts of the highest standing. They spent weeks upon the contract, devoted their highest intelligence to it. Into it they wrote a stipulation about exchange of dollars into pounds, thinking of course that it would be practicable and useful. It is this stipulation which today is found to be unworkable and dangerous and necessary to change.

Wherry Sees Discrimination By Oil Firms

Chicago, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—The chairman of a Senate subcommittee investigating the Midwestern oil shortage said today some major oil companies "obviously" were discriminating against small independent producers and distributors.

Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) said after hearing five witnesses that his committee had "heard enough to believe a full and thorough investigation of practices by the oil companies is justified."

Charges included:

A witness said an agent of a subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana had advised him not to appear at the hearing.

Several witnesses said major producers were trying to keep them from dealing in the most profitable grade of oil.

Preferential Rates Alleged

Major producers allegedly get preferential freight rates while independents must continue to pay higher shipping costs.

Wherry said that if these and other charges are substantiated in a thorough investigation, the committee is prepared to recommend corrective action to the Department of Justice, or call for corrective Federal legislation.

Edwin A. Roehling, the first witness, charged an agent of the Petroleum Heat and Power Company had advised him not to testify.

He identified Petroleum Heat and Power as a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Indiana.

Dexter Ostergren, business agent for independent fuel oil dealers of Chicago, charged a representative of Petroleum Heat and Power had solicited minor dealers to turn over their business in No. 3 oil, a profitable heating variety, at a price of ¼ cent a gallon, so they could be "protected" on getting other types of oil.

Sees Elimination Policy

This, Ostergren said, was part of a "blanket policy" to eliminate the independent dealers from the No. 3 oil market.

One independent refinery operator, D. L. Swan, Falls City, Nebr., said his plant had been closed for 20 months because the large oil companies were engaging in collusion with the railroads and pipeline common carriers to get preferential freight rates in recognition of the large volume of oil they ship.

"I know of a dozen small plants like my own who are in the same situation," Swan said.

He predicted that before the winter is over, Midwestern consumers will pay one cent more per gallon for heating oil than they are now because of the shortage, and because small refineries have to transport their product "with prohibitive freight rates."

Power Doubled

Navy to Fire New Rocket Dwarfing V-2

New York, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—The United States Navy will launch the Neptune, the most powerful rocket yet known, some time in 1948, it was revealed today by Capt. Caleb B. Laning, USN, and Lieut. Robert A. Heinlein, USN (retired), the Air Forces' nominee for chairman of the joint Army-Navy radar committee.

The rocket, product of two years of joint research by Army, Navy and civilian scientists, "will have a top speed of better than a mile and a half per second," they said in an article in Collier's. "It will carry scientific instruments twice as far out into space as the best German V-2 rocket."

The officers said eventually travel into space is "inevitable."

"Once developed, space travel can and will be the source of supreme military power over this planet," they wrote. "There is literally no way to strike back from the ground, sea or air. A space ship armed with atomic weapons can wipe out anything on this globe."

A-Bomb Data Theft Draws 4-Yr. Parole

Pittsburgh, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Alexander von der Luft, chubby 23-year-old ex-Army sergeant, was placed on four years probation today for stealing top-secret atom bomb documents as "souvenirs."

Luft, a chemical engineering student at Princeton University pleaded guilty in Federal Court to two counts of stealing and concealing more than 200 atom bomb papers from the Los Alamos project.

An FBI agent testified that the papers contained information which "would have provided answers to many perplexing problems foreign countries must have, to make an atom bomb."

The agent, Eli Rose, said the stolen material gave specific details on the weight, geometic description, and dimensions relating to the bomb. He said the documents would have revealed how many bombs the United States had at the time and would be able to make.

Rose told Judge R. M. Gibson that the theft of the papers "could have worked great havoc to the United States."

Judge Gibson, who could have imposed a maximum sentence of eight years imprisonment and a $7000 fine, said he was being lenient because of Luft's respectable family background; the nature of his character witnesses, and the fact that he cooperated with the FBI in recovering the documents.

Luft is one of two former Army sergeants who were accused of stealing atomic documents. The other is Earnest Wallis of Chicago. He is free on bond, wafting a call from Federal Court at Los Alamos, N. Mex.

GIs Reported Trying to Pawn Their War Medals

Seattle, Aug. 21 (AP).—Seattle pawnshops are beginning to get requests for loans on Purple Heart medals, the Times reported today.

Virtually all the requests are rejected.

"It's illegal to loan money on medals," one proprietor explained.

One pawnshop owner said he did loan a former GI money on his Purple Heart.

"I'm not supposed to do it," he said, "but . . . I was a soldier myself and I just can't turn away a guy like that."

The GI, he said, didn't come back for his medal.

Anderson Mows Lawn, Breaks Two Fingers

Honolulu, T. H., Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson broke two fingers of his right hand today while operating a lawnmower for exercise at a multimillion-dollar Coconut Island resort. Anderson, who is the guest of one-time Democratic Party leader Edwin W. Pauley, was treated at a Naval hospital.

Free Speech in Hungary Held Window Dressing

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Opposition leader Zoltan Pfeiffer told a crowd of 5000 last night that free speech in Hungary was "just window dressing" and would "only be allowed for a few weeks."

Pfeiffer said he knew his Hungarian Independence Party was not large.

"We are shooting with pebbles at tanks and armored cars," he declared, and compared himself to "David aiming a slingshot at Goliath."

Pfeiffer assumed opposition leadership when Deszoe Sulyok retired fro mpolitics after the Communist coup in May.

Cooperative Inquiry Assailed By Patman as 'Inquisition'

Representative Wright Patman (D., Tex., yesterday lambasted the probe of consumer cooperatives by a House Small Business Subcommittee opening at 10 a. m. today with a hearing on nearby Greenbelt, Md., groups.

The former subcommittee chairman, now a minority member, accused Republicans of plotting simultaneously to "smear" cooperatives and to make a political attack on President Truman and the Democratic Party.

In a statement, Patman described the pending inquiry as "an inquisition instead of an investigation."

The aim, he declared, "is to align the small businessmen of the Nation against their farmer neighbors and customers."

Representative Walter C. Ploeser (R., Mo.), chairman of the full committee, countered with a statement of his own charging Patman's complaint was "replete with falsehood." He said Patman himself was the only member of the committee "who has attempted to use that committee for partisan politics."

Earlier, Ploeser announced the purpose of the probe is to ascertain whether, and to what extent, tax-exempt privileges of cooperatives are harmful to free competitive enterprise."

Meantime, Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., first target of the inquiry, announced that residents of the New Deal public housing project, "alarmed by the biased attack of the House Small Business Committee, "have arranged car pools to take them to the hearings.

A spokesman said the cooperative's "pantry," Greenbelt's traveling store, will be parked on the Capitol grounds from 12:30 to 2 p. m. to serve lunches to residents attending the hearing. It will be held in Room 129, Old House Office Bldg.

Bomb Rendered Harmless

Southampton, Eng., Aug. 21 (U.P.).—An unexploded 1000-pound bomb, brought up by a dredger Tuesday and deposited within 500 yards of Southampton's crowded docks, was rendered harmless today and removed.

The Gallup Poll

Women's Peacetime Training Favored by Most Americans

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 21.—There should be units in the armed services in which young women could enlist.

That opinion is expressed by a majority of Americans polled from coast to coast by the Institute. Apparently the record, of the Wacs, Waves and other women's units during the war left a sufficiently good impression on the public mind to make the country want to continue the plan in peacetime. Congress has discussed legislation to make women's corps a permanent part of the national defense, but no action was taken at the session which recently ended.

The country's reaction to the idea of peacetime women's units in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps is shown by the following:

"During the last war, women served in the armed forces as members of the Wacs, Waves, Spars and Marine Woman's Reserve. In peacetime, do you think there should be units in the armed forces in which young women could enlist?"

The vote:

Yes	53%
No	35
No opinion	12

	Women	Men
Yes	54%	52%
No.	34	36
No opinion	12	12

At present young women are serving in the various military and naval branches by choice. Former members may apply for reenlistment, but no new recruits are being accepted. The bill to make women's units permanent is expected to come up again at the next session of Congress.

The American public has long been in favor of training women for defense. Sentiment for it was found by the Institute in a survey conducted as early as December, 1940—one year before Pearl Harbor.

There is considerable difference of attitude by age groups. The young women of the country —those under 30—approve the plan by a larger vote than other ages. Most of the enlistments would undoubtedly come from that age bracket.

WOMEN VOTERS ONLY

	Yes	No	No opin.
Aged 21-29	60%	31%	9%
30-49	57	33	10
50 and over	46	39	15

During the war many thousands of women joined the women's units, with the largest number of them going to the Wacs. At one time, September, 1945, the Women's Army Corps had more than 100,000 members, and the Waves more than 86,000. Women volunteers, taking over much of the paper and office work of the armed services, released men for combat or other overseas duty.

U. S. to Offer Italy Accord On Principles

Rome, Aug. 21 (AP).—The United States Embassy said today that negotiations would begin early next month for a treaty of "friendship, commerce and navigation" with Italy.

A spokesman said it would be not a commercial accord but a "statement of principles" between the two nations. (The United States announced last week the cancellation of one billion dollars Italian debts.)

The spokesman said that as suggested by the United States, the treaty would include the "most favored nation" clause for treatment of nationals and business.

China and Australia already have negotiated similar treaties with the United States, the embassy said, but the prospective pact with Italy was believed to be the first of its kind in Europe since the war.

A similar treaty existed between the United States and Italy from 1871 to 1937, when it was abrogated.

Princess Margaret Marks 17th Birthday

London, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Princess Margaret Rose, known to the Scots as "Our Princess," celebrated her 17th birthday today at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

The princess, second in line as heiress presumptive to the British throne, always has been in the background—behind her mother and father, the king and queen, and behind her sister, Princess Elizabeth.

D. C. Utilities' Employment At New High

By S. Cliver Goodman

Employment of Washington's four major utilities currently is at an all-time high of 17,955.

The manpower increase results from unprecedented service demands and deferred expansion and improvement programs which are getting under way in earnest this year. The four utilities estimate they will spend more than 76 million dollars this year and in 1948 on various projects. Materials and manpower are becoming more available, although still scarce in some lines.

Topping the utilities, Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. employs 8191. The company is engaged in a 46-million-dollar expansion program which is expected to run into 1948.

Capital Transit Co. payrolls currently show 4906 employed, with about 300 more workers wanted. A spokesman said that the company still needs 109 more full-time operators. On order are 200 more new buses, representing an outlay of 3½ million dollars. One hundred of the new vehicles will be delivered this year.

Potomac Electric Power Co. currently employs 2528 persons, a new high for the company. Capital outlays for this year and next year are estimated at more than 17 million dollars.

Washington Gas Light Co. reported a current employment figure of 2330. The company this year is spending 10 million dollars, four million for conversion to natural gas and six million for construction purposes.

OUT OF THE RED: Trans World Airline in the second quarter zoomed out of the red clouds and showed net earnings of $201,690, or 20 cents a common share. In comparable 1946 period TWA reported a net loss of $214,787. For first six months, however, TWA's operations resulted in a net deficit of $5,521,733, due to a $5,723,423 net loss in the first quarter. Passenger load factor in second periord increased to 74.4 per cent from 61.5 in first quarter.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Mrs. Douglas Horton, president of Wellesley College, was elected a director of New York Life Insurance Co.—first woman in institution's history to hold such a post. The former Mildred McAfee, Mrs. Horton served as director of the Waves during the war . . . Raymond F. Bruen, veteran of 30 years in New York hotel business, was appointed general manager of Sheraton Hotel here . . . William G. McIntyre and Albert B. Rosenbaum were added to Washington staff of American Trucking Associations, Inc.

BANK LOANS: Latest weekly report of Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond shows total loans of 18 Washington banks at $189,354,000 in week ended August 13, gain of $835,000 over previous week. Real estate loans totaled $57,367,000, up $441,000. Aggregate loans of all banks in Fifth Federal Reserve District stood at $718,560,000 as of August 13, increase of $4,530,000 for week.

ODD LOTS: Higher insurance rates predicted as result of unprecedented losses in fire and casulty lines . . . Frigidaire division of General Motors announced retail price increases of $5 to $15 on some of its refrigerators and ranges, $15 on new home laundry and average of 2.33 per cent on commercial refrigeration and air conditioning products . . . Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index dipped to $6.57 on August 19 against $6.59 a week earlier and $5.34 a year ago . . . American Trucking Associations, Inc., plans incentive system under which commercial drivers will receive merchandise prizes for accident-free driving . . . Sunbeam Corp. increased dividend to 50 cents from previous 35-cent quarterly.

SPOILAGE: A Government survey showed yesterday that waste and spoilage costs $7.40 for each $100 worth of fresh fruits and vegetables sold in typical self-service food stores. The survey was made by the Agriculture Department in cooperation with the American Stores of Philadelphia. Weekly checks of losses were made in a number of the concern's stores in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The survey showed that annual rates of loss for 55 of 65 commodities handled exceeded 5 per cent of the retail value. Items with highest rates of loss included persimmons 45.7 per cent, blackberries 34.3, and strawberries 28.

EARNINGS: Household Finance Corp. reported for six months ended June 30 net earnings of $4,398,037, equal to $1.89 a common share, compared with $2,562,017 or $1.10 a share in like 1946 period. Other income reports yesterday included:

AAF to Drop Plans For Downgrading Many

These are some of the events in the making in Federal offices—

The ARMY AIR FORCES will drop plans to downgrade another big batch of its civilian employes now that it's to become independent of the War Department——

Kluttz

The RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION will undergo a functional reorganization that will wipe out the jobs of some of its top people. Also, a number of its activities will be dropped——

FRANK PACE, the executive assistant to the Postmaster General, will be promoted to a bigger and better job, perhaps as a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board——

The President will not issue an executive order that would give about 1700 former FARMERS HOME ADMINISTRATION employes permanent Civil Service status. The Civil Service Commission opposes the order. The 1700 employes were denied permanent status on a fluke, and Agriculture Department has urged the President to blanket them in permanent jobs——

JAMES BOYD will take another job and won't accept interim appointment as director of Interior's Bureau of Mines. Interior officials have urged him to accept the mines post despite the opposition of John L. Lewis——

JOHN J. GILLEN, the acting Second Assistant Postmaster General, will not be given that post on a permanent basis. In fact, the New York Democratic organization has been asked to recommend a man for the job——

The AMERICAN LEGION at its coming convention will go on record in forceful language for a new executive order or law that would give permanent employes and veterans greater job security in the Federal service——

Agriculture Undersecretary NORRIS E. DODD won't be promoted to Secretary if Clinton Anderson resigns——

The AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR will demand a big pay increase for Federal workers at its October convention——

The VETERANS' CO-OP won't be successful in its plans to take over the Naylor Garden apartment buildings——

The WAR DEPARTMENT will propose to the President that the Government fiscal year be changed to start on September 1, instead of July 1. A later starting date than July 1 would prevent the last-minute jam-up, costly delays, and confusion over budgets that has taken place in Congress for the past several years——

Congressional investigators will do their very best to find weak spots in the administration of the INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU. A score or more of investigators are at work within the agency for the House Appropriations Committee and the Joint Congressional Committee on Taxation——

The SENATE COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE EXPENDITURES will release a report on the effectiveness of the Congressional Reorganization Act. Each chairman of a Senate committee has been asked to evaluate the act——

The PRESIDENT will use sparingly his authority to limit Civil Service exams to competition among veterans. His authority in this matter has five years to run from last July 25——

The new order on annual leave affecting employes in the regional office here of the VETERANS' ADMINISTRATION will be withdrawn in a matter of time. It requires employes to have at least 100 hours of accumulated leave before they will be given time off. The order works an undue hardship on its employes; and——

All classes of Federal workers next year will ask CONGRESS to give them the right to retire at 50 after 20 years of service—a benefit now enjoyed only by FBI agents.

STORY: An applicant for a Federal job wrote this on her Civil Service Form 57:

"I was principal of a two-room school and I taught all the subjects in the four upper grades. I also fixed the furnace, swept the floor, fixed the fences, carried the water and washed the windows. It was a very intellectual undertaking, and the main thing I learned was never to do it again."

NOTES: The salaries of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. have been raised from $10,000 to $15,000 a year . . . Two VA employes have been injured recently by falls from their swivel chairs. One broke his arm; another had three fingers badly cut. Both lost their balance when they stood up in their chairs to cut off electric fans—and both accidents happened within a few days after the employes had been warned against standing in swivel chairs.

CIVIL SERVICE urges Federal workers to fill out those retirement questionnaires promptly. The material gathered will be used to compute costs of any new retirement legislation. It may possibly turn out that no additional employe contribution will be needed to liberalize the retirement system.

Capt. James Back on Job, Commission Cuts Penalty

Engine Company Officer's Suspension Reduced to 8 Days, $260 Pay Saved

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

A decision to drop the appeal of suspended Fire Department Capt. William V. James, after consultation between his legal counsel and the District Commissioners, yesterday led to a cut in his penalty and his immediate restoration to duty.

The sudden reversal of strategy occurred yesterday morning at the regular Commissioners' board meeting.

Present at the consultation was Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, who advised the Commissioners that they had the legal right to reduce the recommendation of the special Fire Department Trial Board of James' suspension from 33 days to eight days.

Modification of the recommendations in effect reduces the loss of James' pay from over $460 to approximately $100. He went back to work last night at Engine Co. No. 18.

When notified by reporters of the announcement Captain James said he did not want to discuss it. "I have been taking the rap and I guess I'll continue to take it," he said.

Captain James suspension and charges stemmed from an explosion at No. 18 engine house on July 17, in which four firemen were injured. The men had been cleaning and applying a preservative coating to a boiler in the basement using a mixture of gasoline and oil.

At a four day Fire Department Trial Board hearing the prosecution showed that James had ordered the men to use the mixture.

The engine company commander was found guilty of failing to use proper judgement in authorizing the use of the Johnson pump which caused and increased the hazard, and of failing to take proper precautions where there was a reasonable likelihood of an explosion.

Man Escapes When Storm Wrecks Barn

Neighboring farmers yesterday pitched in to help a Maryland tobacco grower salvage his harvested crop, partially ruined Wednesday afternoon when a tornado-like wind blew down two large barns on his farm near Waldorf, Md.

Victim of the storm is Samuel T. Robertson, 53, who rode a barn rafter 40 feet to the ground when the high wind leveled his 100-foot tobacco-drying barn. He escaped with minor bruises. He was fastening down a hayloft door when the wind struck.

The same "twister" struck a second, smaller barn used for livestock and storage, reducing it to a shambles before Robertson's son, William George, 17. The youth was about to enter the structure when it collapsed.

Relating his experiences yesterday, the father told of feeling the barn "shudder" at the first blast of wind.

"I tried to open the loft door so I could jump out, but the wind held it shut," he related. "Then the barn gave way. I grabbed a beam and held on tight and came down with it with the barn all around me."

Friends on farms adjoining the 165-acre Robertson tract worked with him yesterday to salvage what unstripped tobacco was not ruined by the downpour that followed. What could be saved was stored in the barn of a next-door farm.

Robertson said the tobacco was worth about $4000. He said his loss is covered partially by insurance.

Meanwhile Montgomery County and communities on Maryland's Eastern Shore were busy cleaning up wreckage left by the severe electrical storm.

More than a score of buildings, houses and barns were struck by lightning, with damage running into thousands of dollars from the resulting fires.

2 Ordered Held In Robbery of Mt. Airy Man

Two men charged with assaulting and robbing a Mount Airy, Md. man on July 27 were ordered held for the Montgomery County grand jury yesterday in Rockville Police Court.

According to police, both Charlie B. Helton, 25, and Edward Montgomery, 28, both of Saltville, Va., slugged and bound Murray Baumgardner, 48, of Mount Airy, after which they robbed him of his car, a wrist watch and $55.

Police said the men fled through five Eastern States and were apprehended by Virginia police. They are charged with grand larceny and assault. Bond for both men was set at $3000.

Similar charges against Mrs. Juanita Helton, 27, were nolle prossed after she testified she was forced to accompany the men. She was held on $500 bond as a material witness.

Chores Deserted as Farmers Flock to Montgomery Picnic

1. HIGHLIGHT of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau's picnic yesterday at Olney, Md., was the election of "Miss Farmerette." The title went to Jane Warfield, 18, of Boyd, Md., being assisted over a fence by C. William Harvey (left), of Brookville, and T. A. Barnsley, on whose farm the picnic was held

2. WHERE THE MUSIC COMES OUT—Ashton Garette, 2, of Rockville, and Barbara Duvall, 5, of Boyd, close in for a close-up of the tuba played by Walter Buxton of Mount Airy, member of the Browningsville Band. It was hot work for Buxton

3. CAN YOU HEAR ME NOW, DARLING—Winner of the picnic's husband-calling contest was Mrs. Merhle King of Germantown, who lets loose a blast as her spouse covers his ears and grits his teeth

More than 100 members of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau yesterday deserted farm chores for their all-day annual picnic at the farm of T. A. Barnsley, near Olney, Md.

Youngsters drank pop and ate ice cream, while oldsters pitched horseshoees in between watching the various events, which included baby and beauty contests as well as a needle-threading match.

The county's contestant for the "Miss Maryland Farmerette of 1937" contest to be held at the State Fair, Timonium, Md., on Aug. 30, was Miss Jane Warfield, 18, of Boyds, Md. Second prize winner was Miss Ann Beall, 17, of Germantown, Md.

Boy and girl members of the county's 4-H clubs were in abundance and a softball tournament was conducted for the boys. Adults also got in their lick at playing softball as the married men squared off against the bachelors.

Yesterday's winner of the needle threading contest was the county agent, O. W. Anderson and his wife.

First place in the 6 months to 2 years old baby contest was Ann Garrett King, 2, of Gaithersburg. Ashton Garrett, 2, of Rockville placed second.

Winner of the 2 to 4 years class was Garner Duvall, 4, of Boyds, Md., and second was Nancy Lechliner, 5, of Laytonsville.

Benefit Party Planned

Stephens City, Va., Aug. 21.—Stevens City Fire Company will hold a benefit yard party tomorrow night to pay for new fire equipment. Food has been donated by local residents.

Md. Mental Health Clinic First in U. S.

New Project Backed By PHS Funds to Be Located at Or Near University

A mental health clinic, first of its kind in the Nationa, will be set up in Prince Georges County under auspices of United States Public Health Service.

It will be one of three to be established in the Nation—the others in the Midwest and on the West Coast—and is being backed with $40,000 in Public Health Service funds. The clinic is an opening phase of the $7,500,000 PHS mental hygiene program which began this fiscal year.

Exact location of the clinic has not been established but it is expected to be at or near the University of Maryland, where is can work in conjunction with the University's psychology department.

Approved by Society

Establishment of the clinic in the county has been given "wholehearted" approval by the Prince Georges Couty Medical Society. Dr. Thomas A. Christensen, society president, said last night his orgaization studied the PHS proposal for any "joker"—that might make it a financial burden to the county—and had found none.

The clinic will be headed by Dr. Mabel Ross, formerly with the Harriet Lane Clinic, Johns Hopkins Hospital, and a nationally-known child psychiatrist. She will be aided by a staff of one psychologist, two psychiatric social workers and a public health nurse.

Normal Capacity of 300

Patients may be referred to the clinic by private physicians, schools, courts, welfare agencies and the county at large. Chief among the problems to be studied through the clinic and its patients will be juvenile delinquency and adult maladjustment. About 300 patients will comprise the clinic's normal capacity.

Dr. Robert Felix, chief of the dicision of mental hygiene, PHS, said a main purpose of the national program is prevention of mental illness by early action, much as diphtheria and smallpox are combated these days. The national program also plans research in psychiatry and the training of psychiatry personnel.

650 Entries Received for Keswick Show

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 21 (Spl.)—Belated entries have brought the total for the Keswick Horse Show to 650, which indicates that the two-day exhibition Saturday and Sunday will prove one of the best to be held in the east this year.

Three of last year's National Horse Show champions are due to compete. These include Dr. and Mrs. Alvin I. Kay's Portmaker, who was awarded the Hunter Championship at the 1946 show in Madison Square Garden; Mrs. John T. Maloney's brown gelding, Substitution, reserve champion to Portmaker at the National and Miss Mary Jane Baldwin's Brandywine, which received top honors in the Working Hunter division at the Garden. Also to be shown will be Mr. and Mrs. W. Haggin Perry's chestnut gelding, Cartender, which won all his classes at the New York Show to become Green Hunter champion.

Donald Hostetter of Pasadena, Calif., is shipping one horse east to compete. There will also be horses from Pennsylvania, North Carolina, New York and Massachusetts, as well as from many sections of Virginia.

Besides the hunters, there will also be many jumpers, which will guarantee the spectators numerous thrills.

The exhibition will open at 9 o'clock Saturday morning with the judging of the model classes and continue through to late afternoon with hunter, pony and jumper classes. The night performance begins at 8:20 o'clock and from the spectators' point of view will have some of the best classes of the show. At 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon the show will continue with such events as the Corinthian and hunte team classes, in which the riders will wear their hunting pink coats.

On Sunday there will also be eight stake events, with $5000 in prizes for these classes alone.

Tuck Releases $129,000 for Va. Schools

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—More than $129,000 has been released by Governor Tuck for construction work and land purchases at three Virginia institutions, Budget Director J. H. Bradford announced today.

The governor has approved the release of $50,000 to Virginia Polytechnic Institute out of the school's appropriation for emergency housing of GI students. Arrangements have been made, the school advised the chief executive, to erect facilities with an additional 15,000 square feet of floor space. The construction will be of a temporary nature.

Another $50,000 has been released by Governor Tuck to Radford College at the request of Dr. David W. Peters, president. The money will be used for the purchase of several vacant lots and certain church property which the school has had under consideration for several years.

Also released by the Governor is a $29,187 allotment for the Virginia truck experiment station near Norfolk.

101-Year-Old Woman Writes Poem to Cheer Another, 103

By Charles DelVecchio—The Washington Post

MRS. FRANCES REYNOLDS KELEHER
Waxes poetic as she approaches 101

"Let's search the rainbow for a much brighter hue," says Mrs. Frances Reynolds Keleher, who will reach her 101st birthday August 30, in a poem addressed to Mrs. Flora B. Hiett, her senior by slightly more than two years.

On the eve of her 103d birthday last Saturday Mrs. Hiett complained that she was bored with life, and that all she can do is "just sit in a chair."

A former Philadelphia writer of books and circulars, Mrs. Keleher now lives at the Kendall House Sanatorium, 1523 Ogden st. nw., where she devotes most of her time to reading and composing verses for friends.

Although she has never met Mrs. Hiett, a resident of Falls Church, Va., Mrs. Ketcher says that the two-year seniority is the only "slight difference 'twixt you and me"—in spite of the fact that Mrs. Hiett has completely lost her eyesight in the past year.

The poem, written in "about an hour," has no title, and is addressed "Dear Sister of the sightless eyes." It follows:

Now don't you feel worse after reading this verse
As I make it but to amuse you.
I'm sorry you're blue but I should be too.
But, let's search the rainbow
For a much brighter hue.
"The eyes have it" 'tis true, but glasses renew
And help us review earth's beauties anew.
From the wonders below
To the glories above, we gratefully feel
That our Lord is Love.
He filled the earth with beauty
For our eyes to see and store in mind
The happy scenes of childhood,
Our school days and our lovers too,
Husband and children such memories!
O you can't be dull!
Now I'll confess. I am old too,
One from three leaves 2
I am the 1 and you are the 3
That's the slight difference
'Twixt you and me.

Fire Safety Changes Due Hearing Sept. 5

The District Commissioners yesterday scheduled a public hearing at 10 a. m., September 5 on proposed changes in fire safety building regulations for certain type commercial and public buildings constructed here after April 1, 1948.

The changes were recommended yesterday in report to the Commissioners of a special, 19-member committee appointed last spring to study the "stringency" of suspended new regulations. The proposed changes, generally, relax costly requirements of the protest-suspended egress act of March 8, 1946.

Fire Marshall Raymond C. Roberts and Robert H. Davis, director of inspection approved the committee's initial report.

"The committee carefully weighed life hazard against costs involved in the Act's requirements," said Davis. "They found some of the requirements too costly."

Yesterday's report dealt only with recommendations on new constructions, mainly office buildings, schools, warehouses and factories. More controversial and still to be reported out of the committee are its recommendations for present standing structures.

Builders and building owners protested that regulations of the new egress act would cost them a total of 100 million dollars. Operation of the act was ordered suspended to last July 1. This was later extended to April 1, 1948, to await outcome of the committee study.

Among changes proposed yesterday in new building fire safety regulations was one permitting installations of sprinkler systems in lieu of construction of fire proof passageways.

The report was submitted to the Commissioners by the committee chairman, Kenneth E. Madsen, Assistant Engineer Commissioner.

Fare Increase Is Imperative. Bus Line Says

Continued service by the Arnold bus lines between Washington and Arlington County, Va., requires increased passenger fares, officials of the bus company told the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday.

Basis of the company's plea for higher fares, Howard H. England, manager, told The Washington Post yesterday, is that "we are operating on a 1933 tariff, with 1947 expenses."

The bus line, whose official name is the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., asked that the commission either approve the general increases which the company proposed earlier this year, or limited increases recommended several weeks ago by a commission examiner—"whichever can be made quicker," because "our financial house is burning down," the petition said.

The petition declared that fares were cut 33 1/3 per cent during 1933, and have remained the same since then.

The firm had asked increases ranging from 2½ to 5 cents a trip, but these were turned down and an ICC examiner recommended that the one-zone fare be increased from 10 to 15 cents cash, or two tokens for 25 cents; the four-zone rate from 20 to 25 cents, and the other zone rates should remain as they are.

Opposition to any change was expressed by the Arlington County Public Utilities Commission, Arlington County Bus Riders Association and the County Civic Federation.

The firm said:

"It is perfectly clear that the fare increases recommended by the examiner will not keep the company alive even without any increases in wages under the pending 1947 labor contract, and with wage increases the indicated deficit is between $160,000 and $200,000 per year."

Even that appraisal, it was asserted, is based on "no further decline in the gross volume of business."

A financial statement, "adjusted in accordance with the examiner's suggestions," showed an operating deficit of $170,878.14 for the first seven months of 1947.

D. C. Driver Is Killed When Truck Overturns

Crash Throws Victim Under Vehicle; Death Toll Is Now 46

District traffice deaths this year 46
Deaths this date last year 40
Total traffic deaths last year....72

A 26-year-old Washington truck driver was crushed to death here yesterday when his vehicle collided with an automobile at 4th and I sts. ne., and overturned on him.

Benjamin Greenhow, of 4683 Benning rd. ne., was dead when extricated from beneath the side of his meat supply truck.

Police said the truck was struck on the right front by an automobile operated by Otto H. Franklin, 54, of 913 C st. ne., at 7:40 a. m. Franklin, an engineer for the American Leundry, 2306 Georgia ave. nw., who was en route to work at the time, was unhurt.

The dead man, an Army veteran with overseas service, was employed by Auth Bros., Inc., 1117 F st., sw., hotel supplier of meats. He had left the plant a short time before to start his morning deliveries.

Impact of the crash police said, apparently hurtled Greenhow through the open doorway of the milk van-type truck. The other driver, Franklin, was ordered held on a technical charge of manslaughter for action of the coroner.

In an earlier accident, Wednesday night, 7-year-old Carolyn Williams of 45 Hanover st. nw., was hurt seriously when struck by an automobile in front of 1311 N. Capitol st. she suffered contusions and possible head injuries, and her condition was describe das "satisfactory" last night at Children's Hospital.

Police identified the driver of the automobile as John Magruder, 20, of 3028 Vista st. ne.

Dynamite Blast Rocks Winchester, But No One Is Hurt

Winchester, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—An explosion of about 50 pounds of dynamite rocked the southeastern section of Winchester this afternoon, shattering a number of windows but causing no casualties.

Lee Grant, city manager, said the explosion occurred on city property near the sewage disposal plant. According to Grant the city had accumulated about 350 pounds of old dynamite which had become dangerous and which it was decided should be destroyed.

The dynamite had been hauled from a storeroom to an open field where Thomas Chapman, an employe of the DuPont company, was supervising the burning of the explosive.

Grant said about 300 pounds already had been burned when a probable accumulation of gas caused the last 50 pounds to explode, setting off a blast that shook buildings four blocks away and shattered windows in numerous houses in the eastern and southeastern parts of the city.

Advisory Council To Receive Report On Va. Inebriety

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The Virginia Advisory Legislative Council's committee studying inebriety in the State held what probably will be its final meeting today in the State Capitol and adopted a report for presentation to VALC.

During today's meeting, the group also received data on the extent of inebriety in Virginia, State Senator J. Hoge Tyler, III, of Norfolk, said. Senator Tyler is chairman of the committee.

The report, which was not made public, will go to the VALC, which was authorized by the General Assembly to make a thorough study of inebriety in the State and report to the Governor and Legislature.

Another duty assigned the VALC was the collection of statistics showing commitments to penal institutions on account of drunkenness and commitments to other institutions, both public and private, for inebriety during the past 10 years.

Correction

The estate of Mrs. Daisy P. Blodgett, 1515 New Hampshire ave., who died August 1 was erroneously reported in yesterday's Washington Post as being valued at $1,700,502. The correct figure is $1,007,502.

The Washington Post regrets the error.

Veterans May Receive Rebates From Builder

Baltimore, Aug. 21 (AP).—A builder of 90 homes for veterans who claimed the finished dwellings did not meet specifications was threatened with Federal prosecution today if he cannot reach an agreement with the owners.

Robert Amato of the New York regional office of the Federal Housing Expediter voiced the threat at a conference in the Veterans Administration office.

The conference produced a tentative agreement by which the builder, Edward Meyerberg, would refund $342 to each veteran for whom he erected homes in Hanlon Park in northwest Baltimore.

The builder and representatives of the veterans will meet Monday to act on the agreement. Amato said if the meeting fails to result in acceptance of the rebate proposal, he will inform the United States district attorney of alleged violations in connection with construction and sale of the homes.

The veterans complained many features specified in plans submitted by the builder were missing from the completed homes.

School to Open Sept. 4

Manassas, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The Manassas State Vocational School will open September 4 for its fourth consecutive year of training in various branches of vocational education, Principal Daniel M. Kelso announced today.

The school's classwork is available to any citizen of Virginia 15 years of age or over. The schedule of courses includes auto mechanics, machine shop practice, electricity, drafting, commercial art, welding, refrigeration, carpentry, radio, office practice, practical nursing, and cosmetology. Academic courses also are offered.

Residence facilities are available in the dormitories, Kelso said. The school's program and facilities are approved by the Veterans Administration, and all operations are supervised by the State Board of Education.

Reaffirms Bridge Plans

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—Governor Lane took time out from a vacation to reaffirm his plans for a bay bridge or tunnel connecting the Eastern Shore with the rest of Maryland one of the main projects in reconstructing the State's entire road system.

While he said the program includes every county, the Chief Executive made special reference to the needs of Worcester and other Eastern Shore counties.

Lane said he was aware of the delay caused motorists at the Matapeake Ferry and by traffic tieups on the Susquehanna Bridge.

He recalled that studies for a bay crossing have been in progress since last fall and he said they are nearly completed.

At the same time, Chairman Robert M. Reiindollar reported in Baltimore the State Roads Commission had hired tunnel experts in helping decide whether a bridge or underwater crossing will be built.

City Manager Honored

Waynesboro, Va., Aug. 21.—I. G. Vass, Waynesboro's city manager since December 1, 1928, has recently received congratulations from the International City Managers' Association on the completion of 25 years of managerial experience in city government. Vass had been in similar work at Galax since 1922 before coming to Waynesboro when this locality first instituted the system.

Vass will be the twentieth manager to receive the award, given annually by the association to city managers who have attained this distinction.

To Prolong Saving Time

Frederick, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—Frederick, originally scheduled to return to standard time on Labor Day, will continue to operate on daylight saving time until September 28 to conform with Maryland's other principal cities, the board of aldermen decided last night.

3 Polio Cases in County

Baltimore, Aug. 21 (AP).—Three cases of paralytic poliomyelitis were reported to the Baltimore County Health Department this week, officials said today.

Two cases occurred in the western area of the county, one a 30-year-old woman and the other a 10-year-old child. The third case was in the southeastern area of the county.

Health officials said six cases of the disease have been reported in the county to date this year.

Church Meet Speakers

Shenandoah, Va., Aug. 21.—Many prominent Primitive Baptist ministers are scheduled to speak at the three-day meeting of the Ebenezer Association opening here in the high school building August 22. Elder Albert Sudduth, of the Naked Creek Church, host church, will preach the introductory sermon tomorrow.

Others scheduled include Elders B. H. Seekford and Earl Quinn, Washington, D. C.; L. S. Dove and C. W. Miller, Arlington; Edgar Aleshire, Springfield, Ohio, native of Luray; L. H. Clevenger, Excelsior Springs, Mo.; T. P. Dalton, Baltimore; J. A. Frazier, Remington; C. R. Frazier, Marshall, and F. E. Thompson, Bel Air, Md.

Elbertas on Move

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 21.—Movement of the Elberta peach crop from this producing belt began today with first offerings from trees that had ripened stock about a week earlier than the main crop. The early maturing, not unusual, is on trees that had not been given or taken cultivation practices thoroughly.

Initial prices ranged from $3 a bushel up for first grade, packed stock.

Hobbs Appointed

Morgantown, W. Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—President Irvin Stewart of West Virginia University announced today the appointment of Dr. Milford L. Hobbs of Fairmont General Hospital as head pathologist and clinical pathologist of the university's school of medicine.

Fire Razes Sawmill

Tappahannock, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The W. C. Brooks & Son sawmill near here and a quantity of lumber were destroyed by fire yesterday with a loss estimated at more than $75,000. The Tappahannock Fire Department prevented the spread of the fire to other property.

Carrier Commissioning

Newport News, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The Coral Sea, 45,000-ton aircraft carrier and sister ship of the Midway and the Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be commissioned October 1 at the Norfolk naval shipyard at Portsmouth.

The vessel was christened here April 2, 1946, by Mrs. T. C. Kinkaid, whose husband, Admiral Kinkaid is commander of the Eastern sea frontier and the Atlantic Reserve Fleet.

Capt. A. P. Storrs of Oswego, N. Y., will be the skipper.

Hospitals Get $10,000

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 21. A bequest of $5000 each to King's Daughters Hospital and City Hospital, here, from the estate of the late Miss Thais Blondel, this city, has been delivered to the hospitals by administrators of the estate, Clarence E. Martin, sr., and Bernard D. Myers. The money, under terms of the bequest, must be applied to cases of charity.

Divorce Rate High

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—Marriages have gone on the blink at the rate of one to every five new ones contemplated in Anne Arundel County, Court Clerk John H. Hopkins, 3d, disclosed today.

Since January 1, court house records show that 789 couples received licenses to wed, while 155 divorce bills were filed.

Hopkins said the ratio of 19.6 per cent may be low, as wedding bells don't always ring after a license is issued.

80 to 90 to Get Diplomas

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—Between 80 and 90 graduates will receive degrees from the University of Virginia at summer session commencement exercises in Cabell Hall Saturday night.

President Colgate W. Darden, jr., will make the awards for the first time since he took office in June.

F. Stringfellow Barr, former president of St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., and an alumnus of University of Virginia, will deliver the commencement address.

W. & M. Commencement

Williamsburg, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—"The Common Glory" choir, under the direction of Carl A. Fehr, will take part in the summer session commencement at the College of William and Mary here tomorrow night.

Composed for the most part of William and Mary students, the choir provides the musical background for Paul Green's symphonic drama at Lake Matoaka Amphitheater.

George B. Zehmer, administrator for the Richmond area university center, will give the baccalaureate address and the Rev. S. S. Whitman, assistant rector of historic Bruton Parish Church here will deliver the invocation and benediction.

Approximately 53 seniors and graduate students will receive degrees from Dr. John E. Pomfret, college president.

Budget Session Monday

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—Departmental and institutional budgets for 1948-50 will be considered at a meeting of the State Board of Corrections here Monday at 2 p. m., Commissioner Rice M. Youell announced today.

Legion Paper Inquiry

Baltimore, Aug 21 (AP).—Harry S. Allen of Laurel, commander of the American Legion, Department of Maryland, has appointed a six-man committee to study the veterans' monthly newspaper.

The legion, in convention in Baltimore earlier this month, directed investigation of the Maryland Legionnaire after approving an extra 25 cents levy on members for operation of the paper.

Allen named Robert H. Archer of Bel Air, G. Bowie McCeney of Laurel, Frederick G. Baugh, Joseph Murray and James M. Loughborough, all of Baltimore, to make the study.

"It will make a survey of the paper and offer recommendations for its continuance," Allen said. The recommendations will be made to the executive committee of the department.

Tank Bids Opened

Frederick, Md., Aug. 21.—Two bids have been opened by city officials for a million-gallon capacity water storage tank here. Low bid of $146,400 was submitted by the Chicago Iron & Bridge Co. with a stipulation that 450 days be allowed for erection. The other bid was $153,200.

Work Begins on New Highway Bridge . . .

The Washington Post

PROGRESS REPORT—Pile driving operations got under way yesterday for construction of the proposed twin-span bridge to replace the present structure across the Potomac River at the foot of 14th st. nw. The dual bridge is to be built at an estimated cost of seven million dollars. The substructure alone will require 16 months of work

Welch, W. Va. Buildings Hit By Sinkings

Welch, W. Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—Welch residents bristle if you call their town the "sinking city" and they are impatient for an authoritative explanation of the earth movement apparently responsible for cracks in nine downtown buildings and damage to some sidewalks and pavements.

Property owners resent the nation-wide publicity the phenomenon has received. They are particularly upset because one Eastern insurance firm already has stopped writing new policies on Welch buildings.

City officials and plain citizens emphasize that nothing in Welch has been or is expected to be swallowed up by the earth.

Civil Engineer E. C. Zick said the earth shift was first noticed two years ago when settling broke windows in a restaurant. Since then its effect has intensified, causing unspectacular but costly damage.

Damage is confined almost entirely to one block in the downtown business section. Affected structures include the McDowell County National Bank, the Appalachian Electric Power Co., the postoffice, and an apartment building.

City Engineer L. A. Osborn will withhold findings of his investigation, pending a report by Federal geological and mining engineers who are expected to enter the investigation this week as a result of damage to the postoffice.

Meanwhile, unofficial theories by men in the street cover a wide range. Some of them:

The settling is due to abandoned mine tunnels under the city.

An underground washout was caused when a city water main burst five years ago.

There is no earth movement. The settling is just a matter of inadequate foundations and unusually severe freezes last winter.

Meanwhile Mayor L. E. Rogers wants it known by outsiders that Welch is still entirely above ground and expects to stay that way. He said there was no cause for alarm and added:

"We're still not worried and we still think it's the best little city in the United States."

Work Is Begun On Potomac's Twin Bridges

A bulldozer yesterday snorted through the first step in the construction of the wto bridges over the Potomac River downstream from the present Highway Bridge.

Ground clearing operations were started on the District side for the span approaches. A huge pile driver mounted aboard a barge was moved into position to set up moorings for other barges which will be used in excavation work.

The contract for piers and abutments of the first bridge and for the overpass at the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway on the Virginia side was awarded to Merritt, Chapman and Scott of New York. They bid $2,703,692 and were to begin construction about July 1.

The two spans are expected to be completed in about four years. They will be situated between the present bridge and the railroad bridge. Upon completion of the first span, the Highway Bridge is to be torn down and replaced with a modern structure.

Virginia to Send School Aid Checks Early This Year

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The State Department of Education announced today that the amounts localities will receive as first installment for teacher pay for 1947-48 from the $17,223,000 generla appropriation for maintenance of public free schools had been sent to the comptroller's office.

The amount, for which Comptroller Henry G. Gilmer said checks probably will be mailed early next week, totals $3,674,773 and the allotments the various counties receive are determined by constitutional provision.

In the past it has been customary for the first installment to be sent out in October. However, the allotments are being distributed earlier this year, the department said, because it was felt the localities would have greater need of the money ta this time. The second installment will be mailed in late October.

Dugan Wants Private Owner For Nevius Site

Arlington County Board Member Dan Dugan promised to take steps at the next board meeting to put the county's controversial Nevius tract back into private—and tax-paying—hands.

A 15 million dollars Veterans Administration hospital was slated for the 25-acre site, located on the Virginia end of Memorial Bridge adjoining Arlington National Cemetery.

But the hospital proposal was killed in Congress on the motion of Representative Howard Smith (D., Va.) after the property was purchased for an estimated $850,000.

Dugan gloomily predicted yesterday that the tract probably would become an extension of the Arlington Cemetery, "which never will make payments in lieu of taxes to Arlington County," nor be of any material advantage to Virginia veterans "who could have benefited greatly from the hospital."

Under terms of a bill presented to the last Congress, the Federal Government would be required to make payment in lieu of taxes on such holdings as the Pentagon Building and Navy Annex in Arlington. Installations like Fort Meyer and Arlington National Cemetery, however, would be excluded.

At the next board meeting, Dugan said, he would ask the group to request that Virginia Congressmen prevent extension of the Cemetery into the Nevius tract.

Simultaneously, he added, he will ask the legislators back return of the property to private ownership, as an additional source of Arlington tax revenue.

Is Jury Commissioner

Charles Town, W. Va., Aug. 21.—R. J. Madison, of Middleway, former sheriff of this county, has been named a jury commissioner to succeed George McKee who is now serving in the West Virginia Legislature. The other jury commissioner is Ed Vickers. They began yesterday the task of drawing jurors to serve on the several panels for the year.

National Weather Summary

Copyr., 1947, Edw. L. A. Wagner

24-HOUR FORECAST—The weatherman promises weather-wilted residents of the central Plains and the corn belt fair weather with southerly winds and afternoon temperatures of 90 degrees or higher. This prediction falls as unwelcome news to farmers who have seen corn and grain suffering from lack of rain and abnormally hot weather since July 4.

Maximum temperatures will be in the comfortable 80s from Maine to Virginia, through most of the Rockies and the Far West. A warm air flow off the Gulf of Mexico across the Gulf States to the Plains States, the Lake region, the Ohio Valley and the Southeast will send the mercury into the 90s.

Warm southerly winds will flow into the Nation east of the Rockies and south of the front from Virginia to North Dakota. (See fotocast.) These moist southerly winds will release scattered thunderstorms along the Gulf Coast, through the Rockies and from Montana to New York and Pennsylvania. (See affected areas.) The weather-wise map fan and grain speculator will see fronts are static or nearly motionless over the northern Plains. These amateur forecasters are aware that little motion of the fronts and affected areas accompanying them means no immediate relief for the drought area.

A tropical storm was centered 225 miles south of the Louisiana coast in the Gulf of Mexico at 10 a. m. EST, Thursday. Winds of 40 to 50 miles per hour were reported near the storm center with squalls outward 250 miles to the north and east. Small craft on the Louisiana coast were advised not to venture into the Gulf as this "tropical twister" moves northwestward about 10 miles per hour.

Today's maximum temperature forecasts include Kansas City, 100; St. Louis, 99; Chicago and Cleveland, 96; Nashville, 95; Pittsburgh, 93; Detroit and Milwaukee, 92; Buffalo, 91; Atlanta, 90; Washington, 88; New York and Philadelphia, 86, and Boston, 80.

Lane Reviews Guard in First Peace Parade

Camp Ritchie, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—A smartly turned-out Maryland National Guard stepped out in its first postwar parade and review by its commander in chief, Governor William Preston Lane, jr., and its generals beneath cloudy skies today.

The Governor and the officers with stars sped in jeeps through an open-ranks formation of the guard on the grass parade ground. Brig. Gen. Charles H. Gerhardt was in the same jeep, named Vixen Tor, which carried him as wartime commander of the Twenty-ninth Division from Normandy to the heart of Europe.

The chief executive and the officers then retired to the reviewing stand while retreat was sounded and the stars and stripes lowered.

At the order, "pass in review," the 1100 men and officers of the guard stepped off with Brig. Gen. William C. Purnell, wartime leader of Baltimore's "Dandy Fifth" in the van.

Taking the salutes and "eyes right" from the battle-equipped guard along with Governor Lane were Brig. Gen. Henry C. Evans, the unit's commander; Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general; Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis, commander of the Second Army, and Maj. Gen. William A. Sands, commander of the 29th Division.

The half-hour parade included four battalions of the 115th Infantry, two battalions of the 175th Infantry, artillery division, special troops and the 231st Transportation Corp Battalion.

Prior to the inspection, Colonel Sidney Rubenstein was presented a bronze star by General Reckord for counter-intelligence work in the China-Burma theater during the latst war. Rubenstein is a former Baltimore agent of the FBI.

Governor Lane arrived at the summer camp of the guard for a luncheon. Attending him was an honor guard drawn from units of the 11th Infantry Regiment with which he served in World War I.

House Robberies Attributed to 3 Jail Breakers

Tazewell, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—Food, clothing, and money were taken from three homes near here which Sheriff R. Bowen Thompson said were believed to have been broken into by three of the four prisoners who escaped from Tazewell jail yesterday.

Thompson said the Army discharge certificate of Orville Hays of Tazewell, one of the escapees, was found in the second of the houses entered around mid-day yesterday.

Two others of the group were believed to have been with Hays, Thompson said. He listed them as Bobby Lewis, about 21, of Harlan, Ky., and Roy Matney, 20, of Buchanan County.

Thompson said investigation indicated the fourth escapee, Goldie Call, 30, of Thompson's Valley, fled alone.

Food and clothing were taken from all of the houses, located about 10 miles west of here, and $23 was reported missing from one of the three, the sheriff stated.

Guest Pastors at Luray

Luray, Va., Aug. 21.—Guest pastors for the next three Sundays will fill the pulpit at Christ Episcopal Church here, according to J. H. Tompkins, senior warden.

August 24 and 31 services will be conducted by the Rev. Paul E. Engle of Jackson, Miss. The service on September 7 will be conducted by the Rev. D. Campbell Maiers of Middleburg, Va.

Virginia Gets Camp Peary Reservation

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The huge Camp Peary reservation in York County has been acquired by the State of Virginia and will be put to public use by the State Conservation Commission and the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

The two agencies, which co-operated in efforts to obtain the 10,500-acre wartime seabee training base from the Navy, will use the tract for a "closely coordinated program of forestry, fish and game conservation and recreation," William A. Wright, jr., conservation commission chairman, announced.

The State received the site under a revocable permit, which probably would not be used except in the case of a national emergency. The Navy pointed out it wished to retain title "in a standby status" for possible national defense purposes.

Counting Pennies with Carolyn

This week, your Shirlington trip is likely to be concerned with clothes for the youngsters of all ages, from Kindergartners to Collegians. School reopens in September, and a wise mother gets her flock ready before the last minute rush.

There are so many nice things about shopping with the young 'uns at Shirlington. It's so easy to get there, over the smooth, trafficless Shirley Highway, such a cinch to park in ample centralized parking space, a step from every store . . . so convenient to do ALL your shopping in ONE centralized location.

Ann Lewis' "Back to College" window beckons to all who admire smart young clothes. It's filled with "bango" campus fashions, dresses and "separates." First to catch your eye is the bonny clan plaid wool dress, from August "Seventeen," to be had for $9.99, and the pert hip-pocket bolero suit of dark pure wool, for just $10.99. Teammates all are boxy slip-on and cardigan sweaters in cheer leader colors, from $2.99 to $5.99 and a wide variety of skirts—gabardines, wools, crepes—pleated all around, pleated back and front, wrap-around, and pocketed, from $3.99 to $5.99. Blouses, mainstay of every Fall wardrobe, $2.99 to $5.99, may be chosen of rayon crepe or sharkskin, frilled or tailored, with new Gibson Girl sleeves or French cuffs, in white and a range of shades including rich dark colors.

Growing up sons want to head straight for the Woodrow Store they've heard their dads talk about. This men's store has just what every high school and college boy needs . . . sweaters in slip-on, coat and sleveless styles, small, medium and large, from $1.98 to $3.98 . . . sports coats, plain, plaid or checked . . . three-quarter station wagon coats of Zelan-treated water-repellent poplin at only $9.98 . . . poplin raincoats that were $16.98 and are now $13.98.

Jerry's Kiddie Center has everything for the grammar grades' back-to-classes trek. For boys, "longies" of covert, corduroy and "Tweederoy," sizes 3 to 18, range from $3.99 up . . . brilliant plaid flannel shirts, sizes 3 to 12, are $2.29 . . . bright sweaters for both boys and girls (sizes 3 to 12) start at $2.99. The pigtail set has a hard time choosing between Jerrys colorful cotton dresses, and the cotton blouse and wool skirt sets, like big sister wears—compromises by taking several of both. The dresses, plaid, printed, plain, $2.99 and up, come in sizes 3 to 14 . . . white cotton blouses, frilly or tailored are $1.99 . . . all-wool skirts, plaid and plain, pleated and flared (with suspenders for sizes 3 to 6) begin at $2.49.

For smart school and college footwork, go to Beck's in Shirlington. You may be fitted with low-cut, little-heeled "flatties" of black suede or brown calf leather to pal around with skirts and sweaters—cost $5.99 and $6.99. Also featured at Beck's are reptile shoes, $8.99, and matching bags, $11.95, feted to receive bids to the best sororities. These are wonderful with the new suit silhouette and the dressier wool dresses you see everywhere.

To round out school equipment, take your flock to the Shirlington Woolworth's. You may have trouble tearing them away without buying out the store when they lay eyes on the wonderful collection of pads, pencils, notebooks, erasers, brief cases, etc. . . . everything to practice the three R's.

Take the family by for a famous barbecue and milkshake at the Shirlington Hot Shoppe and leave them feeling this is a real pleasure excursion. You can sit peacefully in the car and enjoy the excellent curb service. When you head for home, take along a quart of delicious Hot Shoppe ice cream (75c a quart) or orange sherbet (65c) and some cakes to top it off.

By the way—the teen-agers want to remember tonight's dance—the fourth in the series of Shirlington's Community Dances—and the chance it gives them to compete for valuable prizes!

Bluege, Okayed by Club, Punches at Writer Who Calls Him 'Liar'

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Mr. George Halas, who sends his Chicago Bears against the College All-Stars in Soldiers Field tomorrow night, was taking a dim view today of his Bears' prospects of winning the game. "There's no defense against speed, and the college boys have it," said Halas. "We don't have anybody to run with Buddy Young."

POVICH

That's what Uncle Halas said, but the Bears will go ahead and do their best nevertheless, and probably win the game and prove Uncle George a poor prophet, but an excellent coach. Nobody believes what Halas says before a game, anyway. To hear him tell it, one has the urge to call for quick action by the humane society to prevent the brutal mishandling of his little Bear boys.

The Nation's betting commissioners don't see eye-to-eye with Halas because they are offering 2 to 1 agains the college boys, or are willing to take the All-Stars and give you 7 points. In any event, 103,000 persons think it will be an interesting contest and the only reason there will not be 300,000 spectators is because there are not 300,000 seats in Soldiers Field. The game was sold out months ago, and at this point the speculators are in charge of the ticket sales.

ANY LITTLE thing the Bears can do to discourage Buddy Young tomorrow night they will doubtless try as a favor to the entire National Football League. Young, you see, is the property of the hated All-America Conference and will step into a New York Yankee uniform immediately after the contest. Twelve NFL club owners will be praying for the Bears to bottle up Young, the Illinois boy, who cast his lot with the AAC.

The All-America Conference officially has no part in this annual game, which is reserved for the champions of the NFL against the College All-Stars. But the AAC has a tremendous rooting interest in the goings-on, because they will have 20 of their chattels on display in the All-Star lineup, and it was a nice break they got last year when their boy, "Crazy Legs" Hirsch, stole the show from the NFL recruits on the college team.

THE PERFORMANCE of the future AAC stars in last year's game served notice that they had corraled the best share of the upcoming college players. This year the NFL has them outnumbered, 27 to 20, in the total of players that will go into the respective pro leagues, but there is none to match the potential of Young, the fastest guy on either team, unless it is Bob Fenimore, Oklahoma A. and M. back who is signed by the Bears. Fenimore, incidentally, is hurt and may not play tomorrow.

Besides Young, there will be two more inviting targets for the Bears in the All-Star backfield. They are Julie Rykovitch, the former Illinois star who also played for Notre Dame, and George Ratterman, the good quarterback of the Irish last fall. Both of those gents have signed with Buffalo of the AAC, and with Young they threaten to make it an AAC show in the Bears' own balliwick.

Vying with Young as the superattraction in the college lineup, however, will be Doc Blanchard, who won't play pro football for anybody because he is under contract to the Army as a second lieutenant. Blanchard for the first time in four years won't have Glenn Davis as a running mate. Davis hurt his knee during the workouts and is sidelined. But if the collegians have Young and Blanchard in the same backfield it will be nice to watch.

MEANWHILE, the Bears are not exactly a collective object of pity. You don't cry in your beer over the impending fate of a team that can come up with a backfield of Sid Luckman, Joe Osmanski, Scooter McLean and George McAfee, particularly when the last three named have had a full year to recover from leg injuries that slowed 'em last fall.

Mr. Frank Leahy, of Notre Dame, who coaches the collegians for this game, was saying today that there's no sense trying to buck that Bear line and that he has designed his attack around the speed of his backs and forward passing. Of his squad of 60 players, he couldn't find a pair of tackles who wouldn't get murdered by the big Bear boys, so in desperation he has switched two of his better guards, Joe Mastrangelo of Notre Dame and Capt. Dick Barwegen of Purdue into the tackle jobs.

One of the tackles the collegians will be facing is Fred Davis, the former Redskin employe, who today was recalling the dear old days he spent with George Marshall. "He taught me all he knew about playing tackle," said Davis, "and luckily I forgot it."

Ossie Flays Reporter's 'Snooping'

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Briggs Stadium, Detroit, Aug. 21. Manager Ossie Bluege, of the Nats, took a loyalty check of his ball club, found they were all for him and then took a wild punches at a Washington baseball writer as the aftermath of a 45-minute man-to-man clubhouse meeting here today.

The victim of Bluege's rage was Burton Hawkins, of the Evening Star, who called the Nat manager a "liar" when Bluege charged him with "snooping."

The meeting was called by Bluege to sift reports by Hawkins Wednesday which said eight unnamed Nats were dissatisfied with the way Bluege was handling the team. The story also quoted one player as saying he would not return to the Nats if Bluege were retained next year.

Writer Called In

After telling newspapermen yesterday that any member who admitted making these statements to Hawkins would be suspended and fined. Bluege today read the article to his players and asked who was responsible for it. Nobody answered.

Then Bluege drew up a formal statement, signed by all the players, which denounced Hawkins' story as "derogatory and malicious" and pledged unqualified loyalty to Bluege "personally and as manager."

Then Bluege called Hawkins into the club house and told him the players, "with the exception of one who said he didn't like the way I was running the team," had denounced Hawkins' story as untrue. He told Hawkins he was undermining the team.

Bluege said the entire trouble dated back to last year when Gerry Priddy informed Hawkins of a row he had with the Nat chieftain.

Bluege Swings at Hawkins

Both Hawkins and Priddy denied that the Nat second baseman told Hawkins of that squabble.

The angry Bluege than charged Hawkins with "snooping in my waste basket trying to get information."

"You're a liar," shouted Hawkins."

"Two clubhouse boys saw you," Bluege fired back."

"They're liars too," replied Hawkins, "and you're a liar for repeating it."

Whereupon Bluege threw a few negligible punches at Hawkins. The melee lasted only a few seconds, until Coach Sam West intervened. Hawkins did not strike back at bespectacled Bluege.

A little later, Bluege said he was sorry for what happened, but that "no red-blooded American could take that."

The long word battle and short fisticuffs over, Bluege said he had no grievance against newspapermen, was g lad the incident was over and hoped eevryone on his team would forget it and concentrate on salvaging something from the so far miserable season.

"Loyalty Pledge"

The statement the players signed follows:

I, being duly sworn, depose and say, that the undersigned player of the Washington baseball club of my own free will and accord, do hereby denounce the derogatory and malicious statements written about our manager, Ossie Bluege, in an article appearing in the Washington Evening Star, in the issue of August 20, 1947.

I, as a member of the Washington club, deny having made any of the statements as published in the article by Mr. Burton Hawkins in said issue. I, furthermore, deny the existence to my knowledge of any dissension on our club, nor do I hold any grievance, ill feeling or malice toward Mr. Bluege personally, or as manager.

Cards Divide 2 Games With Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 21 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals bounded back from a 9-2 defeat in the first game to pound out a 13 to 3 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies in the nightcap today.

Stan Musial hit two home runs, the second with the bases loaded, and Ron Northey one with two men on.

The split dropped the Cards five games back of the pace-setting Dodgers who beat the Cincinnati Reds.

Grid Season's Kickoff

103,000 to See College Stars Play Chicago Bears Tonight

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The 1947 gridiron season kicks off tomorrow night with the vengeful Chicago Bears, championship of the National Football League, determined to wallop the College All-Stars and soothe the 16-0 licking the All-Stars handed the Los Angeles Rams last year.

The fourteenth annual contest, to be played in flood-lighted Soldier Field on Chicago's lake front, will draw a record-breaking crowd of 103,000.

If the sweltering temperatures continue in the 90's. As forecast, the shirt-sleeved fans may see more of tricky forward passing than exhausting, slam-bang ground play.

The All-Stars, coached by Notre Dame's Frank Leahy, are handicapped by the loss of at least three outstanding backfield performers, Army's Glenn Davis; Julie Rykovich, star of Illinois' Rose Bowl champions, and Bob Fenimore of Oklahoma A&M. All three were injured while scrimmaging at the All-Stars camp in Evanston, Ill., and will see little or no action.

The All-Stars will depend upon backfield speed, including the sweeps of Claude (Buddy) Young, Illinois' Negro flyer, Charley Trippi of Georgia and Vic Schwall of Northwestern, and on the sharp passing of Notre Dame's George Ratterman and Ben Raimondi of Indiana.

The Chicago Bears, in excellent physical condition and rated seven better than the collegians by local betmakers.

The Bears—making their sixth appearance in the series — have never been defeated by the All-Stars, although they were held to a scoreless tie in 1934. Since then the Bears have won four contests and were hard-pressed only in their last appearance, 1944, when a field goal in the last period won the game, 24-21.

The Bears' 1941 victory over the All-Stars by a 37-13 count marked the widest margin in the series, in which the professionals hold an eight to four advantage.

Although Davis may not even suit up for the game, his famed Army running mate, Doc Blanchard, probably will be called upon early by Coach Leahy, who will start his own Notre Dame fullback, Jim Mello, instead of the Cadet star, who was late reporting.

If the battle is to be settled up in front, the hulking, seasoned Bears, averaging 230 pounds, may hold a decided advantage. Leahy's supply of tackles impressed him so little that he shifted Guards John Mastrangelo of Notre Dame and Capt. Dick Barwegen of Purdue to the starting tackle slots, gambling on their aggressiveness to offset their inexperience at the new posts.

The Bears, drilling at Collegeville, Ind., again will bank on the heralded passing of uarterback Sid Luckman, the speed of Backs Hugh Gallarneau, Ray McLean and George McAfee and the thrusts of the fullbacking brothers, Joe and Bill Osmanski.

All-Star Game Facts, Figures

Metro Grid Loops To Form Tonight

Organization of the 10-team Metropolitan Football Leagues of Washington is scheduled for Andy Farkas' Sporting Goods Store, 818 18th st. nw., tonight at 8 o'clock when representatives of the 160-pound group assemble.

Ten teams already have been admitted to the unlimited league, and a schedule will be drawn up and playing fields assigned both leagues.

Farkas discloses that a double-header championship playoff involving the Eastern and Western Division winners of both leagues has been scheduled for Griffith Stadium Sunday, November 30. Fifty per cent of the net receipts will be donated to some worthy cause.

The 10 teams voted franchises are: Edgewood, Prince Georges Merchants, Eig's Liquors, Irish War Vets, Bethesda Barons, Falls Church Garage, Potomac Post No. 40, American Legion; Columbia Heights Merchants, Rosslyn Merchants and Mount Rainier Ramblers.

Bums' Crazy Inning Beats Blackwell, 8-1

BROOKLYN, Aug. 21 (AP).—Crossing the plate four times in an uproarious fifth inning which was enlivened by three Brooklyn hits and three stolen bases, two Cincinnati errors, a base on balls, a balk, wild pitch and passed ball, the Dodgers routed Ewell Blackwell today and went on to defeat the Reds, 8-1.

Before the wild inning was completed, Catcher Ray Lamanno and Bench Warmers Johnny Vander Meer and Bucky Walters of the Reds had been thumbed off the field by Plate Umpire Lou Jorda and Redleg Manager Johnny Neun narrowly averted similar medicine, after a heated argument over a called balk on Blackwell.

Up to that hilarious fifth, Blackwell had been superb on the mound. The lean, lanky sidearmer allowed only two runners to reach base in the first four innings, one on a single and another on a base on balls. In the meantime the Reds had gotten to Clyde King for a run in the second inning on an error by Jackie Robinson, a single by Ray Lamanno and a long fly by Bobby Adams.

ARKY VAUGHAN, filling in for Johnny Jorgensen at third for the Dodgers, opened the last half of the fifth with his first of three hits, a single to right. It was at this point that Blackwell committed his balk, which resulted in the expulsion of the Redleg trio.

When Hugh Poland, who had replaced Lamanno behind the plate for the Reds, let a pitch get away from him, Vaughan found himself on third, where he fretted as Blackwell bore down and disposed of Bruce Edwards and King in between a walk to Reese.

Then the fun began. Reese stole second and both runners scored on Ed Stanky's double. Robinson was safe on an error by Second Baseman Adams, stole second and continued to third on Poland's wild throw. Reiser singled in Robinson, then stole second and sprinted to third on a wild pitch. When he tried to score, Poland recovered the ball and pegged to Blackwell who tagged him out at the plate.

Pros, Colleges Reach Agreement

Chicago, Aug. 21 (U.P.).—Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, met with representatives of the NCAA today on the problems arising between professional and collegiate football, and both sides agreed that a "better understanding" resulted.

A joint statement disclosed the National Football League and the college conferences represented had agreed to exchange constitutions and by-laws.

Presumably, this would help guide professionals in signing college players and in other matters between the two groups.

Dog Track Closed

Boston, Aug. 21 (AP).—The Wonderland Park dog track at Revere was ordered closed for three weeks today so it would not be running in competition with two county fairs.

Newhouser, Hutchinson Bow, 3-2, 5-3

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21.—The Nats flunked out on their chance to make history today.

They had a grand opportunity to tie the 13-game losing streak accomplished by the 1904 Washington team, but they didn't. They failed gloriously.

Instead, they went out and whacked the Tigers twice, snapped a 11-game series of losses in the opener by 3 to 2, and starting a new streak, a winning one this time, of their own with a 5-3 decision in the nightcap.

Boff Newhouser, Hutchinson

They didn't pick on any chumps in ending their long string of setbacks, either. They thumped Newhouser in the opener and lit into Freddie Hutchinson in the afterpiece.

Early Wynn and Sid Hudson, who gave promise early in the season of being tough to get along with when they toed the rubber, were exactly that.

Wynn, loser of a couple of 2-1 games in his last two outings, chucked a six-hitter to rack up his thirteenth triumph in the opener, weathering a shaky last inning in doing it. Hudson followed him with a sparkling seven-hitter before 13,329 customers.

Pitching wasn't the only Nat virtue today. They got hitting, lots of it, including a pair of home runs. Mickey Vernon got four hits during the afternoon, including his fourth home run in the second game. Cece Travis contributed his first fourmaster of the year in the nightcap also.

Sullivan Also Stars

Mickey rapped in two runs in the first game and drove in two in the second. He had quite a day, as did shortstop Johnny Sullivan. Sully continued to sparkle at bat with 3 of the 13 safeties the Nats garnered in the nightcap, and a journeyman's exhibition afield.

Wynn had a shutout in his grasp, but it got away from him in the ninth when Johnny McHale lofted a homer into the right field stands to score Hoot Evers, who had doubled in front of him. Wynn wasn't out of a jam even then.

He walked Pinch Hitter Pat Mullin to put the tying run on base, but bore down to fan Pinch Hitter Hutchinson and induced the third straight Tiger pinch batsman, Roy Cullenbine, to fly to Stan Spence to end the Nat victory drought.

Wynn Gets Support

The Nats had three big runs going into the stretch frame and Wynn was unbeatable. He allowed only one Bengal to advance as far as second until things began to get a bit rough for him.

He owed his 3-0 lead to some timely hitting by his comrades. In the first, Vernon singled Buddy Lewis home. Lewis nicked Newhouser for a single and Tom McBride's infield out put him in scoring position.

In the eighth, Yost walked, moved to third on a sacrifice and an infield out, and became the second Nat run as Vernon outlegged an infield tap.

The final Nat score, in the ninth, was a "beaut." Priddy started it with a single and Evans' bunt moved him to second. Wynn, attempting to bunt, dunked one over the onrushing head of Third Baseman George Kell and Priddy raced home all the way from second. Can you imagine such daring from a Nat?

They just waded right in and tattooed Mr. Hutchinson. Vernon clubbed his homer in the first. After the Tigers got a run in the second, Mickey stuck his nose into Hutchinson's business again in the third when he singled in one of the two runs that inning produced. Sullivan raced home on Spence's centerfield hoist for the second.

The fourth Washington counter stemmed from Priddy's double followed by Frank Mancuso's single.

The Tigers narrowed the gap in the fourth when Catcher Hal Wagner blasted his fourth homer with Doc Cramer, who had singled, aboard. That was all for Detroit, although it took two Nat double plays to dispel a couple of scoring ideas they entertained.

Alberta Tops To Sportsmen

By Jack Bell

Enroute to Jasper National Park, Alberta, Canada, Aug. 21.—It is refreshing that there are still individuals not too busy to familiarize you with a new environment.

Tuesday at Waterton, Alberta, our party of 11 rod and gun writers, after a boat trip on Waterton Lake to Grinnel Glacier on the United States side of the border, split up into two groups, one group of six taking the southern route to the Columbia ice fields and five the north route.

Your reporter was in the north group which left with a delegation of Canadian sportsmen for Lethbridge. Passing many small ponds and lakes we observed that each contained thousands of ducks.

CONDITIONS FOR MARKED increase in wild water fowl are said to be better this year in Alberta than any other part of the Dominion. Good hatching weather prevailed in Alberta and water levels were higher than in other years.

Wednesday, we left Lethbridge by plane for Calgary where our party was met by a group of sportsmen from Red Deer and were whisked to a special breakfast of brown and Lock Leven trout. The party then was driven to Edmonton.

Upland birds, except cock ring necks are under a ban in Alberta this year. For the past two years, prairie chicken, Hungarian partridge and ruffed grouse have been passing through their strange cycle.

Country we are now passing through is prairie land and without big game but excellent upland birds and waterfowl shooting country.

* * * *

IN THE SOUTHWESTERN part of the province, elk are so plentiful the nonresident bag limit includes one male or one female.

Edmonton sportsmen and officials last night entertained us at the MacDonald Hotel.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of heavy colorful plaid wool shirts to the rod and gun writers. We wore the shirts during the reception.

Leaving Edmonton for Jasper, our impression of Alberta's sportsmen, and the beauty of the city, was pleasant indeed.

Joe Savoldi Gets Shot At Sexton Next Week

Jumpin' Joe Savoldi, the former Notre Dame All-America gridder, gets his long-awaited crack at Frank Sexton, title claimant, on next Wednesday night's wrestling show at Turner's Arena.

They were matched yesterday. It is Sexton's first bout since his June battle with Primo Carnera at the Ball Park. Savoldi beat Big Ben Morgan the other night at the Arena.

Victor, Firemen Play Today

Merrick Boys Club defeated FBI, 7 to 4, yesterday on the South Ellipse, to earn the right to meet the Firemen today, with winner to play Heurich's Brewers in the final of the Walter Johnson School Little World Series Monday.

The ultimate victor represents Washington in the All-America baseball tournament in Harrisburg, Pa., next month.

Polaha pitched the six-hit victory, striking out nine and walking none. His colleagues tapped Nichols and Cullen for nine bingles with Jarboe and Mulvihill each collecting a pair of base hits.

Five runs in the fifth inning after the G-men scored singletons in the third and fourth decided the game for Merrick as it turned out.

FBI added two more runs in the seventh but the winners retaliated in the same frame.

Rees Still Leading London News Golf

Brighton, England, Aug. 21 (AP).—Dai Rees, Welsh golf star, led the field by three shots at the end of the third round in the London News Chronicle's $6000 72-hole tournamen at Hollingsbury Park today.

Rees, a Ryder Cup certainty, for the third successive round cracked 70 on the 6616 yards course and his third round of 69 gave him a 204. Art Harrison shot 67 for second.

Norman Von Nida, the Australian, biggest money winner in Britain this year, was eight off the pace.

Potent Field On Midget Card Tonight

The most promising midget automobile racing field of the summer season competes at the West Lanham (Md.) Speedway tonight for the weekly seven-event card at 8:30 o'clock.

Five powerful Offenhauser cars are to race on the lightning-fast track and several Fords.

Ed "Dutch" Schaefer and George Fonder, top pilots at Lanham, return after a week's absence, while Len Duncan, 1946 national dirt track champion, is to introduce the famed No. 45 Wheeler Offy featured in the Abbott and Costello movie comedy, "Buck Comes Home."

Schaefer has won four features and Fonder two of the nine staged at Lanham to date, and The Flying Dutchman is topping the money winners. However, Fonder has upset Schaefer in four of their last five starts, and also has established two track marks.

Jim Forte miraculously escaped death in a three-way crack-up on the 23d lap of last Friday night's scheduled 25-lap feature, and comes back in a new Offennauser.

John Favinger, Ernie McCoy, Larry Bloomer, Walt Fair, Hawley Knight, George Marshman, Mike San Felice and Vic Sloan are some of the Ford skippers who are to race tonight.

Stranahan's 141 Paces Golf

Chicago, Aug. 21 (AP).—Defending champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, just out for the exercise, today set the early pace in the 36-hole qualifying round of the Great Lakes amateur golf tournament today with a three-under-par 141 at Calumet Country Club.

Stranahan, who did not have to qualify as 1946 title winner, matched par 72 on his closing round after belting a three-under 69 yesterday.

Early pace-setters among the other 149 players who had to battle it out for 31 match play berths were Matt Cisowski of Harvey, Ill., and Charles Becka of Chicago, who had identical rounds of 71-71—142.

Polio Case Quarantines High School Gridders

Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP).—The Williamsport High School football squad of 85 players was placed under a 10-day observation quarantine today when one of the players developed infantile paralysis.

The player, Richard Nelson, 17, a junior, was taken to the Williamsport Hospital where his condition was described as fair. Two other cases of polio previously were reported in this section.

Cobb Hits 334 MPH In Salt Flats Test

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Aug. 21 (AP).—John Cobb roared through the measured mile at 334.26 miles per hour this morning on the first test of his car since he set the world land speed record of 36 9.7 MPH for a kilometer on this saline course in 1939.

The London driver accelerated the car from the start of the 14-mile straightaway and until he reached the middle of the measured mile.

Texas Irish Ramble Over Nation's Grids

Port Arthur, Tex., Aug. 21 (AP).—Four football games in four different states in 15 days—stretching from Louisiana to Ohio to New York to Pennsylvania—would be tough even for the pros.

But it's just part of a most unusual schedule mapped by a Texas high school this year as it bids for the title of "travelingest team in the nation. St. James Catholic School of Port Arthur, which thinks nothing of a dozen games a season, will play outside Texas six times.

The first jaunt opens at Sulphur, La., September 28; goes to Dayton, Ohio, October 4 to play Cathedral Preps; hops to Erie, Pa., to engage Erie Prep October 10 and two days later to Roochester, N. Y., to play Avquinas High. The next thip will be Jennings, La., October 31 and the following week-end to Atlanta, Ga., to tackle Boys High.

Maryland Coach Banking Heavily On Freshmen

The fact that the Southern Conference still permits freshmen to play varsity football eases Coach Jim Tatum's problem at the University of Maryland but does not necessarily solve it.

Big Jim puts it this way: "Our team will be a doubtful one this year, with an almost entire freshman squad reporting for practice September 1. With very few lettermen returning, we certainly can be tabbed the problem child of the conference."

The way Tatum sees it, the freshman rule will permit him to build for the future and instill the intricate split T formation into the newcomers which should pay big dividends.

Shifting from the Shaughnessy T in favor of the Faurot split formation has caused speculation as to how it will be assimilated by holdovers Harry Bonk, Vic Turyn, Tony Gambino, Vernie Seibert, George Simler, Eddie Schwartz, Gene Kinney, among others.

Boxing Featured On Church Cruise

Fifteen rounds of exhibition boxing will feature the moonlight cruise on the Robert E. Lee sponsored by the Volunteer Club of the Simms Memorial Methodist Church Monday, September 8.

The trip begins 8:30 o'clock from the foot of 6th and Maine sts., sw. Among those assisting the promotion are Mighty Mel Stevenson, local fight manager, Smuggy Hursey and Sonny Boy West, prominent District boxers.

Graziano in Town, Signs Contract

Rocky Graziano, world's middleweight champion, stops here today to renew his license and sign his contract for a four-round exhibition with Cliff Keorkle, his heavyweight sparring partner at Griffith Stadium Monday night.

Graziano, who knocked out Zale in the sixth round for their battle for the world's middleweight boxing championship in Chicago last month, is to receive the press and radio at the Boxing Commission's offices at 10:30 o'clock.

Parshall in Harness

Greenville, Ohio, Aug. 21 (AP).—Dr. H. M. "Doc" Parshall, noted harness driver, returns to the grand circuit this year after a wartime lay-off to train and drive for the Midwest Stables of W. R. and E. J. Hayes at Duquoin, Ill., succeeding Houston Stone.

Beard Arrives . . .

240-Pound Tackle Plugs Gap In Redskin Forward Wall

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 21.—Wendell Beard, an all-Pacific Coast tackle with the University of California in 1945, and considered one of the best linemen in the West, checked in at the Washington Redskins training camp at Occidental College today.

Coach Turk Edwards obtained the 240-pound former Whittier (Calif.) High School and Whittier College star from the Chicago Bears in a swap that calls for the delivery of an unnamed end at a later date.

With only two veteran tackles on hand from the 1946 squad, plus a made-over end, the Redskins had considered this the weakest department on the team.

Overseas Duty

Beard, who is 23 years old, played with the Poets prior to the war. He joined the U. S. Marines and served with them for three years including a goodly stint in the southwest Pacific.

He returned from the service in 1945 in time to star with the Golden Bears. After a great year with the Golden Bears in 1945, Beard played on the Western team in the San Francisco Shrine all-star classic. He was declared ineligible at the start of the 1946 season.

Washington has only Don Avery and John (Tree) Adams back from its 1946 squad. Coach Edwards shifted Ed Cifers, a veteran end, to one of the tackle posts a while back but the rest of his tackles are untried.

Stars Aplenty

The list includes some promising young rookies, however, such as Fred Boensch, a star lineman at Staford last season; Ernie Williamson, who was considered one of the best linemen in the South with North Carolina in 1946 and two stars from smaller schools, Bert Dressler of Marshall College and Cliff White of Murray State.

Jim Peebles, veteran end, was taken to the Pasadena Huntington Memorial Hospital last night for observation and treatment made necessary because of a series of boils that would not clear up under normal treatment.

The Skins scrimmaged yesterday with Peebles, Bob DeFruiter, Leo Nobile and Jack Jenkins still on the sidelines with injuries.

Trans-Lux Showing All-Sports Films

The Trans-Lux theater is featuring an all-sports picture program this week, with boxing, horse racing, skating included. Highlight is first Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Swing Sessions

Is It True About Jazz Musicians?

By Bill Gottlieb

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Two of swingdom's most illustrious girl singers are currently in the clink on dope charges . . . The writer of the best-selling recent book on hot music is a self-confessed former hop head . . . And cheap newspapers, in their scare headlines, have made a fashion of tying in jazz musicians with assorted brands of vice, even when the only connection is that the murderer's second cousin is band-boy for One-Lip Lundigan's Melody Makers.

So I guess there's no end in sight to the long list of curious who, after jockeying around with such preliminary questions as "Could you explain in a few words just what jazz is?" finally bend their vulture heads forward and whisper in confidential tones: "Tell me, is it true that all hot musicians are dope fiends and/or lushes and/or this and that?"

Considered Conclusions

This is really a matter for Dr. Gallup. But since people insist on asking me anyway, I will, at no further cost to you, give my considered conclusions on the matter.

To begin, let me point out that jazz musicians are, by and large, artists. Like painters and dancers, their standards are different than yours, mine and Aunt Emma's. They are extreme individualists . . . experimentalists in search of better

Oboler Writes and Directs Compact Job in 'Arnelo Affair'

(Mr. Brady, an instructor in the speech and drama department at Catholic University, has been a frequent contributor to The Washington Post's theater page. He will handle theater reviews while Richard L. Coe is on vacation.)

By Leo Brady

THE ARNELO AFFAIR—Directed by Arch Oboler. Produced by Jerry Bresler. Screen Play by Arch Oboler. Based on a story by Jane Burr. At the Capitol.

THE CAST

Tony Arnelo.....John Hodiak
Ted Parkson.....George Murphy
Anne Parkson.....Frances Gifford
Ricky Parkson.....Dean Stockwell
Vivian Delwyn.....Eve Arden
Sam Leonard.....Warner Anderson
Avery Border.....Lowell Gilmore
Roger Alison.....Michael Branden
Dorothy Alison.....Ruth Brady
Maybelle.....Ruby Dandridge
Claire Lorrison.....Joan Woodbury

"THE ARNELO AFFAIR" at the Capitol is another example of the good movie that can result when one able craftsman is entrusted with both the writing and the directing. The double-barreled man in this case is Arch Oboler and the picture that emerges is top-bracket melodrama, lip-taut and knuckle-tight. It generates the kind of suspense that almost smothers its audience before it lets it up to breathe great cooling draughts of the theater's air conditioning.

Sharp, Clean Dialogue

If there are lapses—due partly to Oboler's radio studio training, partly to his mistaking a movie set for a soap-box—they are more than balanced by the compactly knit story, sharp, clean dialogue and the vivid rush of scenes. Oboler has made this movie like a juggler keeping several balls in the air at once, so that you are able to marvel at his dexterity while he thrills you with his tricks. Climax is piled neatly and thunderingly on climax in a way that rivals Hitchcock at his slipperiest.

The plot, which might be described as a domestic-gangster story, shows grim-mouthed John Hodiak, night club operator, winding his villainous but strangely sympathetic wiles around wife Frances Gifford, whom husband George Murphy has been neglecting of late. Hodiak plays the Tony Arnelo which gives the film its title, plays him sinister one moment and humanly understanding the next. It is quite a bit of complication Oboler bites off in creating the character and Hodiak in paying it, but both come off with dimension and completeness.

Enter the Detective

With every absent-minded move Murphy makes, Arnelo creeps closer and closer to his prey, until the wife, who has been only mildly indiscreet, is up for murder. Here Detective Warner Anderson takes a hand—and you, as audience, grip your chair.

It is more in character than in plot that radio catches up with Oboler. Now and then the characters tend to flatten out, to assume the cardboard quality radio there is an oversimplification of incident, so that you get the same thing several times over in case you had to go check on the potatoes. Other radio inheritances, however, cannot be lamented; for instance, it's undoubtedly radio training that accounts for the clarity of the tale, the short, rapid scenes, the precise use of properties. The picture gallops from scene to scene, shoving the plot ahead of it all the time.

The soap-boxing consists in a little dissertation of why people are evil, delivered by George Murphy—and a round-table night-club discussion of the mystical bond that unites humanity. During these passages you can check on those potatoes.

Connee Shines Out

Hodiak correctly glooms and phrases the other-side-of-the-tracks boy who mistakes revenge for life, Murphy is near perfect as the take-it-for-granted husband, and Miss Gifford is entirely satisfactory as the distraught wife, even though she has to act against the backdrop of her own voice in some rather tedious narrative scenes. Warner Anderson does well by the laconic and high-sounding detective, and Eve Arden and young Dean Stockwell do their usual stock roles well.

Although it's only a minor triumph, "The Arnelo Affair" is well worth seeing for sheer excitement and a masterful building of suspense.

On the Capitol stage, Headliner Connee Boswell contributes her own mastery of the popular song. She can still tug a ballad or rowdy a rebob better than anybody. Dave and Dorothy Workman prove that your glassware closet is full of musical instruments, Frank Evers and Delores do things on a wire I couldn't do on a boardwalk, and Hank Seiman and his dummy, Archie, conduct a four-way conversation with a couple of small fry from the audience. Phyllis and Milton Schwartz do a concert in miniature to round out the program.

"DEEP VALLEY" is the name of the picture from which this tender tableau was taken. Ida Lupino and Dane Clark are the players, and the movie will open at the Earle next Thursday

Any Day Now Earle Theater Will Get Rebirth as Warner

New signs go up over the Earle's marquee The Washington Post

Any day now—or most any day—the Earle Building and the Earle Theater are going to vanish into the limbo.

In their place will come the Warner Theater and the Warner Building, but don't let it confuse you.

Warner Bros., or an "official spokesman' 'thereof, isn't going to announce the change yet awhile. This in spite of the fact that yesterday a sign about four feet high went up on the facade of the "Earle-Warner" Building.

It'll be official only when three more signs saying "Warner" instead of "Earle" come to town and get placed at salient points.

That, the "official spokesman" figures, probbaly will be about the time "Life With Father" hits town, whenever that is.

The Earle Building was named after former Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, who was treasurer of the Stanley Company of America, which bought the building after its completion and opening on January 1, 1925.

The official spokesman, who isn't going to announce the change officially, pending the arrival of the other signs, said yesterday that he wouldn't say now why the change was made. That announcement probably will be made along about "Life With Father" 'time.

Mt. Vernon Players Offering Shakespeare

The Mount Vernon Players are giving repeat performances of a short version of Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors" tonight and tomorrow evening at 8:40. The performances will be staged on the concourse directly in front of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw. In the event of rain, the show will be given in Undercroft Auditorium, same address.

Members of the cast include Don Muir, Tobe Todd, George Lytle and Lee Jordan. Carl Zanner is directing.

Looking at Hollywood

Tracy and Hepburn To Team Up Again

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21.—Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn will be teamed again—this makes the fourth time—in "Before the Sun Goes Down," Metro's prize winning story written by Elizabeth Howard. It's about a small town doctor in Pennsylvania, who falls in love with the wife of the town's No. 1 man . . .

Ingrid Bergman, Charles Boyer and Louis Calhern have a few more shots to make for "Arch of Triumph." Many scenes were cut from the picture, and the new shots are just to clarify action that has been eliminated . . . Ingrid has been taking so much sun that now when she goes for a walk, she carries a parasol. Since "Joan of Lorraine" will be in technicolor, she'll have to bleach her skin . . .

Elizabeth Patterson, who is so good in "Welcome Stranger," with Bing Crosby, went from her grapefruit ranch to La Jolla, where she's rehearsing the housekeeper's part in "Angel Street."

Pro and Con About Freddie

Freddie March had many picture offers after winning an Oscar for "The Best Years of Our Lives," but he and his wife waited for Lillian Hellman's "Another Part of the Forest." I hope the forest on the screen won't be "another part of Russia." . . .

Prock Pemberton comes here to supervise "Free For All," a satire on communism which opens at the Belasco in four weeks. This will be the first anti-commie stage play in some time. Donald Curtis plays the leading role, with Ralph Rose, jr., directing. . . .

Ray Milland and Lewis Allen are taking background shots in Europe for "The Sealed Verdict." The picture will be finished in Hollywood. Milland and Allen just did a film in England for Hal Wallis.

Darryl Zanuck's party for General and Mrs. Mark Clark was distinguished and beautifully arranged in every way. One hundred and sixty-five guests danced under a tent which covered the croquet field. Darryl introduced Irving Berlin, and you could have heard a pin drop while Irving sang a song [which he had written for the Fifth Army] to the General. General Clark's thank you speech was simple and sincere. Dudley Field Malone, who helped get Clark's appointment to West Point and saw him off on the train just 34 years ago, was present. . . . Frances Goldwyn danced with her son, Sammy, jr.; Irving Berlin, ditto with his daughter; and Darryl with his. George Jessel danced with Tommye Adams, and what a figure she cut. Van Johnson looked like a cub bear dancing with his Evie. Our hostess went humming over to her daughter's table to make sure the small fry had fun, too. . . .

Clark Gable sat beside Dolly O'Brien, Irene Selznick aired her superb diamond necklace, while David and Jennifer Jones sat across the room. Joan Fontaine and sister, Olivia De Havilland, sat back to back at different tables.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Farmers and Wives Work In Cannery to Save Tomatoes

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—Some 75 Wicomico County farmers and their wives set out to save their rotting tomato crop today by working the night shift in a cannery at nearby Nanticoke.

With the wives working as skinners and the husbands as handlers and inspectors, they kept the machines spinning at the H. B. Kennerly & Sons factory until after midnight in an effort to reduce the glut which has hit canneries in the Eastern Shore tomato belt.

More than 100 packing plants in the six-county area are working at top speed trying to process the near-record crop which has hit the market all at once because frost killed off early plantings in the spring.

Prices still are around 20 cents a basket to growers, compared with 45 cents before the rush developed and last year's 75 cents to $1.10.

The farmers and their wives plan to continue their work through Friday night and will resume again Monday if the glut continues.

Tomatoes were rotting unpicked on the vines. Hundreds of baskets stood in the fields because the canneries couldn't handle them. Some already have been abandoned.

East and West Alliance Held Incompatible

Winchester, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The most fundamental reason why Americans have not realized their hopes for "a just and lasting peace" is that "the alliance in war between democracy and communism was a shotgun wedding," Senator A. Willis Robertson declared here today.

"Weddings of that character usually end in divorce proceedings," he explained, in addressing a luncheon meeting of the Winchester Rotary Club.

"The first major mistake which we and other democratic nations made when we met some two years ago in San Francisco was in failing to recognize the fact that while we have made peace with the Axis powers through their destruction we had not made it with the forces of communism dedicated to world revolution and ultimate world control," Robertson said.

"Russian aggression threatens the peace of Europe and by the use of her veto power she has prevented the United Nations from doing anything about it . . . While it is quite apparent that the veto power has hamstrung the work for peace of United Nations and may ultimately wreck it, it should likewise be frankly realized that the only way to amend the veto power will be to exclude Russia from United Nations."

Robertson said, as he saw it, the U. S. and its democratic allies have three choices. One is to continue to rely on the U. N. blueprint for preserving peace; another to implement the so-called Marshall Plan within the framework of U. N. and the third, "we can attempt to organize the world into two spheres of influence, one controlled by the Communist and the other by the democracies and gird our loins for the inevitable conflict which would result."

2 School Plans Offered

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 21.—The city council has given its tentative approval to a school board plan to condemn several properties on William and Barton sts. for the erection of a new 12-room building for James Monroe High School. As an alternative to this proposal, the school board suggested construction of a new building to which elementary grades would be removed from James Monroe High and thus give all present space to the high school. The board also has asked for a new 10-room Negro high school or the addition of four rooms to the present Walker-Grant High building. Questions of financing and possible sites will be worked out by a joint council-school board committee for submission to the full council.

To Discuss Area Jail

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—Representatives of four Northern Neck counties—Northumberland, Lancaster, Westmoreland and Essex—will meet at Warsaw Saturday to discuss possibilities of establishing a regional jail, Maj. Rice M. Youell, State commissioner of corrections, said today.

Freight Line Hearing

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission today scheduled for hearing 10 a. m. September 22 an application of the Floyd-Roanoke Freight Line for authority to operate freight service between Roanoke and Stuart, over Route 221 from Roanoke to Floyd and over Route 8 from Floyd to Stuart.

Power Plant Speeded

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 21 (AP).—The Potomac Edison Co.'s new $4,500,000 addition to the Williamsport electric power plant, begun two and one-half years ago, will be completed one month ahead of schedule.

Company officials said the improved structure will boost output by 35,000 kilowatts beginning November 1, making a total potential of 85,000 kilowatts.

School Lunch Rate in Va. May Change

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (AP).—The State Department of Education announced today that as a result of decreased Federal allotments for school lunches to Virginia for the 1947-48 term, the total amount will be insufficient to reimburse every school at the maximum rate of 9 and 7 cents per day for the A-type lunch.

In order to begin the program promptly, the department said, maximum rates of reimbursement have been set for the present at 7 cents for one lunch per child per day for the A-type lunch with milk; 5 cents for the same lunch without milk; 6 cents for the Type B lunch with milk, 4 cents without milk, and for the Type C (milk only) 2 cents.

Type A lunch is a complete lunch, hot or cold, providing one-third to one-half of one day's nutritive requirements; Type B is an "incomplete" lunch, either hot or cold, which has slightly less nutrition value and Type C is one-half pint of milk as a beverage which meets the minimum butter fat and sanitation requirements of State and local laws.

The amount the schools will receive from national school lunch act funds are the same as the program provided at the start of last year's term. However, the figures were raised in January. This is not expected to happen this year for a number of reasons.

Among these reasons, other than decreased Federal appropriations which amount to $1,301,168 for Virginia to carry out the program in 1947-48, is an expected increase in the number of lunches.

Miss Helen G. Ward, in charge of the school lunch program, said the average cost per school lunch last year was about 23 cents and stated that it may go to 25 cents this year.

Schools are accepted for participation on the basis of the assistance needed in order to serve a designated type of lunch. To qualify for assistance the school must agree to maintain desirable nutritional and operational standards and lunches must be made available to all children. Those who are able to pay the cost of the lunch may be charged the full price but all children unable to pay must be served the same lunch without discrimination or segregation.

Slayer of Husband Freed Amid Cheers

Baltimore, Aug. 21 (AP).—Crying as she testified she was "scared to death" and acted in self-denfese, 27-year-old Mrs. Irene Ebaugh was acquitted today on a charge of causing the death of her 52-year-old husband, Paul, who was shot last July at their home.

Magistrate August A. Kozlovsky's announcement of dismissal of the charge brought a cheer from the courtroom crowded with her neighbors.

Several of the neighbors testified Mrs. Ebaugh ran from her home the night of the shooting with her one-year-old son in one arm and a revolver in the other. They also reported Ebaugh "often" mistreated his wife.

"I didn't mean to shoot him. I wanted to scare him just enough so I could get away," Mrs. Ebaugh testified.

She said her husband, chief clerk to the trainmaster at the Camden Station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, abused her when he came home intoxicated. She testified she took refuge behind a locker bedroom door on which he pounded, threatening to kill her and "then attend to the baby."

As he opened the door, she continued, she went to a night table and took out his revolver. When he came closer she shot once, she said.

Magistrate Kozlovsky's dismissal of the charge was recommended by Assistant State's Attorney John C. Weiss.

Airport Is Rebuilt

Luray, Va., Aug. 21.—The Luray airport, practically demolished by the storm of August 1, has been rebuilt, and Charles Wagner, co-owner with Albert Black, states, "Everything is going just as well as before—if not better."

W. Va. Gets WAA Tract

The War Assets Administration announced yesterday transfer of part of the West Virginia ordnance works, Point Pleasant, W. Va., to the West Virginia State Board of Education for use as an agricultural experiment farm.

School Loan Sought

Woodstock, Va., Aug. 21.—Permission to apply for a loan not to exceed $100,000 from the literary fund for constructing an addition to Strasburg High School has been granted the Shenandoah County School Board by the Shenandoah County Board of Supervisors. The additions would include four new classrooms, gymnasium and auditorium combined, cafeteria and additional toilet facilities. The request of the School Board was made by Superintendent of Schools Birchell Hilton.

Fire Damages Church

New Market, Va., Aug. 21.—Extensive damage was done to the electric wiring in the Manor Memorial Methodist Church when a fire broke out in the wall separating the Sunday School rooms from the church proper. The cause of the fire has not been learned, nor the money amount of the damage. The fire was discovered by the pastor, the Rev. Wrightson S. Tongue.

BEAUTIFUL LOTS
100x170 Feet
$750

If you are looking for a lovely homesite—a place well situated with beautiful trees, and room for flowers, and a place where the kiddies can romp and play and still have such indispensable city conveniences as city water, electricity, telephone, mail service, train and bus connections, then come out to Lanham Park, one of Prince Georges County's fastest growing communities—where you can still get nearly half an acre of land for $750, with convenient terms if you prefer so that you can pay for your lot in small monthly payments.

Come out and look around. There is no obligation to buy—but we promise you will be impressed with the values offered and the activity here in Lanham Park.

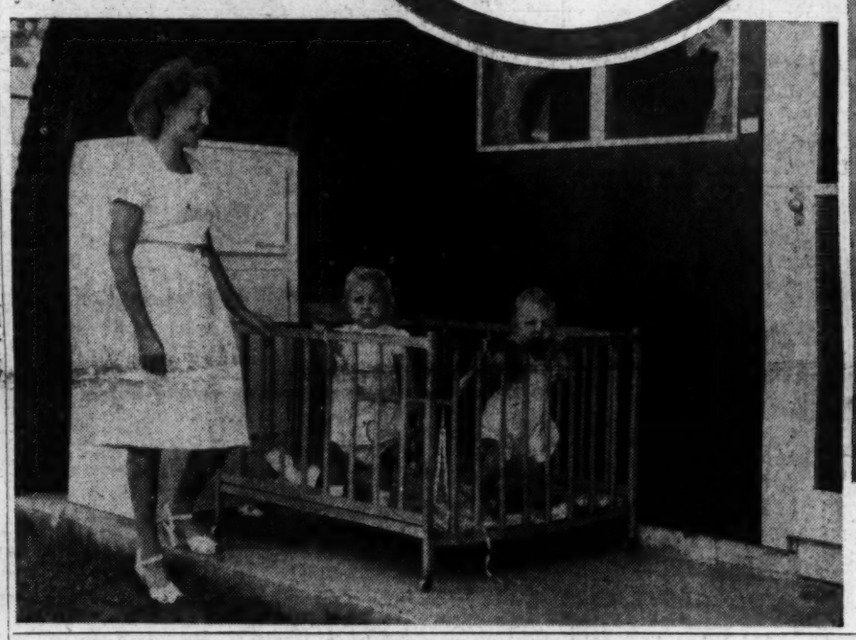
In My Little Homoja Village

Official U. S. Navy Photographs

Mrs. Andrew P. Burgess tends to her knitting as Lieutenant Commander Burgess, a student at the Post Graduate School, settles down to his homework.



The sandbox in the Homoja Village playground is a favorite spot for (left to right) Anne Greenlea, Janet Greenlea and Mary Dee Libby (waiting their turn outside the box) and Sharon Henry, Carolyn Barnes, Ann Libby, Dotty Rudgins, Carol Thomson and Dale Howell, who add finishing touches to their mud cake

Mrs. Wilbur Fowden prepares to bake a cake in the compact kitchen of her Homoja hut; then steps onto the porch (left) to watch 9-month-old Barbara Jean Fowden and her guest, Suzanne Mitchell, daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Forrest Mitchell, in the playpen

Navy Wives' 'Know How' Makes Homes of Huts

By Bessie Hackett

YOUR APARTMENT so small you "just can't do a thing with it?" Don't talk that way! Even a one-room shack can be a cozy home if you have the "know-how" to make it so.

What you need is a tour through Homoja Village—that group of "Quonset" huts—150 to be exact—down in Annapolis.

Here is a sample of homemaking know-how at its most efficient and ingenious—aided and abetted by crisp dimity curtains, gay scatter rugs, bowls of bright flowers, knickknacks from here and there, and the personality that transforms a house or quarters into a home.

The villagers are quick to point out that they live in Homoja huts—not Quonset, as the public generally refers to these igloo-like structures which made their appearance during the war. Homojas—named for Admirals F. J. Horne, Ben Moreell, and Randall Jacobs—are a smaller and modified version of the Quonset and designed especially for housing.

Reserved at Annapolis for married officers only—staff members of the Naval Academy and students at the postgraduate school—some are occupied by couples without children, others by couples who have as many as three youngsters. That's when the situation begins to get crowded.

The first group (90) of these huts was put up in the vicinity of the academy in 1944 as emergency housing. Last year, 60 more were built to help solve the increasingly acute Annapolis housing shortage. A current project will provide huts for early October on the opposite bank of the Severn River for 160 enlisted families.

Each for Two Families

EACH building measures 48 feet in length by 20 feet in width and is divided through the middle crosswise to house two families. Each couple's space of 24 by 20 feet consists of a living room (12 x 15½ feet), two bedrooms (8 x 11½ feet each), two closets (the proverbial 2x4s), kitchen (5½x8 feet), and bathroom (5 feet 8 inches x 7½ feet). The huts have hot and cold running water and are steam heated.

Identical maple furniture includes a davenport, tables and chairs, also one double Hollywood bed, two single beds, chiffoniers, backless linen cupboard and book shelves, gas stove, issue sheets, blankets, towels, dishes, silverware and kitchen utensils.

Storage space in the compound is limited, hence the only piece of equipment which may be returned or moved out of the house is the old-fashioned icebox. Weary of waiting for the iceman—especially during these summer months—many Homojans have installed their own refrigerators and relegated the icebox to the 4-foot porch, where it makes a handy catchall.

With everything "standard," the Homojans vie with each other to make their huts as attractive and "different" as possible—and some of the results could easily win prizes in American Home contests. White painted picket fences enclose many a kerchief-sized lawn, vines have been cajoled up the front walls, and carefully-tended flowers nod gaily beside corrugated metal walls.

As they plunge into their interior decorating, most Navy wives of Homoja Village move one of the twin beds into the living room and convert it into a couch. The small windows need only short curtains but the curved walls offer a stubborn problem.

"I tried every way I could think of to hang a picture on them," relates pretty Mrs. Wilbur Fowden. "It just can't be done, nor can you stand lamps against them. And there are only certain spots that will hold nails or tacks."

Mrs. Fowden doesn't mind the limited space.

"After some of the places we've lived in," she confides, "this is like a palace. In Seattle my husband and I once lived in a basement rumpus room no bigger than this living room." Lieutenant and Mrs. Fowden, who have a 9-month-old daughter, Barbara Jean, had to move six times in the year they spent in Annapolis before they

J. G. Bridges Entertain on Anniversary

J. G. Bridges, Attache of the Australian Embassy, and Mrs. Bridges, entertained at the first of a series of cocktail parties yesterday in their new home at Sedgewick Gardens. Arranged to introduce two new members of the embassy staff, the fete also celebrated the silver wedding anniversary of the hosts, and the 40 or more guests found a large wedding cake adorning the buffet table.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridges were married 25 years ago yesterday in London. Mrs. Bridges is the former Miss Herta Lindholm of Sweden.

Honor guests yesterday were William Forsythe, new Counselor of the Australian Embassy, and Mrs. Forsythe, and J. Keith Waller, new First Secretary, with Mrs. Waller.

The Australian Ambassador and Mrs. Norman Makin were there and the Australian Minister, Alfred Stirling. Also from the embassy staff were the Naval Attache and Mrs. S. H. K. Spurgeon, the Attache and Mrs. G. M. Gray, Air Attache Group Capt. M. O. Watson and Mrs. Watson, and Mrs. J. U. Garside, wife of the Commercial Counselor.

Maj. Gen. John Chapman, Chief of the Australian Military Mission, and Mrs. Chapman, recently back from a trip to Ottawa, were also in the gathering and others were Mrs. Betty Squire, Robert Cecil, First Secretary of the British Embassy and Philip F. Jordan, another First Secretary, just returned from England.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridges will give another party on September 12.

Mrs. Kingman, Col. Reimel, Married; Will Go to Europe in September

Mrs. Matthew Henry Kingman and Col. Stewart Elvin Reimel, USA, were married on Tuesday at the home of the bride in Arlington, Va. Mrs. Reimel is the widow of Brigadier General Kingman, USMC.

Colonel Reimel was for many years with the Ordnance Department of the Army and last served as chief of the New York Ordnance District with the rank of brigadier general. Since his retirement he has been associated with the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in New York.

Colonel and Mrs. Reimel will leave for Europe early in September and upon their return will reside in New York.

Willard Thorp, Clarice Brows Are Married

The marriage of Miss Clarice F. Brows, daughter of Mrs. William Brows of Great Neck, Long Island, and Assistant Secretary of State Willard Thorp, took place yesterday at the home of the bride's mother in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles N. Thorp of Summit, N. J.

Justice Edward Lumbard, jr., of the New York State Supreme Court, officiated at the ceremony and the bridegroom's father gave the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, wore a gown of silver gray lace and a matching hat draped with a lace bordered tulle veil. She carried a muff of tulle covered with white orchids.

Edwin B. George of Bronxville, N. Y., served as Mr. Thorp's best man and the bride dispensed with attendants.

Studied Law

A graduate of the School of Law of New York University and of Washington Square College, the bride also attended the Institute of Musical Art.

The former Miss Brows is a member of the New York bar and has been practising law, specializing in labor matters. She is a former member of the staff of the American Civil Liberties Union and has served that organization in many capacities. At present she is a member of its Committee on International Civil Rights.

Mrs. Thorp is a member of the Women's City Club, has served on several of its committees and has been particularly active on its labor and industry committee. She recently resigned as counsel and labor relations consultant to a firm of industrial engineers.

On U. N. Staff

Mr. Thorp is the United States delegate to the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations and was recently ap-

Mme. Bidault Discovers
Iron Curtain Opens to Show Rank Snobbery

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

IF YOU NOTICE a slight cooling in France's palsy-walsy attitude toward the Soviets, it's probably due to Mme. Bidault, wife of the French Foreign Minister. She is one of the few French women actually trained as a diplomat. Shortly after she finished her training in the early thirties, diplomacy as a career was closed to the feminine sex.

Mme. Bidault, who married in 1945, worked in the Foreign Office, was never sent abroad. But she spoke Russian and longed to visit Russia. Her opportunity came this year when she accompanied her husband to the Moscow Conference.

Like anyone who believed in the much-publicized democracy behind the Iron Curtain, she was speedily, ruthlessly disillusioned. And, being a woman, didn't hesitate to say so.

First shock was when she discovered Russian ration quantity depended on rank. M. Bidault rated high, his wife less lavishly, while secretaries just scraped along on adequate calorage, and chauffeurs were definitely underfed.

The Payoff

THE PAYOFF came, however, in a conversation with Commissar Molotov's wife. Mme. Bidault took long walks about Moscow, went to the markets, saw what food conditions really were. Of course she was tailed by NKVD agents.

Said Mme. Molotov: "I understand you've been seen walking through the markets."

Replied Mme. Bidault: "Yes, indeed, I enjoy walking and at home often poke about the markets."

Said Mme. M.: "You understand that here it's unthinkable for a woman of our position to be seen in such places. I earnestly advise you to stay off the streets and do all sightseeing from your limousine window!"

'Name Unknown'

POSSIBLY THE postwar's most heartbreaking problem is the fate of some 4000 babies abandoned in Europe's concentration camps. Today they range from 3 to 6 years in age and neither their nationality, names nor birth date is known. These poor kids are merely citizens of this unfriendly world.

Some are maimed, blind, many suffer from malnutritional diseases, rickets, TB. In a German hospital we saw a few of them, silent, skinny, unsubstantial as shadows. On the foot of each crib was a metal label "Name Unknown."

To a secure, pampered American that ordinary label with its terse inscription is constantly remembered, while the horrors seen at Dachau have dimmed through sheer unbelievability. Since this visit two summers ago, the children (all of whom were found in the non-Jewish camp sections) have been gathered into groups, classed as "stateless" and wards of the United States and British governors of the German Occupied Zones.

Sanctuary at Nevis

SOME TIME AGO Mrs. Vere Stuart-Alexander, an incredible bundle of practical enthusiasm, hearing of these children, started to "do" something about them. A Britisher whose husband was killed in the "Blitz" and mother of three 'teen-age children, she alighted in Washington during early war days after having lived in such picturesque places as the Island of Cyprus, Greece and Dominica, one of the more rugged Caribbean isles. She interested Mrs. de Witt Clinton Ramsey, wife of Admiral Ramsey, vice chief of naval operations, and now the admiral's lady is devoting all her energies to the project.

Fifty of the children, carefully but necessarily cruelly screened for health, will be taken to Nevis, a 57-mile-square Caribbean island doubly famous as where Alexander Hamilton was born and sea-dog Lord Nelson was married.

A plantation, with a huge brick mansion built in 1785, has been bought from the Huggins, one of the leading Caribbean families. Just about everything from sea island cotton to grapefruit grow on the estate and eventually will be used for the children's profit. There will be 15 resident teachers, nurses, many of whom are volunteers. One girl resigned a good job with the Central Intelligence group, another is a recent Vassar graduate.

Needed: $500,000

AN ANNUAL budget of $27,500 is estimated, but the children cannot be brought from Europe until a sum equal to 15 years' upkeep has been raised. This would total about $400,000, but Mrs. Ramsey, anticipating extras, plans to acquire $500,000. Eventually she hopes other "sanctuaries" will be established until all the more promising stateless children are removed from Europe's destruction.

Six Christian denominations are cooperating and the children will be under the spiritual guidance of the Bishop of Antigua. Meanwhile the kids are passportless, without papers of any kind and efforts will be made to relax our immigration laws sufficiently to permit them to make summer visits to this country. They're due to arrive in Nevis sometime late in December.

Emilita Drago Celebrates Her Fifth Birthday

About 30 small friends of Emilita Drago, daughter of the Counselor of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Drago, celebrated her fifth birthday yesterday afternoon at a party given by Senora de Drago.

The children, all members of the diplomatic set, saw movies of Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse, and had the traditional ice cream and cake.

Little Emilita will enter the Convent of the Sacred Heart on the Rockville Pike in the fall.

If You Want Proposal—

'Act Sweet, My Sweet, and Let The Other Girls Be Glamorous'

By Genevieve Reynolds

If you have a yen for more old-fashioned proposals in this year of eligible male shortages, cultivate a wholesome appearance. This is the advice of curvaceous Sara Ann McCabe, star in the current National Theater hit, "The Red Mill."

"Men may be attracted to the startling glamorous types," she says, "but they usually end up marrying the sweet, wholesome ones."

She believe that cleanliness and good taste in clothes are the first requisites for getting and catching beaus.

"Exaggerated independent airs often frighten the marriage-minded male away," observes the 5 feet 4 Chicago-born miss. "Flattery will go a long way in ensnaring a serious-minded man to the altar.

Sing His Praises

Miss McCabe

"No matter how sophisticated and blase the swain may be," she continued, "he likes to be told how wonderful he is."

And another tip from the sage Miss McCabe — "men like women who like to do the same things, not as a man but as a woman would perform them."

Conceding that lots of girls don't have many chances to meet men, she suggested that they angle invitations to married couples' homes. "Usually the man or wife has a brother, cousin or old bachelor around," she smiled with a twinkle in her large, soft brown eyes.

A native of the Windy City, she started her singing career in her home town at the age of 12 as soprano and soloist in St. Patrick's Church. At 14 she made a professional appearance via radio over Station WGN. On her eighteenth birthday, she gave a concert at the Studebaker Theater and soon was singing with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Going to New York, Sara landed a job with Dave Appolon, touring the West with his unit for six months. Then came graduation to personal appearances at Radio City Music Hall, the Shoreham Hotel and the Capitol Theater here. Later she sang in some of the well-known New York night spots such as the Plaza Hotel's Persian Room and the Versailles.

Played Show Time

Some of her biggest starring roles include "Show Time" with George Jessel and later Ziegfeld.

Luckily, friendly, gracious Miss McCabe has never had to pound the pavements hungrily looking for jobs. "The jobs always have come to me," she says, "but I am keeping my fingers crossed."

On the stage, she is a glamorous looking femme fatale. Away, she's a natural looking postdeb with a flawless fair complexion. An excellent cook, she likes to whip dinners for her friends in her New York apartment, which has a terrace garden.

"Growing flowers is my favorite form of recreation and my only exercise," she insists.

Woman Editor Symbolizes New India

A woman's voice is speaking out to her countrymen in India of ancient aspirations, new hopes and the challenging opportunities of the new nation.

The voice is that of Frene Talyarkhan, editor of Trend, a magazine she founded and describes as a cross between Survey Graphic and Life. She herself is a sort of symbol of the new India, writes Beulah Amidon in an interview with Miss Talyarkhan appearing in Survey Graphic.

"Dark-haired and dark-eyed with the clear skin and slender grace of her Parsi ancestry," says Miss Amidon, "she seems neither foreign or eastern, exotic or different, but what she is, a modern woman completely at home in her world."

Miss Talyarkhan founded Trend in 1945, after she had studied for three years in England, had operated a successful gift shop in Bombay for which she bought stock in Europe, London and New York and had served for ten months in Hollywood as technical adviser on a film about India.

Editorial Variety

Trend itself, which mirrors its editor's forthrightness, visions and something of her charm, says her interviewer, has carried in recent issues articles and pictures on:

The first Indian Congress meeting and the history of the 62 years of its sessions.

"A fashion article on shoes showing models to be worn with "dresses, slacks, shorts or with a sari . . ."

Annapolis Wives Convert Huts Into Homes were lucky enough to be given a unit in the Village.

Chintz Adds Color

YOUNG, dark-haired Jeanne Fowden, who studied home economics and interior decorating at the University of California, has curtained her living room windows with white starched marquisette and covered the day bed and cushions with candy-striped glazed chintz. A strip of the chintz also forms a backing for the bookcase and one of the regulation chairs doubles as a stand for the radio. She keeps the wooden floor bare, but highly polished.

A white chintz spread, splashed with yellow roses, covers the double bed in the "master bedroom" where the two chiffoniers stand end to end against one wall. One chair, a small rug and wastebasket complete the furnishings. Yellow dotted swiss flutters at the window of the baby's room, where Barbara Jean has her own blue and pink painted furniture and pictures. Red and white checked oilcloth edges the shelves and cupboards in the kitchen and a plastic curtain marks off the shower cubicle in the adjoining bathroom.

One of the most attractively furnished huts in Homoja Village is occupied by a recently arrived couple, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Burgess. Marian Burgess' natural bent for interior decorating has found expression in a yellow, white and green color scheme.

Meeting the green-upholstered davenport at right angles in the living room, the day bed has a slipcover with leaf green top and deep flounce of green and yellow floral print against a white background. The solid color cushions repeat the flower shades, the arm chair combines the solid green and floral materials, and short drapes of the print hang at each side of the brief white organdy curtains. A sage green rug practically covers the floor. In the bedrooms, boxes and packing cases are ingeniously disguised as hassocks. Kitchen and bathroom floors have been covered with linoleum and an apartment-sized washing machine helps solve the laundry problem.

Some time ago, parents of Homoja Village asked for and received a children's playground, where the youngsters keep out of mischief in a jungle of sandboxes, seesaws, slides and swings.

All streets of Homoja Village are named for trees—Dogwood, Cypress, Pine, Elm, etc., and the main plaza in Sylvan Circle. The huts have no telephones but several pay stations are available in the grounds. All other utilities and maintenance costs are provided by the Navy.

Your Questions On Homemaking

Do you know of any establishment where rugs are rewoven or where several small rugs can be woven into one? J. S. D.

There are a number of companies that do rug repairing and reweaving in Washington. Look under "Rugs" in the yellow section of your telephone directory. Most of these companies work only on Orientals, Axminsters, Wiltons, and the like. They do not reweave rag rugs.

Incidentally, there are two excellent booklets available to those who wish to remake or repair rugs at home. They are: "Carpet and Rug Repair," (Farmer's Bulletin No. 1960), obtainable from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and "New Ideas for Handmade Rugs," (Booklet No. 94), which may be purchased by sending 25 cents in coin to The Washington Post Reader Service, 243 West 17th st., New York, 11, N. Y.

Black liquid shoe polish was spilled on my fiber rug. Cleaning fluid and soap and water were used to no avail. What do you suggest for removing the stain? J. R.

If the rug is a light "natural" shade, you may be able to bleach out the spot with laundry bleach or one of the hydrosulphite bleaches available at drug stores as color removers. Wash away all the polish you can first with a brush, soap, and water. (Don't scrub too hard or you may damage the fibers.) Rinse with clear water. In applying the bleach, you'll have to exercise care and experiment a bit. Don't try it if the rug is a color. If you can't remove the spot, you can retrieve the rug by painting it with canvas paint.

A friend of mine used some preparation on her coffee table that protected it and gave it a mirror-like quality. Do you know what it could be? M. O. D.

Your friend may have varnished or shellacked the top of her coffee table. Or perhaps she simply gave it a coating of paste wax and polished it well.

Old-Fashioned Ways With Freezer

Ice Cream Is Everybody's Dish

By Harriet Jean Anderson

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

THE flavor of Green Gage plum ice cream blends delectably with that of fresh cantaloupe in this cool, midsummer dessert. And the colors of the two are mutually flattering

Do you remember when ice cream making on the back porch was entirely a family affair? Come a glowing, cricket-singing August morning at our house and mother would decide that ice cream would be just right for dessert after Sunday church.

While she quickly made the custard and set it to cool, father would bring a canvas bag of crushed ice from the ice house. My brother and I hunted for the rock salt. "Puffin' and sweatin'," to use an expressive Vermont phrase, we cranked and cranked the old freezer. Our excitement increased as the crank grew as balky as my brother's prize calf in the county fair parade.

Nectar and ambrosia fit for the gods couldn't have tasted better to us than that rich, sunny yellow ice cream clinging to the dasher.

Now once more you can make these delicious, old-fashioned ice creams in your own kitchen with a minimum of effort for back on the market are electric freezers.

Electric ice cream freezing is easy. Insert the dasher in the container, pour in the mixture up to the three-quarter mark. Adjust the cover and turn on the motor.

Now, and not before, fill the freezer half full with finely-crushed ice. Get the iceman to grind the ice or use your own ice cubes in the new home ice crushers. Then place salt and ice in layers to the top of the freezer. Use eight parts ice to one part salt for best results. Be sure to use rock or ice cream salt.

Freeze to a mush-like consistency, remove dasher, stir down the mixture. Cover the container and drain the excess salt water. Repack to ripen and grow firm—three to four hours for ice cream; 1½ to two hours for ices and sherbets.

BASIC VANILLA ICE CREAM

2 teaspoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
1 egg, beaten
1 cup heavy cream
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add milk slowly. Cook over hot water 5 minutes or until smooth and slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Stir into egg yolk and cook 2 minutes longer, stirring constantly; cool. Add cream and vanilla. Yield: 1 quart.

PEPPERMINT ICE CREAM

Omit vanilla. Add ¼ teaspoon essence of peppermint. Tint pale pink with vegetable coloring. Serve with hot chocolate sauce.

CHOCOLATE MINT ICE CREAM

Make peppermint ice cream (above). After dasher is removed, stir in 4 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, flaked or shaved thin.

COFFEE ICE CREAM

Substitute ½ cup strong coffee beverage for ½ cup of milk. Omit vanilla. Serve with hot caramel sauce and salted pecans.

FRESH PEACH ICE CREAM

Substitute 1 cup finely chopped peaches, to which 2 tablespoons sugar have been added, for 1 cup milk. Add fruit with egg mixture. Use half the amount of vanilla.

PINEAPPLE BAKED ALASKA

Pinch of salt.
½ cup powdered sugar.
¼ teaspoon almond extract.
1 thin layer raspberry jam.
4 slices pineapple.
¼ cup Kirsch or brandy.
1 quart brick ice cream, frozen hard.

Beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Gradually add sugar and continue to beat until well blended. Add almond extract. Cut cake to the exact size of the bottom of the ice cream brick. Place on cookie sheet. Cover with jam. Arrange 4 drained slices of pineapple, which have stood in the Kirsch 30 minutes, on cake and place ice cream on top of pineapple, fitting cake sides. Spread meringue over entire surface of ice cream and cake. Immediately bake in hot oven (400 degree F.) about 5 minutes or until delicately brown. Yield: 4 portions.

GREEN GAGE PLUM ICE CREAM

2½ cups stewed or canned green gage plums
2 cups sugar
1/3 cup lemon juice
1 quart heavy cream
1½ quarts milk

Put plums through fine sieve. Add other ingredients. Heat until sugar is dissolved and freeze. Repack and let ripen 2 hours. Approximate yield: 3 to 3½ quarts.

Brighter Ebony

When the ebony brushes and mirrors become dull in appearance, try rubbing a little while vaseline into them with a soft piece of material. Rub until the wood has absorbed all the grease and taken on a rich gleam.

Obstinate Windows

When windows stick for some reason or another, dip a cloth in hot paraffin and rub along the stripping. It will make a nice smooth track for the window sash.

Miss McKinnon Becomes Bride Of C. G. Houff

Fort Myer Chapel was the scene of the wedding yesterday evening of Miss Maurine Marjorie McKinnon to Clifford G. Houff. Chaplain Gregory L. Lock officiated and a reception followed at Army and Navy Country Club.

The bride is the daughter of Lieut. Col. John L. McKinnon, USA, of Arlington, Va. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Louis B. Houff of Washington.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory satin gown fashioned with a long train. Her veil was of Belgian lace and she carried white roses. Miss Betty Rosser, maid of honor, was gowned in pink satin, and bridesmaids, Miss Janet Houff, Mrs. Lois Dixon and Mrs. Cynthia Shannon, wore aqua. All the bride's attendents carried American beauty roses.

Louis B. Houff, jr., was his brother's best man and ushers were Joseph L. Jamison, Edwin W. Kent and James K. MacCracken.

Market Memo

By Lucia Brown

"U. S. Utility" and "U. S. Commercial" ... they're the popular beef grades today! Consumers are asking for them ... and stores featuring them. "Good" and "Choice" ... and their higher prices ... are getting left by the wayside. The lower grades take longer, moister cooking ... but their nutritive value is the same ... and their flavor fine.

Incidentally ... grass-fed cattle from the Western plains started coming to market this month. Most of their meat grades Commercial or Utility ... so a larger supply of these two is on the way.

Beef ribs for barbecue are a special this week with one local chain ... which provides the recipe as well as the ribs. Enough ribs to serve 5 persons ... 3 pounds ... can be bought for less than a dollar.

Tuna fish canned from this year's catch has started arriving here ... also canned pineapple and pineapple juice made from this year's crop in Hawaii. Fine Shenandoah Valley peaches arriving. Lemons are scarcer ... and the price higher. Tomatoes now about at their best ... and cheapest ... and the same goes for corn.

'New Styles Plain Dowdy,' Says Adrian in a Huff

Fashion designing, to most people, seems a gentle art, but it is a field of dogmatic ideas, and violent disagreements, as shown in the following article by Adrian, noted Hollywood designer.

By Adrian

Hollywood, Aug. 21 (INS).—I have never seen anything as preposterous as what is trying to be forced on the American women by certain fashion forces at the moment.

Fortunately we still live in a free country. We do not have to be dictated to politically or from a fashion standpoint. As I prefer women to look slim and elegant rather than dowdy and dumpy—I cannot prescribe to the sloping shoulder or the padded hip.

If there are women today who want to look that way—there are many designers who can satisfy them and give them that look. They are welcome to it—I leave it all to them.

Why any woman wants to return to ugliness for the sake of change is more than I am able to comprehend. The lamp shade hats and tied-in-the-middle figure are not only ugly but offensive.

Are We Mice or Women?

What kind of minds do we have that can make us turn aside from every forward stride we have made in fashion to return to the dowdiest period in history?

The small group of women who want to return to a past era and practically duplicate what has been before should certainly be allowed to do it—they should also be encouraged to drive a Stanley Steamer and insist their husbands wear three-inch starched linen collars.

It's all equally picturesque and just as uncomfortable. But most of all—it's not becoming to our modern living.

The charm of fashion is that it gives women a chance to vary their looks if they want to.

This is fine—but when a few fashion-minded people get behind a movement to insinuate that if you don't wear a sloping shoulder or a padded hip or look like a picture out of a fashion magazine of 1915 vintage—you are just not in the "know," I think it's time we ignored the dictates of those minds.

There is no excuse today for women to be herded into any fashion cattle car.

Fashioned for Fall

A fall outdoor scent blended especially for wear with new corduroy sports clothes is on the market. Its creator is of the school of thought that casual clothes, corduroys most of all, demand a casual fragrance for companion. The perfume and the sports ensemble pictured above are available in a Connecticut ave. fashion shop

Is Your Husband Grouchy? Maybe He Has Color Madness

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 21 (AP).—Take a gray-eyed blonde in a peachy-colored dress sitting on a mahogany chair on a rose-beige carpet in an office with pinky-gray walls, and you've got it.

That's a soothing color scheme for the executive, says Carl Smedley, color expert for a paint company.

"Now take the case of the cantankerous business executive who came to our office," Smedley offered. "When the walls of his office were changed from an off-yellow color to a two-tone green, his disposition became as gentle as a lamb's.

"The influence of color upon human lives is terrific."

Ladies, does your husband have that early morning grouch? Maybe it's the color of your kitchen.

One lady Smedley told about had a putty-colored kitchen. Along came the painters, left the walls canary yellow, the lower cupboards, stove and refrigerator white, the breakfast nook set and the ceiling delphinium blue.

"That lady wrote us—unsolicited," Smedley emphasized, that her husband's early morning grouch had disappeared."

Shortage of teachers in your schools? Children have that apathetic attitude about the learning business?

Uh-huh.

Even Blackboard Painted

The school Smedley and his cohorts painted had wedgewood blue on the walls, sunny yellow on the window side and in the cloakroom. The blackboards weren't black at all. They were cream colored and were written upon with royal blue chalk.

It's all there, in Lakewood, Ohio.

"Teacher told us he noticed a definite pickup of interest among the boys and in himself, too," Smedley said.

"And one teacher at a school where the corridors had red tile floors, moss green paneling and frost green walls said it was an inspiration to teach.

"Maybe if we'd dress up the schools we'd get more teachers.

"Only trouble, mothers don't mind white chalk dust but when the children come home royal blue smudged——" Smedley let that ride.

Schools, and hospitals, too, are getting away from that institutional look, he said. Green is becoming a favorite color for hospital rooms, because it's restful and because it brings in that outdoor atmosphere.

Factories too. The machinery of an aeronautics plant in Cleveland was painted a light ocean green. The working areas, parts the workers had to watch closely, were buff and the switch and control levers orange.

"Officials told us there was a 50 per cent decline in accidents after that paint job," Smedley declared.

Women Lead Parade

Smedley came down to Dallas from his Cleveland office to tell the Texas Council of Painting and Decorating Contractors of America meeting here that women were leading the parade in color.

"I'll think twice before I put on a red tie," he elucidated, "but a woman will come out in an entirely red outfit.

"We've got to cater to their whims."

Take the family automobile. Back in 1927, he said, 65 per cent of all cars were painted black or dark blue. Today, black is running third in popularity with pastel shades of blue and green in front. And the women are the ones who select the color of the family car.

Washing machines and refrigerators are making tentative and timid appearances in green, but white is still undisputed favorite.

"Trouble is that a woman is forever changing a color scheme," Smedley admitted, "and washing machines and refrigerators have to last a long time."

Blue was tried on a washing machine but it reminded the women too much of "blue Mondays."

"We've got to get rid of these color associations," Smedley declared.

"The American Bureau of Standards has proved that a white or pastel radiator will give out more heat radiation than a brown one.

"And take the case of a water fountain painted a dirty yellow. When people complained, the fountain was repainted a light ocean green. Everyone remarked how much better the water tasted."

Ringside Table

With Mary Harris

"SUPERB! DAZZLING!" said Jack Liang who's always right obliging about suggesting colossal adjectives to be used in connection with Casino Royal shows. But this time Jack, who was talking about dancers Helene and Rico, took the words right out of our typewriter. Helene and Rico, who were amateurs two years ago, have an amazingly beautiful dance act, will probably appear in Chicago's Latin Quarter in September. . . . They got their start by winning New York's Harvest Moon ball in 1945 though they'd been dancing together as amateurs since 1942. On turning pro they celebrated, first by getting married, then by changing their names from "Tony and Marie" to the more euphonious Helene and Rico. Their act has been built up elaborately and Helene's gowns look, not like a million dollars, but like $600 worth of elegance per each. This ambitious young pair are native Brooklynites of Italian descent. Their real name is Macaluso.

George Stein . . . River Bend maestro

Smoothly lovely Marian Kingsley who's subbing for Dona Mason in the King Cole Room, came to town with a ready-made public. She's the same Marian Kingsley who sang with Gene Pringle's band in the Metronome Room a few months ago.

INSINUATIONS, FIE! President Paul Schwarz of the Washington Musicians Union writes: "Just to let you know how widely your column is read, I have had a number of calls insinuating that I had a free meal at the Dubonnet Room along with you 'big shot' newspaper people. I had to disabuse the minds of my callers . . . Inasmuch as I made your column my Scotch high blood pressure is greatly relieved. I am not really Scotch, only half Scotch and half ginger ale" . . . Now anybody ought to know that Prexy Schwarz pays his way everywhere he goes . . . Dancing is on again in the Dubonnet Room,—every night but Sunday. Seems the regular customers simply demanded their former ration of terpsichore.

IN THE MAIL. Leonard Mitchell, director of Olmsted's, postcards from Virginia Beach, "There are so many Washington people here that the Cavalier looks like a branch of the Chevy Chase Country Club" . . . Dropped into Ciro's and found its soft-hearted owner, "Mayor" Ciro Gallotti, moved to tears by a letter he'd received from a nephew in Italy he hadn't seen for 45 years . . . Comes a big square card from the Lounge Riviera's Bob Knight and his missus announcing a Sunday cocktail party at Dorchester House to celebrate Bob's first anniversary as "The Man Behind the Band" with WOL

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Quick Thinking Lad Saves Life of Drowning Child

Three-year-old Benita Nolan came mighty close to death Wednesday evening—but she's as good as new today, thanks to an alert neighbor.

The Nolans (Thomas A.) live at 6646 Barnaby st. nw. Some pipe is being laid in that block, and there's an open ditch there at present.

The ditch is about 200 feet long, 3 feet wide and 5 feet deep. After Wednesday afternoon's electrical storm it filled with water. (Perhaps you'll recall a previous item here about the drainage problem faced by residents of the area.)

Benita was permitted out to play after the rain stopped, and being 3 years old, she and Brother Jimmy had to investigate that ditch.

When Benita fell in Jimmy knew that he had to do something—but he didn't know what, because he's only 4. So he yelled, as loud as he could.

Sixteen-year-old Bob O'Donnell was sitting on the front porch of the O'Donnell residence at 3244 Aberfoyle pl. nw. Hearing Jimmy's clarion call, he raced to the rescue and arrived as Benita was going down for the third time.

Bob leaped into the ditch, found the child under the muddy waters and pulled her to safety.

I got the story from Tom Nolan, because Bob is the kind of lad who wouldn't tell it himself. So if you Georgetown Prep classmates of Bob's run into him today, it wouldn't hurt to slip him a quick "nice going, fella."

PUZZLER

When you drive west on Washington dr., you're not permitted to make a right turn at 14th st., where Washington dr. ends.

But you are permitted to make a left turn, against a constant stream of 14th st. traffic.

Wonder why?

THE DISTRICT LIONS ROAR

The District Line hears that some District Lions had a gay old time on a recent convention junket to the West Coast.

The local Lions chartered a train, and stopped off when and where they pleased, to celebrate with Lions Clubbers throughout the Nation.

At one stop, a group of natives showed up with an accordion and a couple of cases of beer. The accordion's melodies awakened a sleeping Lion, who appeared on the back platform in his robe, and began to sing.

In a nearby hotel, a show gal heard the music, donned her robe, and joined the party.

And until the wee small hours, our District Lion and the trouper sang duets to the moon, as the other Lions roared their approval.

EXCELSIOR!

Glegge Thomas of 1428 G st. nw., says that for some time he's been intrigued by a sign at the corner of 23d and M sts nw. It says:

LOUIS BURMAN
RE. 1768.

The sign raises many questions in Glegge's mind. For example: When will Louis start to improve—or has he already? In what respect will he improve? Why does he have to improve—isn't he satisfied the way he is?

QUESTION

Virginia Moore of 133 Anacostia rd. se. poses this question:

"I promised a friend that I'd buy her a green snakeskin purse to match her green snakeskin shoes.

"I took one shoe along as a sample—and of course lost it while shopping.

"I've already advertised in The Washington Post, asking for the return of the missing shoe. No luck.

"Do you think I should now advertise the other one for sale to the person who found the first one?"

WEATHERMEN

A guy like me will never know
What causes rain to come and go;
What makes the heat waves bake us through,
What brings the snow, the fog, the dew.

* * * *

But men who make their living by
Predicting weather, wet and dry,
Though always firm in their convictions.
Quite often miss in their predictions.

Murderer Who Got Walked Down

New York.—The current shake-up in the Police Department will not affect Johnny Cordes, the detective, who now is in charge of the Pier Squad. Cordes is a veteran of the Broadway Squad. He loves to walk, and he knows every corner of every building in the midtown sector. One day Cordes went to a flat where a woman's body was found hanging from a rope around a chandelier. The police marked it "Suicide." Cordes noticed a bruise on the woman's face. He asked the landlady: "What's the name of her feller?" The landlady mentioned a man named Joe, who owned a midtown vegetable store. "I'm going for a walk," said Johnny.

The next morning he started his walk. He stopped at every vegetable store and asked for "Joe." In one store he was told "Joe isn't here." Cordes mentioned a traffic accident, and that Joe might have been the victim. "Got a picture of him?" Cordes asked. Joe's wife gave him a picture. It tallied with the description given by the dead woman's landlady. He also learned that Joe was on a picnic at a park in Long Island. He went there with two State Troopers and found Joe. "You're wanted for assault," Cordes told Joe. "You're lucky the rope broke and that she's alive. Otherwise you'd be held for murder." . . . Joe, relieved, blurted his confession to having beaten his inamorata and hanging her. Then Joe signed the confession—which was his death warrant . . . "All in a day's work," said Cordes later. "All because I love to walk."

During some negotiations between the Screen Writers' Guild and the Warner Brothers, the company pleaded inability to meet the demands for an increase. Jack Warner was designated to negotiate in behalf of of the company. He cited the comparative grosses, the increasing costs, the threat of Britain's confiscatory taxes, etc. Then he mentioned the cost of music and the increased salaries of musicians. "And, as for our music copyrights," said Jack Warner, whose pet project this is, "do you realize what our copyrights are worth?" And while Harry Warner winced, Jack lost himself and beamingly reported how the value of the Warner Bros. music copyrights he so wisely had obtained, had increased in value by millions of dollars.

A soap company will close negotiations with Scott Meredith agent for P. G. Wodehouse, for the radio serialization of Wodehouse's "Mr. Jeeves." A film deal will follow . . . Burt Lancaster is being booked for personal appearances in every theater chain, except Paramount, the company to which he is under contract . . .

Gene Tierney visited the Dennis Playhouse this week and told Richard Aldrich that success might have come to her two years sooner if Western Union hadn't fouled up its delivery service. Miss Tierney had read for a role in "My Dear Children," at Dennis. Then she received a telegram telling her that she had the job. But the telegram was delivered two days late — by which time another girl had been hired. . . .

The story is being told of a child driving with her mother and asking: "Mommy, where are all the dirty no-good so-and-sos today?" The mother gently answered: "Oh, they're out only when your Daddy is driving." . . . Garson Kanin, now a successful playwright, director, producer and the possessor of one of the foremost talents in show business, met a man who had fired him from a film job. "Sure I let you go," he told Kanin. "But why didn't you tell me you were a genius?"

Archery

In Sherwood Forest lived a man . . . Who glorified the bow . . . According to the story book . . . That all the children know . . . But whether he existed or . . . His deeds were merely dreams . . . The benefit of archery . . . Is everything it seems . . . It is a healthy exercise . . . That strengthens arm and hand . . . And trains the eye and teaches you . . . A sturdy way to stand . . . It is a test of human skill . . . That everyone should try . . . And it provides a lot of fun . . . Wherever arrows fly . . . And after all is said and done . . . It is the mighty dart . . . That wings the way to lasting love . . . When Cupid strikes the heart.
